JUBILEE IS HEARD WORLD OVER AS A NEW CHICAGO

Accepted as Rebirth of Civic Ideals.

Women's Jubilee

This is women's day of the Chicago Jubilee. Hundreds of women, including Mrs. Louis L. Emmerson, wife of the governor of Illinois, and other prominent notables, will attend the gay luncheon of women's clubs this noon at the Hotel Sherman. Mayor Cermak will be a speaker. Details on page 4.

Parades, fetes and other special events mark observance of Jubilee Sunday. Fifty thousand Chicagoans of foreign descent join in festival on northwest side. Page 5.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special]—As a result of the week of Jubilee now drawing to a close all the world knows about the renaissance of Chicago, knows that Chicago turned over a new leaf, and set its feet on the onward path to a glorious future.

The event has been chronicled in reams of columns of space in eastern newspapers in the last week and has been duly recorded in the European press in which the buffooneries of the former mayor had for so many years made the name of Chicago a byword and a blushing.

There is no mistaking the sincerity of the well wishing that the country and the world are extending to Chicago as it turns its face to the dawn of better days. It has been expressed by civic leaders everywhere and in numerous newspaper editorials.

Public Attitude Changes.

The change in the public attitude toward Chicago is already perceptible. Particularly is it noticeable in the national capital, where the odoriferous doings of its municipal government had so often handicapped the city in procuring justice in legislation.

Thus, Chicago starts with a clean slate and no lack of good will heretofore in its drive to obtain the Republican and Democratic national conventions next year and the participation of the national government in its Century of Progress exposition in 1933.

There is every reason to believe that the bill providing for the participation of the federal government in the exposition will be passed at the first regular session of the 72d congress, which will assemble the first week of next December. The bill died in the last congress after having been passed by the senate. It was never considered on its merits in the house, consideration having been prevented by Representative Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.] at a parliamentary juncture when a single objection was sufficient to sidetrack the bill.

Bill Hung on Election.

One of the reasons that the bill fared no better in the house than it did, illuminates the prospect of friendly consideration next winter. The bill came up in the midst of the Chicago mayoralty contest. The former mayor had been renominated and the sure fact of his renomination despite his record was widely regarded as an obvious indication of complacency of the Chicago electorate with all that it stood for. There was evident a disposition on the part of legislators to withhold action on the bill until after the Chicago election, not to mention a disposition on the part of many to offer determined opposition to the legislation if the former mayor should be reflected.

This handicap having been removed it is safe to predict that congress will vote the appropriation for participation of the government in the exposition, thus backing up President Hoover's invitation to other nations to participate.

The Chance for Conventions.

Whether the city will go unfettered by previous ill repute into the race with other cities for the national political conventions.

The Republican convention Chicago's principal rival will be San Francisco. In accord with traditional practice a President is seeking renomination he is allowed to name the city for holding the national convention. Inasmuch as Mr. Hoover is a Californian it is assumed that he will in due time express a pref-

SOCIETY YOUTH SLAYS OFFICER, SELF IN CAPITAL

Washington Stirred by Tragedy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—Robert Shaw Montgomery, 25, Princeton graduate and member of a socially prominent New York family, furnished Washington its latest criminal sensation when at 2 o'clock this morning he shot and killed a policeman, perhaps fatally wounded the manager of the fashionable Club Chantecler, and then shot and killed himself.

So far, the police have established no other motive than a dispute between Charles Garbett, the club manager, and Montgomery, which arose when the manager was unable to supply Montgomery with a table. Garbett, 43 years old, is at Emergency hospital, where physicians say he has little chance to live.

The other victim of the shooting was Policeman Jesse L. Taylor, 40, married, and the father of two children.

Son of Col. Montgomery.

Montgomery was the son of Col. Robert H. Montgomery of New York City, nationally known accountant and attorney. Col. Montgomery and his daughter, Miss Betty Montgomery, came to the capital from New York today.

There also appears in the police record of the tragedy the name of Miss Norvell Munford, member of a prominent Washington family, member of the Junior league, and a debutante of a few seasons ago.

The shooting took place at the Club Chantecler, a night club much patronized by the gayer society set. The club is located on Thomas circle, only a few blocks from the White House.

Montgomery first appeared at the club, accompanied by Miss Munford, about 11 o'clock last night. Asking for a table in the crowded dance hall, Montgomery was told by Garbett that every table was taken.

Becomes Angry and Leaves.

At this, witnesses told the police today, Montgomery became angry and left the club. Outside he and Miss Munford separated. Taxi drivers said that Montgomery went off alone to the Racquet club, where he had been staying since his arrival in Washington a few days ago on a business trip for his father's firm, Lybrand, Ross Brothers & Montgomery.

Returning to the Club Chantecler alone shortly after 2 o'clock, Montgomery suddenly appeared near the door of the dance hall on the second floor. He had a holster and pistol strapped to him. Again Montgomery demanded a table and was told by Garbett that there was none.

"He kept getting worse and worse," a Negro checkroom attendant, William Benjamin, told the police. "He backed Mr. Garbett toward the office and suddenly whipped out the pistol."

Shoots Policeman Next.

Montgomery fired twice at the manager, then started down the stairs. As he did so Policeman Taylor, attracted by the shooting, entered the club's first floor. He had not drawn his pistol. Montgomery fired twice at the policeman, ran outside and in the shelter of a line of taxicabs standing at the curb, put the pistol to his chest and again fired two shots, killing himself.

Montgomery, until a few months ago, was employed as an accountant-attorney for his father's firm and lived in Boston, where he was a member of the University club and the Arlington Rifle club.

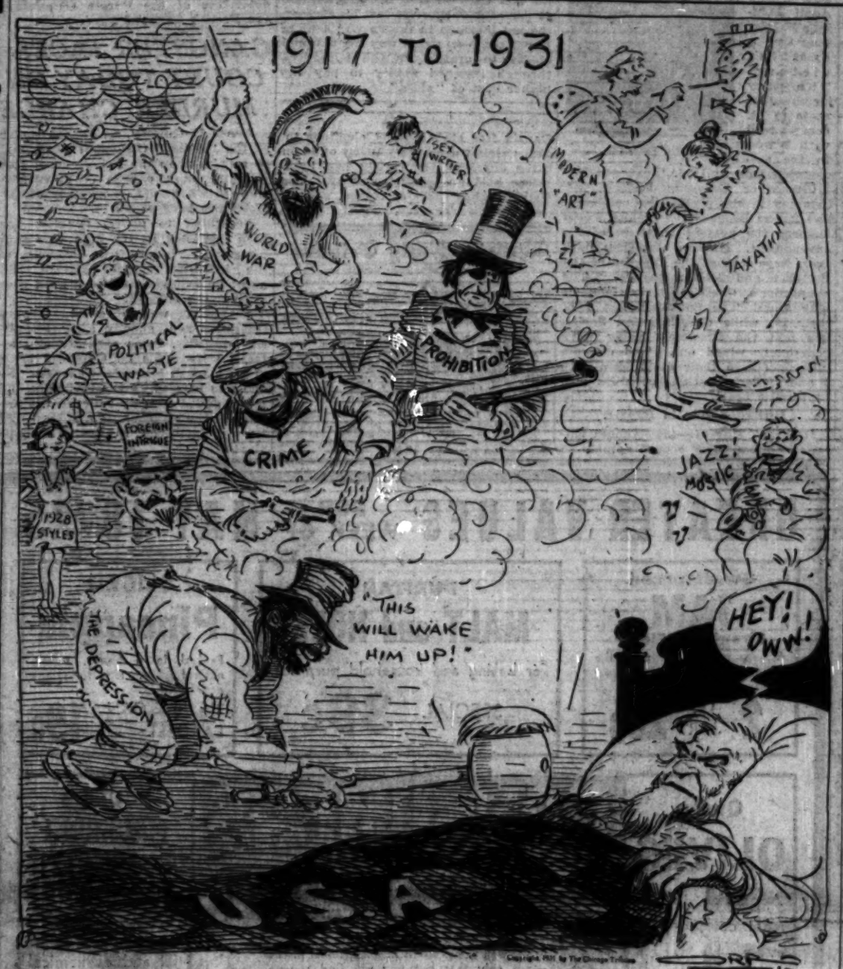
Col. Montgomery, the father, is well known in Washington for his activities in government service during the war. His home is at 969 Fifth avenue, New York. During the war he served in the general staff and represented the war department on the price fixing committee of the war industries board. He is a member of the New York bar, was president of the American Association of Public Accountants from 1912 to 1914, and since 1919 has been professor of accounting at the University of Columbia school of business.

Miss Munford Interviewed.

Miss Munford told newspaper men today that she had been introduced to Montgomery early in the evening by a mutual friend from Baltimore.

"Mr. Montgomery appeared quite distraught and mentioned having taken strenuous examinations of some sort that morning," she said. "After the first incident at the night club he took me home, and I never saw him afterward. I knew nothing of the shooting until I was telephoned later."

THE LONG NIGHTMARE



Budweiser Proves He Is Full of Hops

Angels Camp, Cal., May 17.—(AP)—Somewhere in the crowded pages of sporting history the name of Budweiser, the 1931 champion jumping frog, must go down. He staged a thrilling comeback to sweep the field in the fourth annual Calaveras county frog jumping contest today.

BUDWEISER. [World champion.] brought victory for his master, Louis Fisher, and renown for his home town, Stockton, Cal., was forced to run a gantlet of roaring six guns, screaming men and women and goading children to win first prize with his leap of eleven feet five inches.

Trained to perfection, well conditioned and backed by cheering onlookers camped all the way from Angels camp to Murphy's Flat, Budweiser strained those great legs that would make an epicure's mouth water to repeat his victory won in 1928. That year he defeated a much smaller field. This year he faced the competition of 150 others.

Lurches Toward Line.

Four inches behind Budweiser came Puddle Jumper, owned by John Decchenino of Oakdale, Cal. Puddle Jumper managed to leap 11 feet 1 inch, while Joe placed third with a leap of 10 feet 6 inches. Joe Cesa of Antioch, Cal., owns Joe.

As representatives of the Kinston, N. C., Kiwanis club released Zenobia from his cage he lurched toward the starting line with the nonchalance of a great victor. Women screamed, revolvers cracked, and the town went wild.

Money changed hands quickly, odds went up. But in comparison to the great Budweiser, Zenobia proved a dismal flop. He placed fourth with a leap of eight feet six inches. Smoke, the Washington, N. C., fire departments' entry, did his best at seven feet one inch.

Crowd Hotel Barroom.

Twenty thousand persons jammed Angels camp for the celebration. Murphy's Flat was a tent city. Beds were at a premium. The foot rail in the one hotel's barroom cracked under the weight of heavy boots.

Guns guarded the rival frogs last night. Their backers were determined no one should repeat the trick which defeated Daniel and which was immortalized by Mark Twain. Daniel, champion of champions, lost his most important match and later his owner turned him upside down and he spilled out a handful of buckshot with which the gambler had weighted him.

The debacle of Daniel broke the heart of Calaveras county but won it undying fame by Mark Twain's pen.

BOY WOUNDED BY DISCHARGE OF HOME-MADE GUN

A crude gun manufactured out of a pipe and loaded with powder and buckshot sent Hobert Davis, 13 years old, 2442 West Monroe street, to the county hospital last night with a serious mouth wound. The boy fastened the pipe to a board on a lot in Western avenue between Madison and Monroe streets. He poured powder and the leaden pellets into the pipe and while his playmate, Charles Etcel, also 13, of 143 South Western avenue, looked on, touched it off with a red hot poker. There was a blast, and the charge struck Hobert in the mouth.

Boy with Rabies Taken to Hospital; Bitten Month Ago

Woodrow Gorses, 14 years old, 3161 Loomis street, was taken last night to the county hospital, where physicians found that he was suffering from rabies. The boy was bitten by a dog about a month ago, but the symptoms of the disease became manifest only a few days ago.

3 Dollar Bills? Here's Plenty, Mr. Mellon!

Clem Ivey of Cincinnati, who announced to the papers on May 14 that he owned the only $3 bank note in the world and that the United States treasury had offered him 1,000 per cent profit, must have been spoofing.

If Secretary Mellon needs them he can have several bushels, probably, for an average cost of 15 to 25 cents each. They are worth that as curiosities from the days when every bank with a connection with a print shop could issue notes for any denomination it wished.

The "Wildcat" Money Days.

At least twenty readers of THE TRIBUNE have announced that Mr. Ivey, whose bill was issued in 1841 by a bank in Lebanon, O., is just one of many who have saved relics of the "red dog" and "wildcat" money days. These highly descriptive terms originated from the notes of Michigan banks, which used wild animal pictures to decorate their currency.

In certain periods of American history the wildcat notes folded up in value and many institutions which fathered them failed. Much of this currency, even when the banks were backed by the states and used as state depositories, was accepted at only 25 to 50 per cent of face value, particularly in the 1830s and 1840s.

Bills Take Place of Coins.

Authorities record that after the war of 1812 metal money became scarce, due to hoarding, and that the necessity for small change was met by issues of notes for as little as 6 cents face value. The Continental congress, antedating the constitution, seems to have printed and used $3 bills, a few of which, printed by Benjamin Franklin have values as high as $15 in the antique market.

According to J. G. Vantuella, 3417 South Halsted street, who owns sixty-five $3 bank notes, many southern states issued $3 bills during the civil war, while Missouri had $3, $4 and $4.50 denominations and New Jersey $3, $9 and $11.

Others Who Have 'Em.

R. L. Wickes, 4501 North Racine avenue, owns notes of revolutionary war date for $3, $4 and $8; S. Hyman, 5126 Kimbark avenue, has a $3 note issued by an insurance company; W. R. Faeth, Fort Madison, Ia., has one that was issued at Madison, Ind., and A. C. Knight, 1011 Webster building, owns two.

Others on whom Mr. Mellon could call for $3 bank notes include Alvin Topp, 5344 South State street; Miss Beatrice Wilmot, 2204 West 111th street; Mrs. Robert Robinson, 725 South California avenue; Mrs. C. J. Myers, 8128 Dorchester avenue; Mrs. Warner, 5603 Maryland avenue; Mrs. S. K. Huston Jr., 1163 East 54th place; A. F. Erickson, 334 Baker building, Racine, Wis.; Ben R. Boorman, 210 North Hamilton street, Madison, Wis., and Mrs. Fred Bullen, 6141 Sheridan road.

Speed Holman Killed in Stunt at Air Races

Omaha, Neb., May 17.—[Special.]—Charles N. [Speed] Holman, veteran airplane pilot and winner of the Thompson trophy in the featured race at the national air show in Chicago last summer, died today as he had lived—thrillingly.

His plane, flying on its back at an estimated rate of 300 miles an hour, crashed in view of 15,000 persons. Holman was killed outright. Airwise spectators asserted that his safety belt had broken while his plane was upside down and that he had to loose his hold on the controls to prevent himself falling away from the machine in its flight.

Several minutes before the accident Holman began his series of electrifying feats in a Laird single seater 300 horsepower ship.

Dives with Plane Upside Down.

His last stunt started from a considerable height. It was a power dive, accompanied by a slow roll that took the plane over on its back as he swooped. It carried him directly over the packed stands. Even then he was struggling to right the craft, to turn it back on an even keel.

Somehow he managed to pull up the capsized ship until it was parallel to the ground and moved on over the heads of the anxious onlookers. Pilots in the stands noticed that he was hanging in the cockpit only with a knee brace and was desperately clutching for the controls. For a fraction of a second—scarcely that—it appeared that he might win his fight.

For the barest instant the craft appeared to nose upward. There was no chance, so near the ground, for a wingover maneuver and his apparent intention was to gain altitude with the plane still upside down and to right it later.

Crashes Into Ground.

But he was destined to failure in this last gallant effort. The machine turned, nose down, and at the tremendous speed of five miles a minute plunged to the ground only 150 feet from the stands. The wreckage hung together for an appreciable time and the whole mass, collecting into the semblance of a rough ball, turned over and over. A hundred feet from the spot where it struck, the debris, with Holman's body entangled in it, came to rest.

Emergency workers dashed to the debris. In a minute or two the shattered framework of metal that had been the plane and the shattered body that had been Holman were carried away. A band played—a lively march—and the planes for the next event were ordered to the starting point.

The show went on.

That is a tradition with the men who have entertained the public with daredevil stunts like Holman's for years. In the race which Holman won at the national races in Chicago, Capt. Arthur H. Page of the United States Marine corps plunged to his death when his Hawk plane faltered while it was moving at 200 miles an hour.

Known for Daring Feats.

Holman had long been known as one of the most, if not the most, daring of all the men in his hazardous profession. In February, 1928, he set a new record of looping the loop at Minneapolis, turning over 1,093 times. About a month later he tried the experiment again and made 1,433 loops.

In May of 1929 he won the first Gardiner trophy race by maintaining an average speed of 156 miles an hour over the 468 mile course, from St. Louis to Indianapolis and return. In August of the same year he flew a tri-motored plane at Cleveland's national air races, on its back, the first time this particular stunt had ever been attempted. To top off his performance there, he looped the two ton ship five times.

Recently he had been operations manager of the Northwest Airways, with offices at Minneapolis. His wife was at their home in St. Paul when the crash occurred.

GANGSTER PUTS A PRICE ON HEAD OF BARBER JAKE

Legs Diamond Feud with Con Man Told.

There's a price on the head of John "Jake the Barber" Factor, who is accused of swindling Englishmen out of $5,000,000. Police and federal agents declared yesterday they feared he would be killed before they could arrest him. He is being sought here for extradition to England.

The price on Factor's head is not a legal reward offered for the apprehension of the master swindler who began his operations in Chicago before he became internationally notorious. Instead, according to officials, it is a standing offer, made by Jack "Legs" Diamond, notorious New York gang leader, of a large sum of money to any one who will kill Factor.

Story of Feud with Diamond.

The story is that "Legs" Diamond went to Europe last fall to kill Factor himself. Diamond wasn't allowed to land in England, thanks to Scotland Yard, and was not permitted to tarry in other European countries. Immediately after he was unloaded back in America in October he was shot five times. Surviving, Diamond was again shot three weeks ago while dining in a Catskill mountains roadhouse.

On the occasion of the first shooting, Factor was in London. When Diamond was shot last month, Factor was in this country. These facts are now considered significant by the operatives hunting Factor to serve on him a warrant which was sworn out by Godfrey Haggard, British consul in Chicago. Apparently, the police said, there is a feud to the death between Factor and Diamond.

Reported Background of Feud.

In connection with Diamond's reported reason for wanting to kill Factor and the implication that Factor was back of the two attempts to kill Diamond, the following story was told yesterday.

Several years ago when Factor was in trouble because of alleged fraudulent deals in Florida property he had to get out of the country. Diamond grub-staked him and proposed a scheme of selling fake stock to gullible Britishers. Factor, the glib-tongued promoter whose start toward wealth was grounded in his ability to sell extra tonsorial treatments, lotions, and tonics to customers of his barber shop on South Halsted street, made a deal to share profits with Diamond.

Within a short time Factor achieved success in his financial operations in England. He sold wildcat and nondescript stocks through confidence game methods, even going so far as to print a fake financial paper in which he touted the stocks printed on his own presses. High pressure tactics, the lavish expenditure of money and the trend of the times enabled him to dupe thousands of the English middle class.

Factor Forgets Diamond.

"Jake the Barber" became a prominent figure at the gaming tables of Paris, and at Deauville, Le Touquet and other watering places. His wealth was estimated at more than $5,000,000 but not one red penny, so the story goes, did he send to Legs Diamond, the Brooklyn gangster whose huge booze syndicate was tottering.

Diamond sent demands by mail. Then he sent grim faced men who spoke forcibly and used automatic pistols for emphasis. But Factor was too well guarded for the emissaries to risk a shot at him. Diamond, who was charged with many murders, decided to do his own collecting or killing.

The word that came from London was that Factor had cultivated the friendship of several agents of Scotland Yard. When New York was speculating over the disappearance of Diamond and finally learned he was on the high seas bound for Europe the press of London recorded the fact. Scotland Yard agents met the boat and prevented Diamond from setting foot on shore.

Shipped Back to U. S.

The New York gangster was then perforce carried on to Germany where his welcome was just as frigid. He spent a few days in jail until the German authorities could put him on a freighter, Philadelphia bound.

On Oct. 12, a few days after his return, Diamond was the victim of a mysterious and still unsolved shooting. He was sitting in his room in the Monticello hotel in New York City when three men entered and, according to his story, said: "Well, here we are, let's go," and blazed away at him. At that time no one suspected Factor and Diamond was careful to mention no names.

There was talk of differences between Diamond and Al Capone. But this possibility was dismissed later with the assertion that Capone's killers never half do a job. Diamond recovered.

Then London became too hot for Factor and he packed up his money and came back to the United States. Recently he was known to have been in Chicago. His whereabouts on April 27, when Diamond was again riddled with bullets, were not known then and now are a matter of speculation. Diamond survived the second batch of bullets, which found lodging in his back, and is reported on the mend.

Assistant Held in New York.

Since the warrant for Factor's arrest was obtained in Chicago last week it has become known that his erstwhile assistant, Arthur J. [or Harry] Klein, is under arrest in New York and is awaiting extradition proceedings expected to send him to London for trial on the charge of complicity in the swindles perpetrated by Factor.

It was learned that a man named Harry Klein, said to be a beer runner for Diamond, was arrested in New York while Diamond was on the steamer bound for London. Through this Klein the New York police discovered a supply of bombs, machine guns, hand grenades, and tear gas. Efforts were being made to ascertain if he is the man now under arrest.

At Washington, D. C., it was stated that after the arrest of Arthur J. Klein, an attempt was made to bribe a government agent to get Klein's finger prints out of the national bureau of identification.

On May 7 Frank T. Plowman, a former department of justice employé in New York City, was arraigned in Washington on a charge of having tried to bribe an agent of the government to give him the finger print cards of Klein.

Another Associate Seized.

A third member of the Factor organization to be arrested was Harry Geen, alias Green, alias Gallow, dapper British subject, who was followed across this country and back again and taken into custody Saturday night in a fashionable hotel in Germantown, a suburb of Philadelphia.

He had been traced to the Ambassador hotel in Los Angeles, then to Agua Calients, Mexico, from there to Miami, thence to New York, and was finally snared through a communication from his wife.

The wife, Mrs. Cassie Geen, immediately retained John R. K. Scott, a leading Philadelphia attorney, to defend the prisoner, and it was announced he would resist extradition in England.

Wife Innocent, She Says.

"I had no idea whatever of the business in which my husband was engaged," Mrs. Geen declared. "I had not seen him for seven months when I received a cablegram to come to this country from England to meet him. I understood he was in the stock brokerage business."

Geen told inquirers he was associated with Factor and twenty other men in a syndicate which he said conducted legitimate business. He denied knowing of Factor's reported troubles with Legs Diamond.

Frederick Watson, British consul general in Philadelphia, took a hand in the Geen prosecution and conferred with S. Buschs, chief of the division of investigations of the federal department of justice, relative to the procedure to be followed today when Geen is arraigned.

No More Offers of Surrender.

At the Chicago detective bureau it was said that no trace of Factor has been found and it is believed he has left Chicago. Attorney Arthur Schwartz, who made a tentative offer to surrender Factor to the government on condition he would be admitted to bail pending a hearing on extradition to England, made no further offers yesterday, detectives said. United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker refused to consider Schwartz's first proposal.

The government is interested in Factor's stock market operations here, department of justice agents admitted. Factor's account with the brokerage house of Stein, Alstrin & Co., showed a large profit, they said, and it was doubted that he had ever paid income taxes on it, either here or in England.

Another possibility being considered by the agents seeking Factor is that a kidnaping gang has him marked and may find him before the law catches up to him.

ENDS LIFE IN GOLD COAST LOBBY.

Louis Myers, 25 years old, 1019 North Dearborn street, a hotel steward, swallowed poison yesterday in the lobby of the 942 Lake Shore drive apartments. He died a few minutes after being taken to the Henrotin hospital.

Inquest Today

GERALD CURTIN JR.

An inquest will be held today on the death of Gerald Curtin, 17 years old, 731 South Grove avenue, Oak Park, who was accidentally shot and killed Saturday near Elmhurst. Curtin and three other Oak Park High school students had spent the afternoon in rifle target practice at an abandoned stone quarry near Willow Springs. On their way home the auto in which they were riding hit a depression in Roosevelt road, accidentally discharging the rifle held by one of the three companions. The bullet grazed Curtin's wrist, bounded against the steering wheel and then lodged in his heart.

FASCISTS SCORE A VICTORY AT GERMAN POLLS

Hitler Party Increases Diet Seats to 19.

OLDENBURG, Germany, May 17.—(AP)—Despite governmental assurances that Hitlerism was waning, the results of the diet elections in the free state of Oldenburg today gave Adolf Hitler's Fascist party a smashing victory. The party increased its seats to 19, compared with 3 won in the previous election in 1928.

ADOLF HITLER.

Chancellor Bruening himself participated in the preelection campaign and it was believed the results would indicate the present standing of his government. Hitler's victories, however, were won at the expense of the Socialist and Middle parties. The chancellor's, Centrist party kept its nine seats. The Socialists lost 4 of their 15, while the Christian Socialists and the Economic party were completely wiped out. The communists increased their seats from 1 to 3 and Hitler's Nationalist allies also captured 3 seats.

Hitlerites Win in Danzig.

DANZIG, May 17.—(AP)—Adolph Hitler's Fascists party scored notably in Danzig free state district elections today, gaining a representation of 14 in three districts where they had heretofore held no mandates at all. The districts were those of Hoehe, Niederung, and Grosswerder.

GERMANY GOES DRIER AS BEER TAX GOES HIGHER AND HIGHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 17.—"Now my dear friends and teetotallers, we don't need prohibition—we've got the beer tax," orates an unpleasant looking individual as he waves long arms over a carafe of water and a tumbler. It is a comic cartoon in the Montags Post of Berlin, but what it stands for is not altogether a joke for beer loving Germans.

No one to whom beer is one of the consolations and justifications of life can bear to read the statistics on beer taxing. The price of a "molle"—the favorite Berlin portion, which amounts to about six or seven-twentieths of a quart, is now from 6 to 9 cents, and is expected to go higher.

The "drying" effects of the national and local beer taxes are shown by statistics collected and made public with great emphasis by the German Brewery association. In spite of the fact that the beer tax was boosted 46 per cent during the last fiscal year, the net increase in return was a mere 15 per cent—so much was the national ability to gratify its thirst reduced through lessened ability to pay the higher cost of "suds."

BE A MOVIE STAR FOR $4—LATEST PARIS 'CON' GAME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 17.—The latest mode in highway robberies in broad daylight, was demonstrated this week on the main road in the forest of Senart, near Paris. A wealthy business man, whose name is withheld, was driving through the woods when a smiling, handsome young man signalled him to stop. He said he was the representative of a big movie company.

"I'll make a picture of you in your car for four bucks," said the lad, "and you will just have to call for the film at my office tomorrow." The business man, feeling he had at least realized an ambition to see himself in the movies, accepted enthusiastically and paid over a 100 franc note. With a real star like expression he grabbed his steerling wheel, nonchalantly lit a cigaret and drove slowly while the youth cranked away at what looked like a bona fide movie camera.

Next day the business man searched for the office of the big movie company. He failed to find it. So did the detectives of the Surete Generale—the French Scotland yard.

GANGSTER FACES COURT TODAY ON MURDER CHARGE

James L. Quigley, an alleged leader of the "Spike" O'Donnell gang, will be arraigned in the Felony court this morning on a charge of murdering Edward Fitzgerald, a member of the McErlane beer crowd.

According to police, Quigley has been identified as the man who shot Fitzgerald. Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide squad asserted last night he believed he had a good case against the suspect.

Suspicion was directed toward Quigley when, shortly after Fitzgerald's murder, three separate gun attacks were made on Quigley's home at 6006 South Marshfield avenue. No one was injured by the fusillades, but police seized Quigley to learn the motive for the attacks. It was then that he was identified in the Fitzgerald slaying.

ESTIMATE TOTAL OF TAX PAYMENTS AT HALF OF LEVY

Deadline Returns Will Be Known Today.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Payments on the county's 1929 tax levy of $276,161,263 are considerably larger than forecast, but it now seems improbable that the taxes paid before the deadline will be sufficient to meet the tax anticipation warrants outstanding. The deadline or penalty date was midnight last Friday.

An amount in excess of $121,000,000 has been collected. Payments totaling $114,894,395 have been tabulated and approximately $16,300,000 was in the process of being recorded when Chief Clerk Otto Woerter and 150 assistants of the county treasurer's office quit work last night. In addition there were 24 baskets of mail, estimated by Mr. Woerter at 20,000 pieces, which remained unopened.

The staff will start on this mail at 8 o'clock this morning and Mr. Woerter hopes to have an unverified figure on total collections ready for the conference of Treasurer McDonough with 15 bankers at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The county board redeemed all of its 1928 tax warrants, although tax receipts did not equal the total of the warrants. To make a settlement in full the county board utilized between $40,000 and $300,000 in fees and miscellaneous earnings.

The city and school board need $112,-000,000 to pay 1929 tax anticipation warrants in full. These two governments usually obtain about 65 per cent of the taxes collected, so that to be in excess of $180,000,000 for the city and school board to get $112,-000,000.

Division of Warrants.

The total comprises $36,410,000 of tax warrants of the city corporate fund, $1,622,000 for the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, $1,469,000 for the public library, $750,000 for the teachers' pension fund, $9,150,000 for the bond and interest account, $46,-000 for the educational account of the school board, $15,900,000 for the board's building account and $475,000 for the board's playground account.

The tax payments by mail on the last day before the penalty of one per cent a month is attached were very much larger than ever before, but it is not now anticipated that the collections will run much, if any, above 50 per cent of the taxes levied. This will be smaller than ever before.

The collections have a vital effect on tax anticipation loans because bankers refuse to buy new warrants unless the warrants of the previous year have been paid.

Next to the 1929 taxes, which are now being collected, the worst year for collection was on the 1928 taxes, which were payable last July. In that collection $164,236,130 was paid before the penalty date. That levy was $233,162,-611. In other words, 70 per cent of the 1928 taxes were collected before the penalty date, as compared with an anticipated percentage around 50 for the 1929 taxes.

Did Not Pay Warrants.

The 1928 collections of $164,236,130 before penalty date were increased subsequently to $182,601,267, or to about 78 per cent of the taxes levied. But that was apparently insufficient to permit the city and school board to pay off the tax anticipation warrants issued. Even after the property owners had paid 78 per cent of their aggregate taxes after 1928, there still remained unpaid by the city government $5,965,000 in tax anticipation warrants issued against the corporate fund. And the education fund of the board of education owed $3,250,000 and its building fund $2,450,000 in tax anticipation warrants.

Treasurer McDonough has asked the bankers to suggest a way out. A rumor was printed yesterday that he had alap invited representatives of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers to the conference, who have been proclaiming for months that the property owners "cannot and will not pay" the 1929 tax bill. This organization claims to represent $400,000,000 worth of property. The organization is contending in court that the 1929 tax levy is illegal. It was denied at the treasurer's office yesterday that McDonough had invited to his conference those opposed to payment of taxes.

Urge Payment of Taxes.

The Chicago Real Estate board, which advocates a bond issue to "lift" the 1930 taxes, has been recommending to property owners that they pay their 1929 taxes. It is understood that this organization is willing to present their plan for revenue relief to the treasurer; and they may be given an opportunity tomorrow after the bankers have made their suggestions today.

A group of bills bearing on the tax situation will be presented to the general assembly a week from tomorrow, it was announced yesterday. The bills, eighty-seven in number, were discussed in detail for the purposes of drafting at a meeting Saturday night of officials of the Chicago Real Estate board, counsel for the county board, and a representative of the attorney general's office.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 17.—(AP)—Grant Clark, song writer, author of the lyric hit "Weary River," was found dead last night in the flat of Joseph H. Stone in Hollywood. Police said Stone told them of a prolonged drinking party and the coroner's office reported indications that death was caused by acute alcoholism.

HOOVER IS HOME FROM PARLEY AT RAPIDAN CAMP

Works Out Plan to Save U. S. 20 Million.

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—President Hoover returned to the White House tonight from a conference at his Rapidan camp with Secretary Wilbur and other interior department officials confident that the plans worked out there will result in saving some $20,000,000 in government penses within the next three fiscal years.

The President made a sudden decision after luncheon to return to Washington today in order to be at his desk the first thing in the morning.

Plans Another Conference.

According to the general plan worked out at the camp, Secretary Wilbur and his assstants will inaugurate a policy of further standardization within the department and arrange to defer temporarily certain projects other than pubic works.

Announcement was made at the camp this morning that another group of government officials would be invited there for a conference next week-end.

Son Returns with Him.

The President's son, Herbert Hoover Jr., returned with the party to Washington. It previously had been reported that he probably would remain at the camp in order to recuperate further from his recent illness.

The President and his guests spent the day leisurely about the camp. Mr. Hoover got in but little fishing during the week-end, although what time he did spend netted him a good catch.

23 Michigan U. Students Move Out of 'Frat' House

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 17.—[Special.]—Twenty-three University of Michigan students today moved their belongings out of the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity house and sought lodgings elsewhere. The action, it was explained by Harold D. Golds, president of the fraternity's alumni chapter, was taken voluntarily by the students to forestall a possible order for closing by the university authorities. Delta Sigma Phi, according to reports, is in disfavor with the university because of a drinking party which occurred in the house on April 24. The house will remain closed through the summer.

erence for holding the convention in San Francisco.

In fact, a considerable number of Republican national committeemen, regard it as good as settled that the convention will go to San Francisco. They say this was the understanding reached in 1928 when Kansas City won the Republican meeting. The Californians and other far western delegations were strong contenders for San Francisco at that time but were induced to get into line for Kansas City on assurances from the supporters of the latter city that there would be no opposition in 1932 to sending the convention to the Golden Gate for the renomination of Mr. Hoover.

There is a good deal of opposition to San Francisco, however, on the part of easterners on the score of travel expense. They would prefer Chicago.

The principal rivals of Chicago for the Democratic convention appear likely to be Cleveland and Detroit.

SEEK CONVENTIONS

Special committees of the Chicago Association of Commerce this week will launch a campaign to bring both the Republican and Democratic national conventions to Chicago next year, Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the association, announced yesterday.

The makeup of the committees will be announced no later than Thursday, Col. Randolph said, and they will start immediately on the task of convincing the powers of the two parties that Chicago offers unparalleled advantages as the place to select the presidential standard bearers at the November election next year. Members of the committees will be leading business and professional men.

"The Chicago Jubilee has shown to the whole country how Chicago plays host to its visitors," said Col. Randolph. "It has also called attention to our superiority in physical facilities to handle big gatherings—our railroads, hotels, convention hall, recreations, and amusements. No city in the world is better prepared to handle the national conventions."

The convention committee will emphasize the strategic political position of Chicago and Illinois as the pivotal city and state in the struggle for the presidency.

Candidate Must Carry State.

Political leaders have pointed out that it will be almost imperative for the successful candidate to carry Illinois, which has been one of the battlegrounds on the prohibition, farm relief, and other issues expected to figure in the 1932 campaign.

Col. Randolph said that much of the preliminary work of gathering facts and data to support Chicago's bid for the conventions already has been finished, so that the committee can go into action without delay.

GIRL ACCIDENTALLY SHOT; DIES.

Litchfield, Ill., May 17.—[Special.]—Dorris Woods, 17, of Litchfield, was killed this afternoon when accidentally shot by a friend, Oram Elam, 14, of Coffeen.

POLICE TO WATCH NORTH SHORE PARK MEETING TONIGHT

Members of the north shore park board, whose last meeting resulted in three riot calls to the Rogers Park police, will attempt to hold another this evening in the commission's rooms at 1111 Farwell avenue. A detail of city police will be on hand to preserve decorum.

Three members of the board, who have been holding office for two years or more, are opposed to the seating of Thomas F. Myers Jr. and Patrick C. Winn, although Winn and Myers apparently were elected by substantial majorities in April. They won, on the face of returns, the seats of James P. Ward and Frederick H. Chetlain. Ward, backed by Hyman Kinselberg and Harold E. Leopold, refuses to recognize the election as legal. Chetlain was not at the last meeting and is said to be willing to retire.

Howard P. Savage, another board member, favors the Winn-Myers claims. According to the Ward faction, their only objection to seating Winn and Myers is that such action will cloud the legality of any contracts made or action taken by the board. The board has an annual tax levy of nearly $200,000 and an unused bonding power of about $2,400,000.

WOMEN STAGE THEIR JUBILEE EVENT TODAY

1,500 to Gather at Civic Luncheon.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Today is women's day in the Chicago Jubilee. At noon comes the chief event on the program, luncheon at the Hotel Sherman to be staged by women's clubs.

MRS. EMMERSON. (Russell Photo.)

Three days ago the advance reservations for the grand ballroom were exhausted, and plans were being made to fill adjoining rooms with tables. More than 1,500 paid reservations had been mailed up to yesterday, and a rush of last minute requests for places is anticipated.

From the governor's mansion at Springfield will come Mrs. Louis L. Emmerson to join the festive throng. From the city hall will come Mayor Anton J. Cermak to break bread with this feminine phalanx and to dispense commendation and encouragement for future efforts in a special message. From Association of Commerce headquarters will come Frederick J. Ashley, on behalf of its president, Col. Robert Isham Randolph, bearing greetings from the organization that is backing the Jubilee.

Guests to Be Presented.

Guests of honor for the function will be presented by Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations.

They are Judge Mary Bartelme, Mrs. Pauline Palmer, famous artist; Dr. Maud Slye of the University of Chicago, renowned for her cancer research; Mrs. Margaret Ayer Barnes, winner of this year's Pulitzer prize for her novel, "Years of Grace"; Cyrena Van Gordon of the Chicago Civic opera; Dr. Frances Dickinson, only surviving member of the women's board of the World's Fair of 1893; Miss Agnes Nestor, known for her work in the Women's Trade Union league; Mrs. William S. Hefferan, for years a civic worker and member of the board of education, and Miss Jane Magan, a past president of the Alliance of Business and Professional Women and prominent in the business world.

Mayor Cermak to Speak.

In view of the present tendency toward celerity in such post luncheon programs, the only formal address scheduled is that of Mayor Cermak. Each of the guests of honor, however, has been asked to give two minutes in saluations to the assemblage and comments of whatever form her fancy dictates.

Special guests invited for the occasion include Mrs. Mary A. Wall of Murphysboro, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Robert Isham Randolph; Mrs. Martin Kent Northam of the women's division of the Century of Progress; Mrs. Floyd Kenlay, Mrs. Frank Jirka and Mrs. Richey V. Graham, daughters of the mayor, and Mrs. Edward J. Higgins, wife of the international leader of the Salvation Army, who is visiting here.

Women Guests at Tea.

Business and professional women from the Chicagoland territory availed themselves yesterday of the hospitality of the Alliance of Business and Professional Women at a tea in the ballroom of the Illinois Women's Athletic club. Miss Elizabeth Eckert, president, and other officers of the group welcomed the guests.

Wadeeha Atiyeh, Syrian vocalist, presented a group of Russian, French and English songs during the afternoon, after which the hostesses escorted their visitors to the Merchandise Mart for a trip through the studios of the National Broadcasting company and to the Drake hotel to witness the broadcasting from W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE station.

In addition to the affair of yesterday, the business women will join today with other large organizations participating in the Hotel Sherman luncheon. One of the largest representations present will be that of the Illinois Women's Athletic club, which has reserved ten tables. The Women's Catholic Order of Foresters is next, with a delegation filling six tables.

The chintz of a lifetime . . covers this extra-comfortable Danersk chair

Special—$57

REGULARLY, $111

FOR a limited period, we are deliberately pricing this chair at a figure far below its true value, in order to make it easy for you to start at once a collection of Danersk Furniture.

One of the most interesting features of this little chair is the rarity and charm of the chintz covering—a chintz selected from thousands.

This gay print was inspired by an old-time hooked rug, woven by a Vermont farmer's wife during the long winter evenings long ago, and treasured since 1835.

In ordinary chintz, the pattern repeats every few inches, but in each section of this unusual print there are portrayed 12 different colorful groups of wild flowers which grow in the Green Mountain forests—and never once does the pattern repeat.

One of the reasons why such a chintz is so exceedingly rare is that to print it obviously requires a much larger engraving than normally, and hence is unusually costly.

More than a dozen colors have been blended and superimposed on the mellow Pompeian red background of this delightful material. Indeed, the cheerful appearance of this chair will brighten a whole room.

The comfort of this chair is every bit as exceptional as its good looks. Though intended for the small room, and quite cozy in size, it has been upholstered with as much care, hand-craftsmanship, and refinement of detail as any large chair we have ever built.

Its cushions are stuffed with soft, fluffy goose-down. Its springs have been set in by hand, and tied down individually to the tension productive of greatest comfort. It is very low and squashy and restful.

If you prefer some other chintz than the one here described, there are 9 other perfectly fascinating prints, selected from thousands, in which you may have this chair covered without additional charge.

You are cordially invited to inspect this handsome chair, together with hundreds of other interesting pieces for every room of the house.

WOMEN
APPLY IN PERSON

So many women have found this the door to beauty and health that Mr. White has been compelled to make this extensive addition to his studios and facilities.

25 hours of your time is all that Mr. White asks

Your reward is sure—you'll look 10 years younger

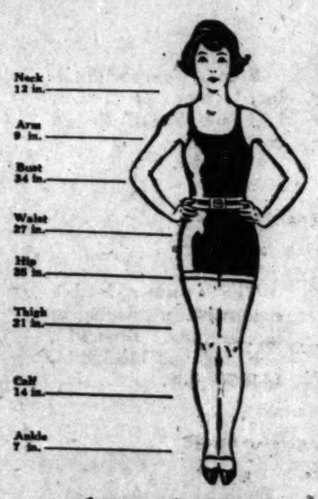
NO LONGER are reducing results uncertain. Now women KNOW that there is a sure way to banish the excess pounds that mar beauty and health. That way is Muscle Sense! Every promise Mr. White makes is fulfilled to the letter. Women are amazed at the transformation they see in themselves. Gone are those excess pounds. Back are the contours of youth. Gone is sallow, lifeless complexion. Back is the fresh, clear skin that every woman wants. Gone are the dull, lusterless eyes. Back is the brightness and gleam that only health can bring.

MORE THAN A REDUCING SYSTEM

No wonder women believe in Mr. White when they see these wonderful changes accomplished. No wonder Mr. White has been forced to enlarge his studios to have facilities for all the women who come seeking health and beauty through Muscle Sense. For over twenty-five years Mr. White has been showing women the Muscle Sense way to a youthful, beautiful body. He is constantly studying—taking university courses in anatomy—gathering new scientific information on the relation between health and weight. The Muscle Sense System which he has developed is different from any other reducing method. Its foundation is health building. He is not satisfied only to reduce you. He makes you feel better than you have in years.

LOOK BETTER—FEEL BETTER

Many women say, after a few Muscle Sense lessons, "I feel like a different woman." That is because Muscle Sense has strengthened the important muscles which support the five vital organs—the heart, lungs, kidneys, liver and intestines. Circulation improves—bodily wastes are carried away—health is restored. Often serious illnesses and even operations are prevented.



Mr. White

AN INVITATION

PARADES, FETES AND MUSIC MARK JUBILEE SUNDAY

50,000 Unite in Great Norwegian Festival.

Today's Program

NOTE.—Chicago Women's Jubilee day.
Luncheon by all women's clubs and societies at Hotel Sherman. Mayor Dever and Col. Robert Isham Randolph will speak.
1 P. M.—Baby parade, 112th street and Michigan avenue.
7 P. M.—Jubilee dinner by white and colored business groups of mid-south side at Vincennes hotel.

Widespread activities, including parades, festivals, motor boat races and special services in numerous neighborhoods marked yesterday's observance of the Chicago Jubilee.

Among the larger celebrations was the parade and program sponsored by the Norwegian National league, in which nearly 50,000 Chicagoans of Norwegian descent joined to observe both the Jubilee and Norway's national independence day. Their gay parade, with various groups in native costumes, started at Humboldt park and ended at Riverview park, where a program of music and speeches was rendered.

Norwegian Alumni Parade.

One of the features of this parade was the group of Norwegian alumni, attired in their picturesque caps, dress, and scenic emblems, singing their ancient college songs in Latin and Norwegian. This group of men and women constituted graduates of the Royal Frederick University of Oslo and the University of Technology at Trondjem.

Another parade was sponsored by the North Avenue and Humboldt Chamber of Commerce. In Kosciuszko park, Kimball, parkway and Avers avenue, nearly 1,500 children participated in a Jubilee festival under the auspices of the northwest park district. The children were attired in uniforms and took part in colorful drills and dances.

The Central church choir, of 125 voices, presented a music festival in the gymnasium of the Olivet institute, 120 Cleveland avenue, as another event of the day's Jubilee program.

Upon Fixed Jubilee Habit.

The services of the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall were dedicated to the Jubilee. Corporation Counsel Samuel X. Ransh, representing Mayor Dever, told the club that the Jubilee has aroused Chicago to itself. It is bringing to the city a revival of optimism, he declared, as well as the return of civic pride.

Dr. Ransh urged his hearers to seize the new enthusiasm "a fixed habit." Dr. Hugh Black of New York, another speaker, said he is greatly impressed with Chicago's interpretation of the meaning of a Jubilee.

The 50th anniversary of Immanuel Baptist church, 3230 South Michigan avenue, was observed with Jubilee spirit. Dr. Johnston Myers has been pastor of the church for 38 years.

More than a score of motorboats speeded over the waters of Lake Calumet during the afternoon, in a series of races that attracted thousands of residents of the South Chicago district.

As part of the International day Jubilee program in Soldiers' field tomorrow night, a group of Greek classical medieval and modern dances is to be presented by 150 young Greek women in native costume, and a Greek orchestra of 100 pieces will give a concert. A choir from the St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox church will sing.

ARREST 5 AFTER SLAYING OF RICH MISSOURI MAN

Joplin, Mo., May 17.—(AP)—Five persons, including a man known as Jimmie Jones, alias Watkins, alias Greere, named by police as a Detroit gunman, were held today in an investigation of the slaying last night of Coyne Hatten, 27, member of a wealthy Webb City, Mo., family and graduate of Notre Dame.

Hatten was found dead from three bullet wounds last night behind a Webb City drug store. Police said Jones was carrying a revolver when arrested. The police also said they found a loaded automatic shotgun in a violin case in Jones' room.

Doris Adams, a Webb City waitress, and three youths, Oral Irby, John Payne, and Howard Malar, all of Carthage, also are held.

Gunmen Take $250, Box of Pens in Drug Store Raid

Three gunmen entered the drug store of Sam Saloman at 3700 Armitage avenue last night, stole the owner's diamond ring, $250 from the cash register and a box of fountain pens valued at $250, and escaped. A customer, Ralph Kolderup, 1532 North Central Park avenue, gave up $6 to the trio.

AIMEE APPEALS FOR MISSIONARIES ON HER RETURN TO TEMPLE

Los Angeles, Cal., May 17.—[U. P.]—Aimee Semple McPherson stirred the congregation in Angelus temple today with an appeal for missionary work on her first Sunday here after her recent trip. She did not preach at the morning service, but made comments between the singing of hymns.

"How many here," she asked, "are willing to give their lives to preach, to go to Africa or China? Stand up. Isn't that wonderful? How many want to dedicate their lives? Come down here and shake hands with me. I haven't shaken hands with any one since I got back."

She led in singing the hymn, "Preach the Word Until the Nations All Have Heard."

OLD FASHIONED REVIVAL HELD IN HOME OF OPERA

Salvationists Sound Call to Repentance.

In a theater dedicated to the most exotic and luxurious of all the dramatic arts—grand opera—members of the Salvation Army conducted an old fashioned religious revival service last night.

The vast Civic Opera house, where dramas of love, hate and other human passions are poured forth in songs with extravagant emotion, was filled for once with the gentle melody of hymns, the voices of evangelists exhorting sinners and the fervid amens of penitents, hearing the call of salvation.

The service began at 7 p. m. On the stage were seated some fifty higher officers of the Army, with their international leader and guest of honor, Gen. Edward J. Higgins of London, in the front row center. In the background hung a stage drop depicting an interior scene of pagan Egypt, a scene last used in the opera Thais.

House Is Well Filled.

The rows of deep cushioned, plush seats, usually occupied by bejeweled women and men in formal attire, were filled even to the third gallery with men and women of the Salvation Army, their families and friends, and casual wayfarers, invited in off the streets. The estimated attendance was 3,000.

The meeting opened with the chanting of "Rock of Ages," followed by the reading of two texts from the Book of Genesis, the first describing the creation of Adam and Eve, and the second telling of the temptation by the serpent. Then began what Gen. Higgins called "the battle for souls."

The white haired Col. Thomas Martin, a Salvationist for forty years, took charge of the meeting. Raising his arms high, he invoked a blessing upon the opera house and its audience.

Invokes Blessing on Throng.

"O Lord, let thy blessing fall upon this beautiful house and this throng within it," he prayed. "We thank thee that thou are the rock of ages, cleft for us, and beseech thee that thou wilt allow many souls now wandering uncertainly in the world to return to thee tonight."

A murmur of amens arose from the house, where the uniformed Salvationists and layfolk sat with heads bowed. The prayer leader called for penitents to come forward.

"Who will be the first?" he asked. "Will you do it? Will you come forward to this platform here tonight, make peace with the compassionate Lord, be bathed in the blood of the Lamb and thus return to the fold of the Great Shepherd?"

The prayerful murmur grew stronger, but no one was yet ready to start the pilgrimage down the long aisle, across a platform to the stage where evangelists were waiting. Col. Martin struck up another hymn, "What Shall the Answer Be?" and the audience sang it with arms upraised.

Youth Moves Down Aisle.

At last a youth of about 17 years moved hesitantly down the aisle, being met halfway by a Salvationist, who threw an arm about him, led him across the platform, and knelt beside him over a chair, as they whispered a prayer in concert. The hymn went on.

Salvation Army lassies in their trim blue uniforms and bonnets of black straw moved up and down the aisles, addressing men and women and asking, "Are you a Christian, sister? How's your soul, brother?"

The meeting closed on the same note as it began, with the old hymn, "Rock of Ages."

During the afternoon a public reception was held by the Salvation Army in the opera house as an event of the Chicago Jubilee. Addresses were given by Gen. Higgins, Samuel Insull Jr. and Lewis E. Myers, president of the board of education.

Drives Stolen Auto While Awaiting Car Theft Trial

Richard McCarthy, 19 years old, 4509 Emerald avenue, steered his car inopportunely yesterday when he crashed into the parked automobile of Frank J. Groves in front of the latter's home at 5400 South Lincoln street. Policeman John Bell arrested the youth. At the station it was learned the machine McCarthy was driving had been stolen on May 4 from W. S. Abbott, 4550 May street. McCarthy, it was learned further, is now under $10,000 bond on a charge of automobile theft. He will be arraigned in Boys' court this morning.

100,000 WATCH REHEARSAL FOR ARMY AIR CORPS

500 Fighting Ships Train for Chicago Show.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fairfield Air Depot, Dayton, O., May 17.—[Special.]—The first dress rehearsal for the army air corps two week' "war" took place over southern Ohio this afternoon. More than one hundred thousand persons gathered on the field and nearby hillsides to watch the 500 fighting ships parade past the reviewing stand. Highways leading to the field were jammed with automobiles during most the day, and Fairfield air depot resembled a huge carnival more than it did a theoretical battleground.

BRIG. GEN. E. D. FOULOIS.

This afternoon's show was ragged in spots, but it served as practice for the big city demonstrations. The timing of different flights past the reviewing stand failed to work out with the precision expected, and there were great gaps in what had been planned as a continuous parade.

Five and ten minute waits between the passing of various units demonstrated to army officials that a lot of practice flying will be necessary between now and Wednesday morning if the ships are to wheel along the Chicago lake front with the rhythmic beat of a well drilled chorus.

Only One Forced Landing.

At the conclusion of the modified division review the army's composite demonstration group, made up of the ninety-fifth pursuit group, the eleventh bombardment unit, and the thirteenth attack group, staged a mimic battle over the field. There was only one forced landing reported during the afternoon drill. Lieut. Leonard Harmon of the second bombardment group was forced down five miles out of Union City, Ind., by engine trouble and hit a fence post in landing. No one was hurt and the damage to the plane was minor.

Two National Guard flyers turned their planes over when they landed at Wright field after the review. The men were shaken up and the planes slightly damaged when they nosed over. The pilots' names were given as Capt. Morgan, New York National Guard, and Lieut. Outlaw, Tennessee National Guard.

Over Farm of Two States.

The 200 pursuit, bombardment, attack, and observation planes that took part in the review began taking off from Fairfield and Wright field, five miles away, shortly after 1 o'clock. The fleet pursuit ships ran out on the field like scurrying quail, and took to the air in formations of three, wheeling down wind when only a couple of hundred feet above the ground. The bombers waddled across the mud patches, shook their tails like ducks, and joined their speedier comrades overhead. The other fighting ships roared away, and soon the fields took on a deserted village appearance so far as aircraft was concerned.

The fighting men scattered over Ohio and parts of Indiana for rendezvous before lining up for the first practice parade. Planes played about over meeting points at Lewisburg, North Dayton, Springfield, Meeker, Ansonia, Manchester, Savona, Troy, Piqua, Sidney, Lima and other towns.

A bit of confusion developed in lining up as some of the rendezvous were too far away and others too near. It was 3:25 p. m. when the cadet flyers at the head of the long line swept past the stand where Brig. Gen. E. D. Foulois and his staff sat.

Orville Wright, who built a bicycle shop into an airplane factory right on the spot where today's maneuvers took place, was in the reviewing stand, and Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet was supposed to be there, but rain over the mountains turned him back to Washington in the forenoon. He arrived late today.

The first wing of 161 pursuit planes flying into a northeast wind were past the field by 3:20, and ten minutes later 36 observation planes climbed over the horizon, flying low and in tight formation. From then on at intervals of five and ten minutes, formations of 36 planes flying in stepped up "V" formations, slipped across the field.

The bombers followed and a squadron of observation planes closed the review, the last ship wheeling by at 4:04, just 39 minutes after the parade began.

Officials Satisfied.

The five hundred planes were in the air for more than two hours, and army officials said they were satisfied with the exhibition as a "preliminary phase of the maneuvers."

Published reports from Washington that "further curtailment of the air maneuvers" was likely caused flyers gathered here to wonder just what exhibitions would be sacrificed.

Lieut. Col. Ira Longnecker issued the following statement regarding the flight training program:

"The commanding general is making every effort in this training program to conserve the strength and stamina of the flying personnel. During the entire time all pilots are under the close scrutiny of the flight surgeons as well as immediate commanders. At the first appearance of fatigue or breakdown the pilot will be taken out until entirely fit again. The general is desirous of one thing more than any other—to get all flyers home after maneuvers."

Final orders for the Chicago trip, which is assured, will not be made up until tomorrow night or Tuesday morning, due to weather reports, but the tentative program is as follows:

Next Tuesday afternoon all units will proceed to airdromes in the Chicago area where the observation ships will proceed to Sky Harbor, Palwaukee and Municipal airports; attack and pursuit planes will be at Curtiss-Reynolds field; bombardment and additional observation planes at Ford-Lansing airport. The planes will arrive between 2:30 and 4:00 o'clock, Chicago time.

On Wednesday morning planes will clear their airdromes between 8:45 and 9:45 o'clock excepting the special combat demonstration group, which will be ready to stage a "battle" over the Navy pier at approximately 10:30 o'clock, immediately following the division review over the same point. The division review will start about 10 o'clock.

The division will form along a route which goes by way of Plainfield, Eola, West Chicago, Spaulding, Glencoe, Winnetka, Wilmette, Evanston, and other shore points, to Navy pier.

Plane Breaks Record in Kansas City-Chicago Hop

An airplane flight from Kansas City to Chicago was made in two hours and 17 minutes last evening by a Lockheed single motor ship, carrying six passengers, and piloted by Chester Bailes of the Braniff Airways, Inc. The distance is 430 miles, and the average speed of the Braniff plane was 182 miles an hour. It is said that the previous record was two hours and thirty minutes.

KIRKLAND'S PALS TO ACCUSE HIM ON STAND TODAY

Testimony Expected to Be Severe Blow.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., May 17.—[Special.]—Virgil Kirkland, brooding in his cell today, was reported by the jail physician to be near a nervous breakdown. The 20 year old Gary youth faces with dread the ordeal of his trial tomorrow, when the state puts on evidence which is likely to send Kirkland to the electric chair for the rape and murder of Arlene Draves.

At Least Two Will Testify.

At least two of the four young men who were jointly indicted with Kirkland for the slaying will turn state's evidence at the hearing tomorrow. They are reported to be Paul Barton and Henry Shirk. There is a possibility that Leon Stanford and David Thompson, the remaining defendants, will also testify against their former friend.

From the lips of these witnesses is expected to come the real story of the killing, a story which has never yet been told. They are expected to recite how the 18 year old girl, lying unconscious in the back seat of an automobile, was ravished repeatedly by four drunken men at the invitation of the youth who termed himself her sweetheart.

That this story will be one of minute detail was indicated by Prosecutor John Underwood, who said each witness would be on the stand several hours.

Will Enlarge on Confessions.

In the short confessions which each youth made shortly after Arlene was declared dead, they each pointed to Kirkland as the one who was with Arlene on the front porch of the David Thompson home in Gary, raped her there after he had struck her and she had fallen to the porch floor, and then carried her to the automobile.

Kirkland had then returned to the party and whispered to his friends an invitation to go out to the automobile, according to their statements. After midnight the group drove a mile to a sandwich stand and while the car was parked in front of this stand the unconscious girl was again attacked by several of them while the matter was a subject for laughter to Kirkland, according to the testimony of a waitress. There was a possibility, according to physicians, that the girl was already dead at that time.

HERE'S PICTURE OF ROADHOG AS OTHERS SEE HIM

Tour Shows Annoyance of Improper Driving.

BY HAL FOUST.

Saturday's fine weather enticed 300,000 motorists onto the highways of the metropolitan area. In this strain on facilities it was found that improper driving detracts from the pleasure of a Sunday on rural pavements almost as much as does the lack of grade separations and adequate parking.

Particularly objectionable to the late afternoon crowds at the city's entrances were the small minority of motorists who still do not handle their cars properly on the forty foot roads, failing to keep in the outside lane except when passing. They might be called the road hogs of the superpower age, descendants of the horse and buggy drivers who would not give up the road.

Dull Drivers Retard Traffic.

The inattentiveness, ignorance, or deliberateness of these few who insist that travel by hogging the center lane at slow speeds prevented the motoring public from receiving the full benefits from their investment in forty foot roads. These drivers retarded traffic and created an avoidable hazard.

The TRIBUNE road car, leaving the city on the Lake street road, was held up by other machines that were blocked behind a Chicago and West Town bus, license 15-961, that was riding astride the lane marker, west bound, at 2:58 p.m. between 25th avenue and Mannheim road.

While waiting in a single line blockade at the narrow pavement of Lake street approaching North avenue, the passenger cars demonstrated another annoying discourtesy of the road, swinging around five or six cars at a time forcing their way back into the line. The license numbers were 9-317 [issued to Eugene Geiger, 1961 North Halsted street] and 389-431. The latest report from the secretary of state includes license numbers up to but not higher than 750-000.]

Illegal Passing Lane.

[One west of Elmhurst, on the forty foot Lake street pavement, 319-934 [issued to Charles R. Stout, 1404 North Waller avenue] remained in the center lane with the outside lane clear, blocking the progress of a car whose driver wished to pass. Just east of Addison, 453-894 [issued to Harry J. Bradish, 1221 South Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn] was in the inner lane of the busy highway traveling 30 miles an hour.

A few miles farther west, traffic swerved with screaming brakes and burning rubber to avoid hitting 454-026 [issued to James F. Hurley Jr., 1433 Fletcher street], which was in the center of the road with a flat tire, going five miles an hour. He soon pulled to the dirt shoulder.

A few miles farther west, 320-272 was traveling 40 miles an hour on the inner lane, while 420-854 [issued to Vito Palazzo, 7616 Harvard street, Forest Park] was blocked from passing. Four minutes later, 759-560 was seen loitering in the middle of the road at 26 miles an hour, with some cars passing on the right and others swinging into the face of east bound traffic. A little later, 358-818 [Elmer W. Tomm, 1502 Lake street, Melrose Park] was astride the black line, occupying space designed for two lanes of traffic.

Ties Up Center Lane.

East bound on Roosevelt road near Wheaton at 4 o'clock, 1-215-540 was in the center of the forty foot pavement going 30 miles an hour with cars passing on both sides. A mile or so farther east, 336-337 was traveling 32 miles an hour, and failed to move over to the outside for a honk from machine that wanted to pass.

A sedan, 186-666 [issued to Joseph Grein, 2110 Irving Park boulevard] was followed for six miles while it stayed in the inner lane with a very-speed between 35 and 40 miles an hour, declining to budge from this position for a machine that was honking to pass. Cars were passing it on the right. In the city directory the Irving Park boulevard address is given as that of Barney Grein & Sons, undertakers. Joe Grein, the city sealer, lives at the Hotel Sherman.

On the twenty foot pavements there were drivers whose speed was so slow that strings of cars piled up behind them. On York road at 4:40 p. m., 892-795 headed a 36 mile an hour blockade, including a machine with a star and 1930 license 1-642-178 (issued to Hudon Wilford, 6317 Claremont avenue).

Others Head Blockades.

A blockade going 25 miles an hour was caused by 589-499 (issued to E. W. Williams, 2030 South 7th avenue, Maywood). On the narrow pavement of Irving Park boulevard, west of Mannheim, 193-417 (issued to Ernest W. Lexom, Glenn Yard, Summit) held a dozen cars to 26 miles an hour.

On the forty foot pavement of Irving Park boulevard, east of Schiller Park, 433-545 (issued to Albert Smid, 2181 North Menard avenue) was hugging the center line at 22 miles an hour, with cars making the illegal and hazardous pass in the outer lane. On the four lanes of River road, 1-162-920 was near the center line going 30 miles an hour with the overtaking cars passing on both sides.

On the Northwest highway's forty foot pavement, northwest of Des Plaines, 572-462 [issued to William R. Gould, 6206 North Harmitage avenue] swung to the left of the center line to pass 149-239 [issued to Charles A. Sweet, 1812 Eddy street] which was traveling on the inner lane at 33 miles an hour at 5:23 p. m., delaying the crowd hurrying home to dinner.

Some Pass on Right.

On the four lane pavement of Milwaukee avenue, just south of Wheeling, 123-269 [issued to G. H. Nelson, 8134 Ingleside avenue], being operated with conservative caution, lingered a bit in the center lane and two machines passed on the right. The second, 20-534 [issued to James Simpson Jr., Wadsworth, Ill.] narrowly averted clipping its rear fender with the front of 123-268. On Milwaukee near Dempster street, 351-328 [issued to Carl E. Nelson, 1257 Roscoe street], on the inner lane, was passed to its left by 662-412 [issued to Joseph C. Kasmiska, 1523 South 60th court, Cicero] while others were passing on the right.

On Waukegan road, another forty foot pavement, 299-118 [issued to F. H. Krause, 6123 South Anthony court] was on the inner lane, doing 29 miles an hour, and was passed on the right by a car with 1930 license 1-362-265 [issued to J. J. Richmond, 4913 Van Buren street].

POSSE HUNTS DRY AGENT'S KILLERS IN MISSISSIPPI HILLS

Booneville, Miss., May 17.—(AP)—Posses went into the wooded hills of Prentiss county today to seek the killers of United States Deputy Marshal Clyde Rivers, 47, the second federal officer slain recently in Mississippi by liquor law violators.

Federal and sheriff's officers arrested at least ten men, but refused to say whether they had captured any of the five who killed Rivers.

Rouey Eaton, convicted bootlegger who police said they believed to be the leader of the gang, apparently had escaped into the remote dry creek section along the Prentiss and Tippah county lines.

The hunt, led by Chief Deputy Marshal Ray Ligon of Clarksdale, promised to rival that for the slayers of Prohibition Agent H. L. Everett, who was shot to death near Collins, Miss.

Rivers was killed as he and Womack halted an automobile bearing five men near here. The firing started when Rivers told the men he had federal warrants for some of them. He fell with a fatal wound and the five escaped under shotgun fire from Womack.

ASK HOOVER TO SPEED 2 BILLION PROJECTS TO RELIEVE JOBLESS

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—The community councils of the city of New York has requested President Hoover to use his influence to have work start as soon as possible on the two billion dollar government construction program approved by the last session of congress as a means to relieve unemployment.

The request to President Hoover made public today states that the community councils feel that from present indications most of the work authorized by government appropriation will not be started before the spring of next year and that "under pressure from the President it would be possible to have most of these projects under way before the end of summer."

"The result would be a great impetus to private business," reads the message to the President.

40 Million Jobless in India; Increase of 25% Last Year

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 17.—There are 40,000,000 unemployed men in India, according to the calculation of Jamnadas Mehta, a Bombay nationalist leader and statistical expert. He considers that over 10,000,000 were added during the last year. Mehta stated that India has heard much about unemployment in England and the necessity of restoring normal Indo-British trade relations in order to help the British working class. But, he urges, the first duty of the future Indian government is to see that there is sufficient work for the 40,000,000 unemployed in India itself.

DEATH, SQUALOR AND GUNS RULE RUSSIAN STEPPES

Troops Everywhere, but Bandits Infest Region.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROSTOV ON DON, U. S. S. R., April 12.—[By Mail.]—"Frankie and Johnnie," that old familiar song, is what I thought of the minute I hit this town with its big rubber tired hacks drawn by decrepit nags and with long bearded isvostchicks as pilots.

This is the capital of North Caucasus, and was one of the last strongholds of the White Guards, hence the bristling array of military force. Red soldiers are everywhere and sentinels with rifles are on guard at many buildings for no known reason.

Homeless old men and homeless boys tramp the streets of Rostov night and day looking for something to eat, a pocket to pick, a place to sleep, or anything they can lay their hands on, as long as it's a bottle of vodka.

Pockets Found Inside Out.

Outside the cathedral, next to the bazaar where the peasants sell their produce, I counted five drunken muliks sprawled, insensible, with their pockets turned inside out, the work of some prowling waif.

Inside the church there was a funeral. The body was exposed in an open coffin, the waxy yellowed hands folded across the breast, a dirty white ribbon placed across the forehead, hiding the open eyes and part of a bearded, emaciated face. The cheesecloth over the rest of the body did not quite conceal the dirty, skinny, bare legs and wasted torso, as people are buried nude, clothes being too scarce and too valuable to be consigned to a grave and tempt ghouls just for the sake of sentiment.

The widow, dark and very young for a man of the deceased's apparent age, shrieked as the priest finished the service. She leaped at the coffin, kissing the dead face inside. Relatives pulled her away, and they, too, kissed the ribbon over the dead man's eyes.

They put two ropes under the flimsy wooden casket and carried it to a wagon, which was to convey it to a cemetery. Another mourner staggered along with the coffin lid, which did not fit when they tried to close the casket. There was considerable banging with a hammer as they forced the lid down and nailed it shut, and every blow was punctuated by a scream from the widow.

For hours before we reached Rostov I gazed across the steppes out of windows of the "soft" car at the vast expanse of black earth, where grain will be planted this spring. I did not see any tractors at work, but did see the ragged mujiks from the collectives, in long lines, driving their scrawny horses, plowing, drilling, seeding, and harrowing. Swarms of peasants and hoboes surrounded the train at every station, fighting to get into the cars, but all seats are numbered, even in "hard" or fourth class cars. Those not holding the lucky tickets were thrust out by the guards and ordered to stay out by the G. P. U. police if they argued about it.

All along these hundreds of miles of railroads there are no outdoor advertising signs. There are no billboards urging one to stop at some one's hotel in the next city or to use some one's coffee or smoke a certain brand of cigaret.

Sees Man Beheaded.

We came through Tagan Rog where a tramp slipped and fell under a switch engine on the next track and was beheaded. The switch engine kept on going, "because the man had no right on the tracks," and presently a station attendant and a soldier came up with a pail and put the head with its ragged fur cap still on, into it, and grabbed the body like a sack of potatoes, being careful not to let the blood spurt on them, and took it away. Then some small boys discovered that all the fingers of the man's left hand had been sliced off, too, and to prove it they picked up the fingers and showed them around.

Dozens of rusting concrete mixers stood in the railway yards at Tagan Rog, and hundreds of agricultural implements stood unprotected in the yards at Rostov waiting shipment, as the train crawled through to the station.

Sentinels with fixed bayonets stood at the entrance to the Don river bridge. Around the bastions and piers of the structure I saw trenches and barbed wire and machine gun emplacements.

Soldiers stood leaning on their rifles around the railroad shops intently watching groups of ragged, aged individuals who carried material like Kulaks, but perhaps they were political prisoners or just ordinary civil convicts.

Then two more men under guard strolled along carrying a huge pot brimming full of prison soup for their colleagues, who dropped their shovels and wheel barrows and, still under the eye of the guard, sidled over and proceeded to have dejeuner.

TWO CHICAGO BOYS WIN R. O. T. C. MEDALS AT STATE UNIVERSITY

Urbana, Ill., May 17.—[Special.]—Two Chicago boys, members of the University of Illinois R. O. T. C., will be among those to receive medals for military excellence at the annual military day exercises to be held at the state institution May 23.

Some 3,000 students will take part in the inspection and review. Gen. Frank Parker, commandant of the Sixth corps area, will be the reviewing officer.

F. D. Hollenbeck, 7161 North Ashland boulevard, Chicago, will be presented with the sophomore medal, while E. Durand, 1104 East 46th street, Chicago, will be awarded the cavalry medal.

GREEK WOMEN REFUSE TO VOTE; MAY LOSE RIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, May 16.—Unlike their militant sisters in other countries who have fought consistent and stirring battles for the right to go to the polls and pick officials, the women of Greece refuse to vote. Although 14 months have elapsed since a government decree granted sufferage to women over 30 in municipal elections, only 4,257 out of 3,128,459 in Greece have registered.

This indifference has gone on despite an intense campaign which has been waged throughout this time by two Athens suffragists, Mrs. Avra Theodoropoulo and Mrs. Salvo. Official circles are wondering if this extraordinary attitude of Greek women is due to their devotion to their household, or whether it is because the registrar insists on knowing the exact age of all voters.

As a result of this attitude, it is said, the decree may be repealed and sufferage for women in Greece deferred until the women of the country are "more mature."

POLICEMAN SHOT BY COMRADE IN FIGHT AT N. Y. NIGHT CLUB

New York, May 17.—[U. P.]—Two men, one a policeman, were shot during a fight early today in "Sloppy Joe's," an all night suburban rendezvous designed to provide something of the atmosphere of "Sloppy Joe's" of Havana.

The fight, police said, occurred after Mark Costello brought a chair down on the head of Patrolman George E. McDonald when he interceded in an argument between Costello and another officer, Patrolman William O'Connor.

McDonald drew his service revolver and fired three shots, witnesses said. The first went wild, the second struck O'Connor in the throat, and the third hit Costello in his left shoulder. O'Connor and Costello were taken to hospitals. McDonald was arrested on a charge of felonious assault.

RUSSIA ON VERGE OF CALLING TRUCE IN ECONOMIC WAR

Reported Ready to Help Europe Fight Slump.

BULLETIN.

GENEVA, May 18.—(AP)—Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, today proposed to the council of the league of nations to refer the projected Austro-German economic union to the permanent court of international justice [world court] at the Hague for decision as to its legality. Legality, he said, was in question because of the treary of St. Germain, by which Austria made peace with the allies and the Geneva protocol of 1922, by which, in return for a loan Austria reemphasized her intention to maintain unfettered independence.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 17.—League of nations circles believe tonight that soviet Russia is ready to declare a truce in its economic war against the rest of the world and cooperate with the capitalistic nations in trying to solve the present business depression.

DR. JULIUS CURTIUS

Russia's delegates, headed by Maxim Litvinov, commissar of foreign affairs, are expected to come forwad within a day or two with counter proposals to the European economic plans presented by Aristide Briand of France, Dr. Julius Curtius of Germany, and Dino Grandi of Italy. The bolshevik commissar was keenly interested in the discussion of the French memorandum for an economic union of Europe yesterday, and spent the whole session scribbling notes.

Eagerly Awaits Russia's Plan.

Closest secrecy is being preserved regarding Moscow's proposals, but it is virtually certain that Litvinov will drop the usual soviet attitude of "poopoohing" all the suggestions of the capitalistic statesmen and present a workable plan which can be discussed seriously.

League circles attach great importance to Litvinov's presence here. It is the first time that the soviets have ever participated in an international economic conference. The switch from Russia's traditional attitude is declared to be due to the difficulties encountered in carrying out the five year industrialization plan. Russia, they insist, is now convinced that while she may gain some advantages from the economic distress among the capitalistic nations, she will find it difficult to complete her own progam unless these nations are able and willing to help them.

Tomorrow morning interest will be centered on the league of nations' council meeting where the proposed Austro-German customs pact arises for discussion. As a result of a conference last Friday between Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary; M. Briand, Dr. Curtius and Sig. Grandi, Mr. Henderson will move that the projected Austro-German economic accord be submitted to the world court for judgment as to its legality. Such action will be considered a victory for M. Briand, as the Berlin-Vienna issue will then be shelved, at least temporarily.

Schober to Back Curtius.

Contrary to previous expectations, Dr. Curtius will be backed up in his arguments for a trade union by Johann Schober, vice chancellor of Austria, who will probably make a spirited defense of the proposed pact. Thus there looms possibility of a lively debate despite the general feeling to prevent any disputes.

Dr. Curtius and Herr Schober are sticking to their guns, which was indicated in the German delegate's speech yesterday, and the French feel less sure of their position than they did last week.

They issued a long memorandum today bristling with arguments to show the illegality of the Austro-German accord, winding up with a warning that any attempt on the part of Austria and Germany to put through their accord before the world court has rendered judgment on it will lead to certain trouble. France also argues that the pact will mean that Germany will eventually absorb Austria.

BOY CHASES BALL INTO STREET; HURT BY AN AUTOMOBILE

Francis Radigan, 9 years old, 2139 Sheffield avenue, was run down and seriously injured by an automobile yesterday when he pursued a ball into the street at Webster and Sheffield avenues. The driver, John Helfer, 47 years old, 1952 Fremont avenue, stopped and helped put the boy into the machine of another motorist who volunteered to take him to the Alexian Brothers' hospital. Helfer drove away. One of Francis' playmates jotted down his license number, and last night Sergt. Lawrence O'Keefe of the Hudson avenue station arrested him on a charge of failing to report the accident.

One death was reported yesterday, increasing the Cook county motor toll to 430 since Jan. 1.

Mrs. Mary Fikar, 42 years old, of 6504 27th place, Berwyn, died at the Frances Willard hospital of injuries suffered May 3 when she was struck by the automobile of Mrs. Anna Bittin, 3258 West 111th street, at 22d street and Cicero avenue, Cicero.

A mother and her two daughters were seriously injured last night when the automobile in which they were riding, driven by her husband, collided headon with a stationary car on the outer drive near Sixty-fourth street. The injured are Mrs. Stella Werbila, 32 years old, 4029 South Pulaski avenue, East Chicago, Ind., and her two daughters, Clara, 3 years old, and Marjorie, 6 years old. The father, Joseph, was arrested by the Woodlawn police.

7 DIE AS AUTO IS HIT BY TRAIN ON A CROSSING

Calamus, Ia., May 17.—[Special.]—Seven young persons, four girls and three boys, were killed here this afternoon when a North Western limited passenger train struck their automobile as they drove onto a double crossing. An east bound freight train had just passed, and apparently the young driver of the automobile did not see the west bound passenger train tearing down upon them.

The dead are Martha Berner, 20 years old; her three sisters, Medora, 19; Bernadotte, 16, and Monica, 15; Mitchell Beyers, 16; Arnold McCloud, 13, and Walter Mumford, 17. Young Mumford, driver of the car, resided at Dewitt, Ia. All the others lived at Toronto, a few miles from here.

The train hurled the small car a block down the right of way, and the seven bodies were scattered alongside. Witnesses said the crossing watchman frantically waved at the youths as the car was driven on to the track, but they failed to see him.

TRAP 2 ROBBERS AS THEY HOLD UP CLERK IN HOTEL

Two robbers were captured by the police early this morning in the act of holding up John Douglas, clerk in the Olympic hotel, 1015 North Clark street. When the pair, one armed with a sawedoff shotgun and the other a pistol, demanded the money of the hotel, Douglas told them the manager, Harry Rubenstein, had taken it upstairs. They were trying to compel him to tell which room Rubenstein occupied when a bellboy slipped unnoticed from the place and called the police.

Lieut. John McGinnis and a squad arrived immediately and arrested the bandits, who gave their names and addresses as Samuel Pers, 1544 North Maplewood avenue, and George Schreiner, 4911 West 28th place, Cicero.

GERMANY SEIZES 3 FRENCH PLANES; ARRESTS FLYERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SCHWEINFURT, Germany, May 17.—Three French pursuit planes, each armed with two machine guns, landed at the Schweinfurt airport today and were instantly seized by the authorities. The pilots were detained in a local hotel under police observation.

The flyers, a lieutenant and two noncommissioned officers, explained that they were instructed to fly their planes from Lions to Colmar, but lost their way. They claim that they mistook the river Main for the Rhine and flew further into Germany.

HUNGARY SHOUTS PROTEST AGAINST TRIANON TREATY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 17.—One hundred thousand people marched along the Danube river today protesting against the Trianon treaty, which they allege robbed Hungary of two-thirds of its territory. Mass-meetings were held throughout Hungary with the intention of impressing the present meeting of the council of the league of nations with the importance of revising the treaty.

The Hungarian League for Revision has more than 2,000,000 members.

U. S. CAVALRY ON MOTORS NOT TO DIM DOUGHBOY

Foot Soldier Still Army's Backbone, M'Arthur Says

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—Plans for the reorganization and development of the army along modern lines were announced today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff. They include extension of mechanization and motorization throughout the army, the revamping of the historic cavalry arm by the substitution of fighting machines for horses, and the development of powerful tank forces to be attached to army corps, or field army, rather than the infantry, which remains the basic arm.

The cavalry is hit the hardest by the new modernization program. The horse as a weapon is abolished as obsolete, although the plans call for retention of some horsed cavalry units for use in rough country unsuitable for machine warfare. The army's mechanized force now at Fort Eustis will be reorganized at once as a reinforced cavalry regiment. Combat cars, equipped with machine guns and possibly heavier weapons, which can travel seventy miles an hour on hard roads, are counted on to give the cavalry high mobility.

Used for Flanking Attacks.

As visualized by Gen. MacArthur the mechanized cavalry units, equipped with fast combat and armored cars, will restore the cavalry's former superiority of movement and once again play an important combat rôle, before, during, and after the battle. The MacArthur plans call for the use of mechanized cavalry regiments or divisions for flanking attacks, just as Sheridan used his cavalry in the closing days of the civil war.

These fast new motorized units with heavy fire power and great speed would be utilized to strike strong points far in advance of the regular troops, for pursuit work in event of victory and for the other missions where speed is a requisite.

The development of the Christie combined track and wheeled tank, a weapon capable of a road speed of 70 miles and a cross-country speed of forty miles largely is responsible for the decision to prepare to reorganize the cavalry at this time. It has also played a part in the decision not to make tanks a part of infantry equipment, although tanks will be utilized in the infantry advance.

Tanks Support Infantry.

The MacArthur plan, as explained, is to send the tank organizations to the infantry when needed for a particular purpose in the attack, and then withdraw them for use at another point. Heavier, slower tanks, will be used for blasting an opening for the infantry than will be utilized with the cavalry.

Despite the more extensive use of machines, the infantry will remain the backbone of the army according to Gen. MacArthur's program. In his opinion, as announced today, the infantry's ability and power to fulfill its mission of closing with the enemy make it "the decisive arm."

"Its success," he states, "is a prerequisite to army success, consequently its efforts must not be dispersed in the performance of auxiliary and supporting missions by other arms."

Organization on Paper.

Notwithstanding the broadness of the program announced today there was little evidence to indicate that the new organization will be anything but a paper one for some time to come. The army does not have sufficient modern fighting machines completely to equip even one of the fourteen cavalry regiments. This means that for the present at least cavalry will use horses and mules. The plan under discussion is to cut down the number of horses radically and utilize the savings in the purchase of new armored and combat cars if this program meets White House approval.

While expressing sympathy with the new cavalry organization, high cavalry officers still assert that the horse remains a valuable part of that organization's divisional equipment, and must be retained for the accomplishment of missions not suited for machines. The war department high command rode roughshod, however, over the opinions of many cavalry officers, and ordered the change, despite opposition in some quarters. The decision to reorganize rather than abolish the cavalry was supported by Gen. MacArthur.

After explaining that the missions of the cavalry still include long distance scouting, seizing points of strategical and tactical importance, pursuit of the enemy, exploitation of victory, and fighting in certain instances, Gen. MacArthur emphasized the part to be played by the new cavalry as part of a reserve force.

"It is not difficult," he said, "to visualize a reserve of the future, moving out in column from head to rear—cavalry [mechanized], units of the tank corps, infantry temporarily embused, all elements being able to move at a uniform speed without noise. Field artillery must be prepared to support such force with units especially organized and equipped to accompany it."

To enable the cavalry to perform the missions enumerated under modern conditions the following program was worked out by the war department.

Two Types of Cavalry Units.

"The cavalry will undergo such general reorganization and reequipment as will enable it best to perform the missions enumerated above. This may require at least two types of cavalry regiments. One [horsed] in which the horse and mule may remain only where they cannot be replaced by the motor for the performance of difficult tactical missions, or for operations in difficult terrain where the horse and mule still give us the best mobility. A second type of cavalry [mechanized] in which the horse and mule shall have disappeared entirely."

TREASURE SHIP LOST 30 YEARS AGO FOUND OFF SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Cal., May 17.—[U.P.]—The wreck of the Pacific Mail liner Rio de Janeiro, which went down off Golden Gate in 1901 with the loss of 128 lives, has been located, according to Charles O. Haskell, salvage expert, who laid claim to "all bullion, money, and other valuables that may be found in the wreck or vicinity." He did not divulge the exact location.

And today the archives of insurance firms, banks, and shipping concerns in the orient were being searched for verification of the most persistent legend of the San Francisco waterfront—that there was from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000 in bullion aboard the Rio when it struck a hidden rock off Fort Point. The truth of the story has been a controversy in shipping circles for 30 years, although no record ever has been produced to substantiate the tale of gold.

In the early morning of Feb. 22, 1901, in darkness and a dense fog, the Rio struck a submerged reef off Fort Point.

So quickly did the big ship sink that less than half of its passengers—women and children for the most part—had cast off in small boats before the waters closed over the bridge. It was one of the first of the tragic episodes that started the tradition of "women and children first." Survivors told of men who got aboard lifeboats and then leaped into the sea to make room for women and children.

FRENCH STANDING ARMY REDUCED TO 522,000 MEN

MULHOUSE, France, May 17.—(AP)—France's army now numbers only 522,000 men, compared with 725,000 in 1922, Andre Tardieu, minister of agriculture, today told a gathering of reserve officers. He said the reduction necessitated the fullest functioning of the defensive system and instruction of reservists must not be neglected. He reported there also were 130,000 reserve officers, 98,000 of them world war veterans.

Sailings June to September

CRUISE to the heart of Old French-Canada. We take you by rail to Toronto, Queen City of Canada, where your foreign adventure begins. You set sail on a luxurious steamer, one of the world's largest fresh water fleet. You will visit, en route, Montreal—the metropolis, and the fortress city of Quebec, Gibraltar of North America.

You will cruise among the Thousand Islands—set like a thousand jewels in azure blue waters, experience the thrills of shooting the great St. Lawrence Rapids. Near Quebec you will pay your respects at the miracle shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupré and hear the thunder of Montmorency Falls, higher than Niagara.

Beyond Quebec the high Laurentians follow the St. Lawrence and you cruise in the shadow of these ancient mountains. The steamer puts in at fashionable Murray Bay, and quaint and lovely Tadoussac, Canada's oldest settlement. The glory of the Saguenay River, seen at sunset and again at dawn, is a spectacle to impress the most widely traveled. The wild grandeur of Trinity Bay, guarded by the tremendous capes, Trinity and Eternity—the ship's siren reverberating like giant laughter among the eternal hills—gives you a touch of the loneliness, austerity and beauty of the silent places.

A spirit of gaiety prevails for the entire journey, and there is not a dull moment on ship or shore. You dance every evening to the music of a lively orchestra. Delicious meals satisfy ravenous appetites. You will vote this the best vacation ever.

Remember, every expense on this enjoyable cruise has been foreseen and included in the figure quoted above, as well as stop-overs at important hotels en route. A courteous escort relieves you of every travel worry.

SPANISH CHURCH FIRES BRANDED AS SIN BY POPE

Says Responsibility for Violence Is Great.

VATICAN CITY, May 17.—(AP)—In the first public declaration he has made on conditions resulting from the recent riots in Spain, Pope Pius XI today described the burning of religious houses as "sacrileges against God and holy religion." A heavy responsibility exists, he said, for the violence committed.

The pope addressed a group of Spanish pilgrims headed by the auxiliary bishop of Valencia, who came to Rome to celebrate the 40th anniversary of the labor encyclical of Pope Leo XIII.

"What can we tell you," the pope said, "at such a distance, with such uncertainty regarding news? We are sorry to say, however, that there is a certainty of many unhappy and sorrowful things.

Says Responsibility Is Great.

"It is also certain that there is a great responsibility on those who have caused and who have done these unhappy things. Very great also is the responsibility of those who allowed these things to take place and have not hindered them.

"Certainly conditions in Spain already were too much compromised and menaced by many evils without need that there be added these violences, these sacrileges against God and the holy religion. We pray God that he will reply with his justice to these provocations, but that he will be merciful."

Everything is in the hands of God, he goes added, and the hope for the future lies with God.

"The hand of God is always ready," he said, "and from one moment to another can show itself and change everything. We have, therefore, faith that we are in the hands of God because nothing better could be hoped for. It is with these sentiments that we give you that benediction which we have come to ask even in these sad days.

"Church Benefit to Nation."

"We hope these beautiful banners of yours, under which you have struggled so gloriously, return to Spain with their ancient glory after so much harm done to religion and to your country.

"The benefit of religion is a fact of supreme value to a country and, even if there are other benefits of importance not worthy of interest, there is none with more profound interest and importance, both for country and for religion."

In conclusion the pope told the pilgrims to tell their countrymen he was praying for Spain. After expressing his affection, he blessed all those present.

400 YEAR OLD SCHOOL TURNS COLLEGIATE, AMERICAN STYLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 17.—The regents of the 400 year old University of Sarospatak plan to instill American college life into that venerable old school. Land for athletic fields has been purchased and houses in the surrounding village have been acquired to be turned into homes for the students. Instead of German or Latin as heretofore, English will be a required language.

DEPORT CATHOLIC BISHOP

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, May 17.—Bishop Mugica of Vitoria crossed the Franco-Spanish frontier going north tonight to join his primate, Cardinal Archbishop Segura of Toledo, in exile. Behind him was an expulsion order from the provisional republican government in Madrid.

Like Cardinal Segura, Bishop Mugica refused to accept the republic lying down. Two weeks ago an energetic pastorial letter brought the watchful civil governor down with an order for his removal. Since then local authorities charge he has been going about exhorting the Basques of the ancient Carlist capital against the republicans and urging them to vote for the monarchists.

Expulsion Kept Secret.

His expulsion, which was quickly decreed, was kept secret until he was safely across the frontier. This was done to avoid possible disturbances.

Bishop Mugica will join Cardinal Segura at Lourdes, whence they will both go to Rome indefinitely. There they will hear an exposé of the Vatican's conciliatory policy towards the new republic which Papal Nuncio Frederico Tedeschini is carrying out in close agreement with the ministry of justice.

Although small riots occurred today in the capital in which two were wounded, martial law will be lifted here tomorrow and on Thursday in the south of Spain. Today was the 45th birthday of Alfonso of Bourbon, the exiled monarch, but Madrid did not celebrate. A few monarchists gathered by lock and key and furtively drank to the health of the fallen king.

Alfonso Lunches in Paris.

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, May 17.—(AP)—Former King Alfonso of Spain celebrated his 45th birthday anniversary today, taking the royal family to Paris for a private luncheon. They all spent the afternoon motoring and returned to their hotel this evening.

TROOPS FIRE ON EGYPT ELECTION RIOTERS; 9 SLAIN

CAIRO, Egypt, May 17.—(AP)—Nine persons were killed and 50 wounded in election disturbances during the week-end. The most serious disorder was a fight last night between troops and rioters at Mitgamr in lower Egypt after the beating to death of a subcommandant of police. The soldiers fired into the crowd, killing six persons and wounding 23.

One British subject was killed in Cairo and one of two rioters injured in the Saida Zeinab quarters yesterday died later. Police fired into a group of demonstrators there after the unruly crowd had started throwing stones.

Other disturbances were reported today, including the derailment of a passenger train near Damanhour. This caused no casualties. Ballot boxes were stolen in various provincial districts.

The clashes were due to tension existing between the government of Premier Sidky Pasha and a coalition of Wafdists [Nationalists] and Liberals.

The Wafdists and Liberals instituted a vigorous campaign to boycott the elections, refusing to recognize the electoral system under which they are being held.

Prior to last June, when the Wafdists held office, the constitution provided for election of members to the chamber by direct universal suffrage. When Sidky took office he introduced the present indirect system under which the country votes for delegates who then elect the actual members of parliament.

AUSTRALIA FINDS PENSIONS CUT BIG HOLE IN TREASURY

One-tenth of Population Receives Awards.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANBERRA, Australia, May 17.—Australia is not only in debt up to its chin, but its credit is rapidly reaching the vanishing point. The Labor government, headed by Premier James H. Scullin, is feverishly struggling to escape the financial morass in which it is imbedded.

When the financial year closes on June 30, the country will have on its hands a $110,000,000 deficit, despite a widely heralded economy campaign and budget balancing drive. Even a greater surprise is the fact that the commonwealth is responsible for $60,000,000 of this deficit, and the state of New South Wales, the other prodigal spender, for $40,000,000.

Treasury experts divide the remaining $10,000,000 deficit among five states as follows: Victoria, $750,000; Queensland, $1,000,000; Western Australia, $4,500,000; Tasmania, $500,000, and South Australia, $3,250,000.

Plans Referendum in Crisis.

The government, realizing that emergency measures must be taken at once, will submit to the people in the form of a referendum its requests for sweeping powers in industrial, commercial and financial matters to find a way out of the crisis.

On the same day that the financial year closes the government's $25,000,000 treasury bills fall due in London. The bills will be impossible to renew or reissue. It was planned to meet the debt by sending $25,000,000 in gold from the reserves of the Commonwealth bank overseas, but parliament rejected the bill by an overwhelming vote.

Strange as it may seem, no Australian government has balanced its budget since 1929, and heavy demands have been made upon banks for money to carry on. At the end of the current financial year, the accumulated deficits of the seven governments of Australia will total $310,000,000, a staggering debt for federal services provided for a population of 6,500,000.

Blame Pensions System.

Of this sum, the commonwealth itself is to blame for $82,500,000 and New South Wales for $70,000,000. Then follows South Australia, home of another Labor government, with $19,000,000. The states of Victoria and Western Australia were the only ones to keep their expenditures within the revenue in 1928-'29. In the previous year only Tasmania and Queensland showed surpluses.

A calm study of this financial debacle in an effort to locate the causes has revealed sensational facts. The government has discovered that the Australian pensions system has cost $1,050,000,000 since its inauguration. The pensions system includes a $25 award for each child born, old age and invalid pensions, which became operative in 1910, and war pensions, which started in 1916.

Total payments under these three heads have been as follows: Old age and invalid pensions, $557,000,000; war pensions, $444,000,000, and maternity allowances, $58,000,000. The burden of the old age and invalid pensions stunned officials, who figured that out of every 10,000 inhabitants, 833 persons are on the public "pay roll" for these two classes of pensions.

Public "Pay Roll" Mounts.

Since 1910 the number of persons receiving pensions has increased from 65,492 to 218,500, a range in cost of $7,465,000 to $53,175,000. War pensions have leaped from $1,840,000 in 1916 to $33,310,000 in 1930.

The maternity bonuses have been steady. In the first year, 134,998 mothers received payments. Last year they totaled 128,598, or an average expenditure of $3,000,000 per year.

The two most important features of these pensions are that they have been paid from borrowed money and that no government has had the courage to reduce them. Though the states are floundering in a financial mire, the respective governments have pledged themselves not to touch the pensions.

A keen politician, Premier Scullin declares that he would do anything rather than penalize the aged and the war heroes. The political force of this statement is clear when one considers that there are now 279,285 war veterans getting pensions, which, added to the other lists makes a total 633,383 pensioners, or more than one-tenth of the population.

Recover Body from River; Clothing Tags Are Missing

The body of an unidentified man, about 30 years old, was recovered from the Chicago river at 18th street yesterday. All marks of identification had been removed from his clothing. The man wore a blue suit of good material, white shirt, blue tie and black shoes. The body was described as that of a man five feet six inches tall, weighing 165 pounds. It is believed to have been in the water about two weeks.

LEGION EXECUTIVES PROTEST PROPOSED STATE TOBACCO TAX

EDWARD F. McGINNIS.

The proposed state tax on cigarets, cigars, and tobacco was condemned in a resolution adopted yesterday by the state executive committee of the American Legion at its regular meeting in the Great Northern hotel. The resolution was offered by Edward F. McGinnis, commander of the 5th district, Chicago.

A 2 cent tax would be placed on each package of cigarets by the bill which is pending in the house of representatives at Springfield. The levy would produce an estimated $20,000,000 a year in revenue.

The Legion resolution declared that such a tax would work a hardship on ex-service men's organizations in providing tobacco to disabled veterans in hospitals. Because of the high federal taxes contributions to the hospital tobacco funds are insufficient now to keep the disabled veterans properly supplied, the resolution said.

"We feel that this tax would be un-American and discriminatory," explained Mr. McGinnis. "As well as being a hardship on tobacco users it would hurt Illinois business concerns for as a result tobacco would be bootlegged into the state from other states where there is no such tax."

Copies of the resolution will be sent to Gov. Emmerson and to both houses of the legislature.

CHINA LAYS DOWN FIVE DEMANDS IN RUSSIAN PARLEY

Insists Soviets Must End Red Propaganda.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, May 17.—The terms of the Nationalist government, which were carried to Moscow by Mo Teh-Hui, Chinese delegate, which seemed to have caused another halt in the negotiations for resumption of diplomatic relations and over the Chinese Eastern railway and possibly may result in another deadlock, are said to be these, according to seemingly reliable information in the legation quarter:

1. The Chinese Eastern railway and all its properties within the Manchurian provinces shall be redeemed by China.

2. The trade relations between the two countries must be upon an equal and reciprocal basis.

Demand End of Propaganda.

3. The questions of the resumption of diplomatic relations are not to be discussed until Russia has given an undertaking to refrain from communist propaganda in all parts of China, including the vast territory in the northwest, most of which is inhabited by Mongol tribes and Buriats. The number of Chinese in the area is comparatively trifling.

4. Russia must withdraw her troops from outer Mongolia and return all her acquired privileges there.

5. There should be a new demarcation of boundary lines between Russia and China.

There have been no diplomatic relations with Russia since 1927, when Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian war lord, who was sitting in Peiping until a government could be formed, dismissed Ambassador Karakhan and raided the Russian embassy in Peiping. A mass of incriminating evidence was seized by the police.

But since the creation of the Nationalist government in Nanking, efforts have been made by Russia to restore relations, owing to the widespread of communism in China, notably in the ranks of the Kuomintang, due to Sun Yat-sen having brought military experts and communist organizers. These remained some years after his death and assisted the Kuomintang in getting its government going in Hankow some years before it was able to set itself up in Nanking.

There is no evidence that present troubles in the Yangtze provinces, notably the area within a radius of 250 miles of Hankow and especially in Kiangsi province, are now being personally directed by the Russians, but it is certain the seeds were planted by the Russians imported by the Kuomintang. It is this trouble that makes it difficult for the Nanking government to get going as a nation-wide unit.

Many observers believe the situation will require very delicate handling, but perhaps a way out may be found. In some respects the Moscow government has a whip hand over the Nationalist government, but observers declare that the latter in the end must either break with Moscow or with the vast territory north of the Yangtze, which is much opposed to communism and maintains a lukewarm attitude toward Nanking until it clears up its own territory, notably in Kiangsi and neighboring Yangtze provinces.

Demand Drastic Action.

An important meeting was held in Mukden recently by the Association for Assisting Manchurian Diplomacy, at which the following resolutions were adopted:

That if Mr. Moo fails to accomplish the return to China of the Chinese Eastern railway he should be asked by Nanking to return immediately to China; that circulars be issued to other parts of China advocating immediate redemption of the railway; that a manifesto be sent the soviet republic calling attention to its manifestoes and pledges of 1918 and 1920; that a committee be organized for the redemption of the railway; that the attention of the people of China be called to the following questions:

[a] Soviet communistic propaganda, [b] obstacles to China's industrial development, [c] soviet intrigues disturbing China's peace and order, [d] publication of a summary of Sino-Russian relations, [e] that information of Red activities in Kwangtung, Hunan, Kiangsi, and Hupeh provinces be published in order that the people of China, and especially the students, will know the dangers of communism.

GEN. CHIANG PLEADS FOR UNITY IN CHINA; RETAINS PRESIDENCY

NANKING, May 17.—(AP)—Notwithstanding forecasts of a stirring challenge by members of the Cantonese left wing, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek today was still in the saddle when the Chinese people's convention closed after a twelve day session. In his closing address Gen. Chiang pleaded with the people to coöperate with the government in preserving order and suppressing banditry and communism.

Outlining the government's future program, he said that every effort would be made to give strength and unity to the country, that laws would be enforced strictly and order preserved so as to make reconstruction possible.

The problems facing the people, who need means to earn a livelihood, he said, would receive careful attention. The principal achievements of the convention were the adoption of a new constitution, which goes into effect on June 1, the declaration of the republic of China with its permanent capital at Nanking, and the mandate given the government to carry out the terms of the manifesto declaring all unequal treaties between China and foreign powers null and void.

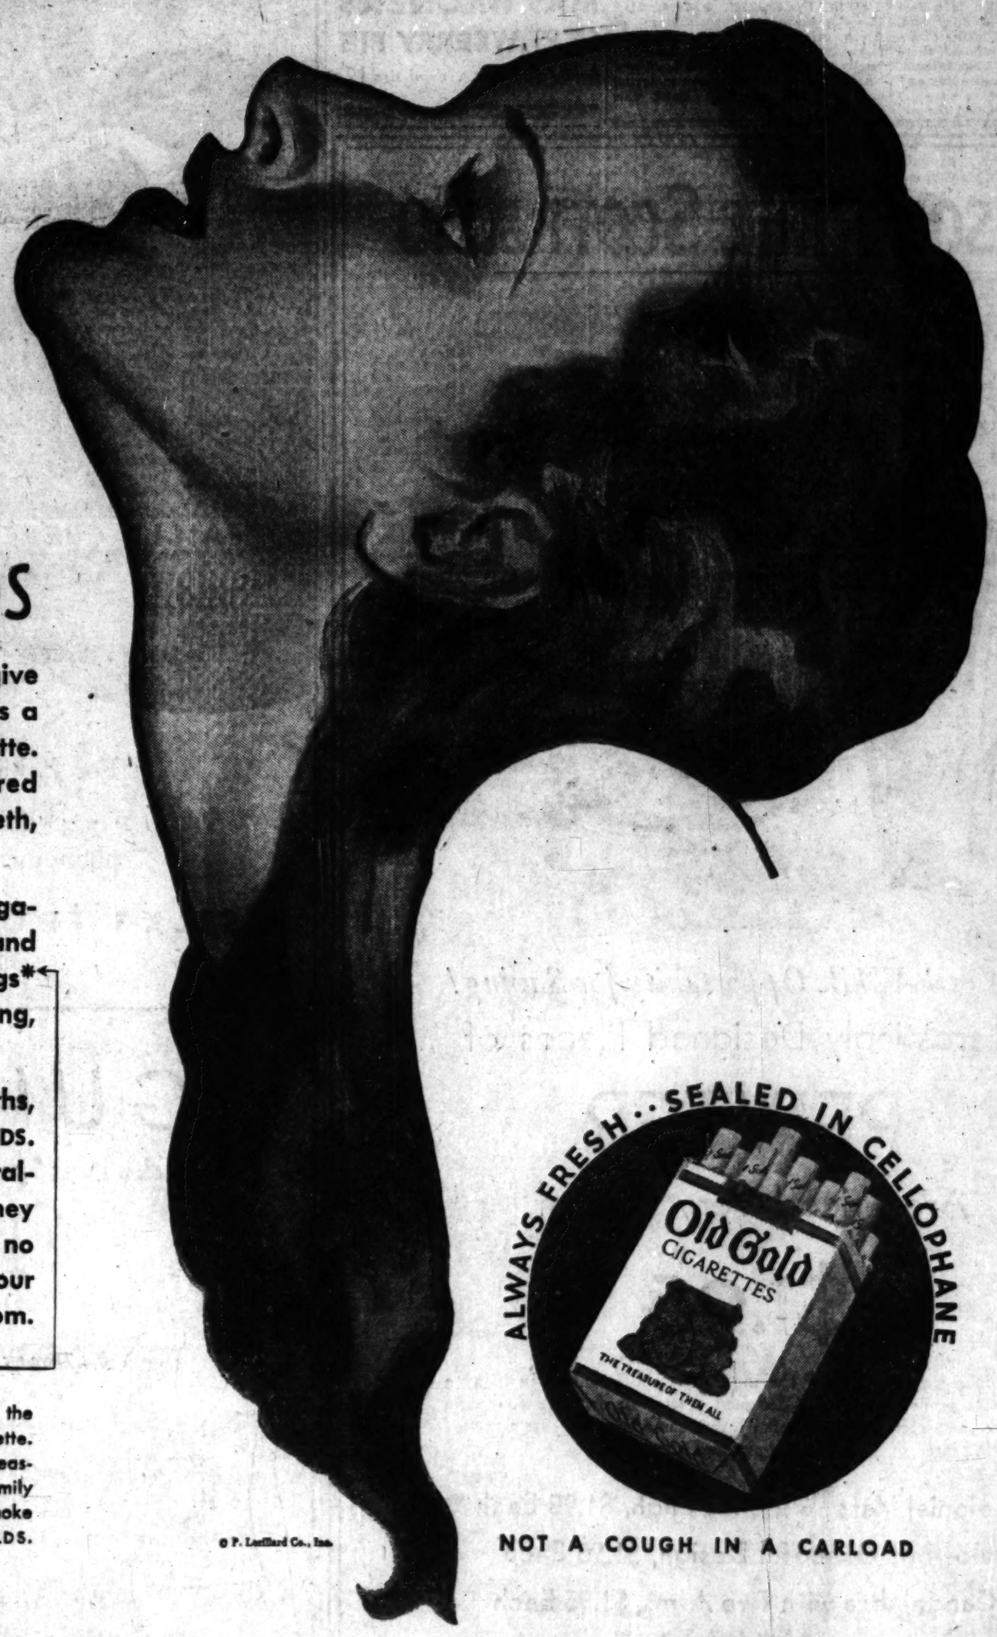
KEEP KISSABLE



. . . WITH OLD GOLDS

OLD GOLDS were created to give you THROAT-EASE . . . as well as a more delightful tasting cigarette. But the makers also considered your breath, your lips, your teeth, as well as your THROAT.

They created a pure-tobacco cigarette . . . free of coriander and other greasy artificial flavorings* that burn into clinging, staining, breath-tainting vapors.

To avoid unpleasant aftermaths, smoke pure-tobacco OLD GOLDS. Their clean, sun-ripened, natural-flavored tobaccos will be like honey to your THROAT. And they leave no objectionable odors either on your breath or clothing, or in the room.

HERE'S THE PROOF*

Open up a pack of OLD GOLDS and smell the tobacco. Do the same with any other cigarette. Judge for yourself which has the natural, pleasant, all-tobacco aroma. It's a favor to your family and friends, as well as to yourself, to smoke NATURAL-FLAVORED, pure-tobacco OLD GOLDS.

BUSTED, AND WHY.

A subcommittee of the state senate, headed by Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, has asked the mayor's advisory committee, composed of responsible Chicago citizens, to recommend the legislation required for a rebuilding of the city and state financial structure now in collapse. The citizens may be able to do so. They know the necessity. Melvin A. Traylor said the city is in the direction of a worse reputation than any its gangsters have given it. Luckily it has a new setup in the city hall.

Attention cannot be diverted from the causes of the pyramiding financial difficulties. They are in the politics of the state. The legislature itself is a part of the system which has crashed down upon the heads of the people who support government and the people who work under it.

Neither the legislature nor any other political body can offer to help out as if it were an agency detached from the sources of the evil. That would be a sardonic idea of the situation. Intolerable taxes have been levied and collected only to produce deficits in virtually every fund for the operation of government. The hole is deep and wide and it has been dug by wasters and corruptionists. The taxpayer has brought in his sacrifices. They have been swallowed and he himself is threatened.

Year by year the unchecked causes have contributed to the sum of this which now appears as a disaster. It seems to have been assumed that because the governments must give certain services that therefore these will automatically provide themselves, regardless of the human agencies which destroy them; that because policemen, firemen, school teachers, etc., must work in order that the community may live, that the necessity will fill its own needs.

The political scheme has been allowed to run its course with the idea that even if it is destructive the services needed by the city are indestructible. There is no accounting for the illusion on other theory than that one law prevails for individuals and another for them as a collection of individuals; that causes will have one result for the citizen and another for his city. Chicago is an exhibit of the damage that illusion will do.

The legislature has been engaged in creating more taxes. The payers cannot stand them. They cannot carry the load of their present obligations. They have paid and the governments have taken the money to the races. The showing is one of unpaid bills, unpaid employés, empty funds, busted credit, and no prospects. Politics has been organized to produce these conditions. The cure will begin with the cause.

IN JUSTICE TO FORMER GOV. DUNNE.

In the Voice of the People this morning will be found a letter from former Gov. Edward F. Dunne concerning a recent reference to a Judge E. F. Dunne in the column on this page headed Fifty Years Ago Today. The former governor proves conclusively that he was not the man referred to as having introduced the resolution concerning the public schools in that all-but-forgotten convention of fifty years ago. Though THE TRIBUNE did not identify the former governor as the author of the resolution, we are only too glad to dispel any misconception which may have arisen on the point in the minds of our readers. The former governor, mayor and judge is not the Judge Dunne whose resolution was voted upon fifty years ago in the convention of the Catholic Young Men's union.

We must add in justice to ourselves that he is the first person to object to any reference to himself in that column.

"STORM OVER ASIA."

Whatever is true of the influence of communist propaganda in the United States, no one who has even a superficial knowledge of conditions in the far east is likely to underestimate its importance as a factor in Asia. Its operations in China are constantly endangering the independent development of the nationalist movement there and in the end may wreck it in spite of the sturdy opposition of the most responsible elements and the conservatism of the people.

A glimpse of its possibilities is given in an article in J. B. Powell's China Weekly Review, which describes a Russian film brought to Shanghai by a German film company and tactlessly advertised by the foreign police authorities there by a censorship in the foreign concessions which sent it into the Chinese city, where it was well patronized.

The film is entitled "Storm Over Asia," and Mr. Powell's weekly says it was shown in the United States and Europe. It is a melodrama of the adventures of a Mongolian patriot youth cheated and oppressed by whites and then driven to a heroic career as leader of an uprising against oppression by "White" Russians. The theme is really the overthrow of white tyranny by orientals, and the last scene shows the Chinese Nationalist flags flying over the headquarters of the triumphant patriot commander.

This is propaganda in its most pervasive and effective form. No printed appeal could be so eloquent as a movie drama and none so wide in its reach. To combat its influence effectually is virtually impossible.

Doubtless the Nationalist government will not encourage an invasion of propaganda films from soviet Russia, for although they might be useful in inflaming Chinese nationalism they would more than offset that political advantage by strengthening Moscow's hand in Chinese affairs and encouraging communist revolt against the more conservative leadership of the Nationalist party. But "Storm Over Asia" suggests the extraordinary facilities which a well organized propaganda may now use in countries simmering with revolt. The moving picture, already highly developed in Russia for its political effect in keeping the Russians at a desirable temperature of loyalty to sovietism, will probably be used for purposes of agitation in other disturbed regions of this troubled age.

THE PUBLIC ENEMY BILL.

Herbert Spencer says somewhere that much of our effort at reform is like that of an unskillful workman who in hammering out an unevenness in a material makes another one to take its place. We think the proposed "public enemy" bill should be carefully considered with this hint in mind. The bill has an excellent motive—namely: to make the supervision and control of habitual malefactors easier for the police. But the phrasing of the measure is so general as to extend its scope considerably and we think dangerously.

Thus section 236a, defining a public enemy, begins as follows: "That whoever does any act which tends to obstruct, impede or hinder the due administration of justice; or whoever frustrates or thwarts or attempts to frustrate or thwart the lawful service of process of any court by evading arrest or by aiding or abetting another to evade arrest or by interfering with or hindering the making of an arrest by virtue of such process . . . shall be deemed a public enemy and shall upon conviction be imprisoned in the penitentiary for a term not less than one and not to exceed ten years." A public enemy may be arrested on sight by any sheriff, bailiff, constable or police officer.

We call the attention of the bill's proponents to the fact that while the offenses defined in the sentences quoted above are condemnable and should be punished, the very general wording used includes offenses which are not serious enough to bring the offender properly within the class with which the bill is really concerned—the gangster, the habitual and dangerous criminal and his aids. The due administration of justice must deal with many offenses which are committed by respectable citizens. Although these offenses are subject to punishment, they do not indicate any serious moral turpitude or tendency to habitual defiance of the law. To give the police or the courts the power to treat such offenders or those who aid them in evading punishment as "public enemies," a sort of pariah class, is out of proportion to the gravity of the offense and an open door to official oppression.

This is no fanciful objection at a time when the passion for disciplining conduct and making crimes of acts hitherto lawful and without moral turpitude is unduly influential. Most of the American people break some law at one time or another and are therefore amenable to the "due administration of justice" and the process of the courts. We may condemn their action in such instances and the attempt of any citizen to assist them to escape a penalty, but we can hardly think them "public enemies" in any reasonable sense of that term.

Perhaps the real object of the bill could be accomplished and its perversion avoided by adding after the words "due administration of justice" and after the words "the lawful service of process of any court" the limiting words "in any case involving a charge of crime malum in se," or perhaps better still by stating the serious offenses which the proponents of the statute have in mind, such as murder, robbery, rape and other crimes of violence.

At any rate, the scope of the bill, we think, should be more definitely limited to meet the evil aimed at and to safeguard it securely against its being extended under the influence of fanatic or ill advised reform beyond its intention.

THE NUB OF IT.

The earl of Beauchamp, chancellor of the University of London, recently in New York, said on his return home that he had gone to speakeasies several times as a self-respecting Englishman who likes a drink now and then. He saw nothing wrong with it. The habit was one, barring the speakeasy, which Englishmen of good repute and morals allow themselves with none to say or think the worse of them. The United States, although Beauchamp did not pursue his point, has made a crime of no crime. The Englishman could not convict himself of it because he could search his conscience in vain for a sense of guilt.

Editorial of the Day

LEARNING FROM CHICAGO.

[The Baltimore Sun.]

Chicago's clear leadership in the spectacular phases of modern metropolitan life is seriously threatened, if not actually forfeited. It has been a tough season for that once jovial city. It is hard enough for her eastern admirers to witness the loss of Bill Thompson from her city hall, and pretty dismal to hear his successor as mayor gurgling happily over such piddling things as the fine arts and fiscal reform instead of announcing a firm intention to bust King George on the snoot. But the real peril lies in the alertness of other cities to seize the opportunity.

Here, for example, is Jimmie Walker's New York performing in the best Chicago [1930] manner. Mr. Two Gun Someone and Mr. Tough Red Someone Else, with their girl friend, after a few nifty murders, are trailed to an apartment and there besieged by 200 policemen, foot, horse, artillery, and bombers, operating cannon of various calibers—as delicious a spectacle as any movie for 10,000 onlooking members of what the late Bert Taylor [another Chicago artist, but in a different field] used to refer to as "the so-called human race." Guns fail, axes fail, but tear bombs conquer, just as in Hollywood, and 10,000 observers sigh happily as the three other half-wits are lugged out of the bullet scarred apartment house [in a "quiet west side residential district," as the New York papers say in their best Chicago manner] and off to the lockup.

There's the stuff to show the populace. And Chicago's new mayor lisps of efficiency and reform and economy! Has the old Chicago spirit been stolen permanently by effete New York?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. R. H.

mister and missus spiggs thought it would be a fine idea now that it is almost summer time to pick out a nice place to go when mister spiggs gets his vacation. so they wrote to every place they could think of and got bushels and bushels of little booklets telling how each place was the very one where mister and missus spiggs should go if they wanted a real vacation. I am tired of the great city said mister spiggs with all its noise and bustle. I wish to get far from the racket of the loop and the madding crowd's ignoble strife. mister spiggs said madding crowd's ignoble strife several times in the hope that missus spiggs would correct him and tell him the word should be maddening crowd's ignoble strife. but missus spiggs had seen mister spiggs mark a place in familiar quotations the night before and when he went to the office she looked to see what he had marked so she knew that it should be madding crowd and so she did not correct mister spiggs. mister spiggs seeing missus spiggs would not bite on madding crowd went on to say that he wanted to go to some place this vacation that would be far away from the humdrum of every day life and the clark street car. I want to be like stout cortez said mister spiggs when with eagle eye he stared at the pacific silent upon a peak in darien. what about that place doc small told us about up there in ontario province in canada?

I think it would be fine said missus spiggs but you cant see the pacific ocean from ontario province in canada. I was speaking poetically said mister spiggs. stout cortez could have been just as lonely in ontario province as in darien. I expect its the very place we're looking for. what's the name of it?

well said missus spiggs looking at the folders in her lap here's a place they say they have golf tennis swimming croquette dancing every night as well as tea dances in the afternoon archery fishing horseback riding hikes nature study classes movies concerts picnics fish fries automobile trips —say no more said mister spiggs me and cortez have no use for such. I want to go to a place like longfellow talked about when he said my soul is full of longing for the secrets of the sea and the heart of the great ocean sends a thrilling pulse through me here is a fine picture in this booklet of a place in maine by the side of the great ocean I think I should like to go there and listen to the secrets of the sea.

missus spiggs opened the booklet and read that the place was very far from the roar of the traffic of the busy cities and that there one could be near indeed to nature's heart and that the hotel had accommodations for nine hundred people and the annex could take care of seven hundred more and that their guests enjoyed the pleasures of swimming 6 golf courses 22 tennis courts croquette archery bowling bridge tea dancing horseback riding hiking nature study classes movie concerts hunting in season dancing in the big ballrooms every night to the music of the best jazz orchestras from broadway——

I know the rest said mister spiggs and I don't believe it is just the kind of place I have in mind. I have been thinking said mister spiggs of those wonderful lines of william jennings bryant the groves were God's first temples ere man learned to hew the shaft and lay the architrave or something like that anyhow look at the booklets you have of the adirondacks. up there in the high mountains I know there are places where one may go and be alone with his soul.

missus spiggs opened one of the booklets about the adirondacks and said that the hotel at the place which mister spiggs named could accommodate eight hundred guests and that there was swimming mountain climbing bridge tea dancing archery nature study classes horseback riding canoeing dancing every night in the ballroom as well as in the main dining room and on the verandas 9 golf courses 28 tennis courts bowling—— mister spiggs said that wasn't exactly his idea either and opening his favorite book of quotations he said alexander selkirk knew what he was talking about when he stood on the hill in the middle of his lonely island and said I am monarch of all I survey my right there is none to dispute from the center around to the sea I am lord of the fowl and the brute. which concluded mister spiggs is just the place I want to go to on my vacation and there is a booklet there from a hotel on an island off the maine coast read what they say.

well said missus spiggs they say that being on an island they are cut off from the big noisy world with all its uproar and excitement. the very place said mister spiggs stout cortez would have been as much alone there as he was in darien read what it says.

though cut off from the world read missus spiggs you are kept in constant communication with the main land by radio telephone and telegraph and the stock market reports are chalked up on blackboards on the piazza where are located the branch offices of the best brokerage firms in new york.

they have 5 golf courses tennis dancing in the ballroom every night archery hiking swimming fish fries bridge a boat from the main land every half hour with motor boats that can be leased at any time yachting deep sea fishing as well as trout fishing in the streams nature study classes movie concerts—— that is enough said mister spiggs. I don't care to have you read about the hotel having accommodation for nine hundred people. eleven hundred said missus spiggs. never mind about the annex said mister spiggs. it sounds to me like we would be more alone on the corner of state and madison streets at noon time on saturday than we would be isolated on that far away island off the rock bound coast of maine. then what are you going to do to be far from the maddening crowd—madding crowd said mister spiggs. I said madding said missus spiggs and next to nature's heart and alone in the forest primeval when your vacation comes. I have the place in mind said mister spiggs. which book or folder is it in? said missus spiggs. it is in no book or folder said mister spiggs it is right here behind our own happy home in other words it is our back yard. the very place said missus spiggs. what a happy idea.

SPRING PLAY.

WHENEVER there comes a warm, sunny day men roll out of offices, stores and factories at the noon hour to indulge in a few minutes of some sort of ball. All winter they have had a yearning, but it could not be indulged. Conditions were not right. Now the story is different. There is enough tang in the temperature to make exercise pleasant. Before long the temperature will be higher and a something will invite men to lie around and loaf.

This fifteen to thirty minutes of ball at the noon hour means better work and more of it in the afternoon. It resembles vacation in that it lifts men out of the ruts, out of deadly routines, and gives them some vim and push. It speeds up the work. It may change viewpoints.

The muscles make up far more than one-half the weight and volume of all the body minus the bones. During the winter these muscles have had very little exercise. Their mechanism for self-cleansing is not in good working order. After the first play there will be lame arms and stiff backs. The sewers of the muscles need a spring cleaning. The little exercise clogs them up and floods the basement. But it will not be that way after, say, the first week. All winter the heart has been plugging away. What is called wind has been pretty well lost. After a short run or jump the heart will race and it may skip. A few days of play and the wind will be regained. All winter there has been a dearth of sunshine and that we had was of poor quality. Most of us have overdrawn at the bank. We are low in these things that sunshine gives us. We need more vitamin D and coloring matter in the blood, and more of that vague quality—resistance—about which we talk so much and know so little. A few minutes' play daily in the sunshine raises our stock of these.

The small boys are not lagging behind their dads. Wherever the ground is dry enough groups can be seen playing marbles. Nobody knows why marbles divides with robins the honor of being harbingers of spring, but the game is just that. It is far from being a good game. It is not active enough to be such. It causes much stooping and squatting and that is good. It supplies the zest of competition and it invites to the open—all good points. That is about all that can be said for marbles. Presently that game will be put aside for some game of ball, and that will be an improvement.

CAUSES OF FEAR AND WORRY.

R. M. writes:

Please tell me what is the cause of fears and worries. For the last seven years I have been full of them, always anticipating some disaster. The things I worry about seem real to me, although I am ashamed to tell any one about them. Is there a cure for this trouble?

REPLY.

Fear and worry are states of mind. Among the causes are lack of mental training. Such training is the cure.

STREPTOCOCCUS SORE THROAT.

Worried Mother writes:

There has been an argument as to just what is streptococcic sore throat. Will you put it in layman's language?

REPLY.

There are many kinds of streptococcic sore throat. Probably every member of the debating society was right. Septic sore throat is due to streptococcus epidemicus, caused by drinking infected raw milk. Scarlet fever is a form of sore throat caused by exposure to a person carrying one kind of streptococci. Ordinary sore throat is another kind. Some people carry their own streptococci in their tonsils. Others catch them. Room enough for everybody to be right.

NO NEED FOR CHANGE.

E. McM. writes:

1. Is it advantageous, or otherwise, to change the physic occasionally?

2. Which of the laxatives are least habit forming?

REPLY.

1. Do not start. No advantage in jumping from one frying pan to another.

2. Normal salt solution, laxative foods, small doses of cascara. The least harmful laxatives are those which irritate the least.

FEW SYMPTOMS OF TAPEWORM.

A. J. M. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of a tapeworm?

2. What kind of pain does it cause?

REPLY.

1. Usually the only symptom is finding segments of the worm.

2. There are no pains.

PROBATE OF WILL.

Davenport, Ia., May 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How soon after death must a will be recorded in Illinois? 2. If it is not recorded in said time, what proceedings would have to be gone through? 3. If the administrator waited beyond said time, would he be liable to the heirs? 4. Could any one or two of the heirs force a settlement of the estate? 5. How? L. L. R.

1. The statute provides that it should be filed at once, upon the death.

2. No serious consequences ordinarily attach to delays which are not dishonest.

3. The term "executor" is properly used to describe the person named in the will. If he has custody of the will and unreasonably delays filing it, he would be subject to penalty.

4. Yes.

5. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing the reason for the delay. It is possible that threatening the penalty would bring results.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JOINT TENANCY AND INHERITANCE.

Chicago, April 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A's mother and father purchased property. A's father died, leaving no will. 1. Can the mother claim all rights to the property, which was in joint tenancy, or can the children claim some? 2. If A's mother marries again and puts the property in joint tenancy with second husband and she dies, leaving no will, can second husband claim all rights to said property? 3. Could the children from the first husband get their share? 4. The second husband had three children, all under 21 years, when he married A's mother. Would they be entitled to any of the property if A's mother dies? H. G.

1. If the instrument expressly provides for joint tenancy as distinguished from tenancy in common, the surviving joint tenant will take to the exclusion of the heirs or devisees of the one who dies first.

2. Yes.

3. See No. 2.

4. Stepchildren would not inherit, if that is what you mean to ask.

NO EXAMINATIONS NOW.

Chicago, May 13.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please advise me where, and to whom, I should apply for an application for examination for the Chicago police? When will the next examination be held? T. H.

At this writing no examination is open for the position of patrolman. We have, however, placed the writer's name on our mailing list for notification of the next examination called for this position.

AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION.

Chicago, April 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—"A" says an amendment to the federal constitution cannot be repealed before it is at least in force ten years. "B" says it can be repeated at any time after it is passed. Who is right? C. L. F.

"B" is right in the sense that a new amendment could be passed at any time, annulling the previous amendment.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 18, 1915.

ROME.—News that the Salandra ministry is to be retained has swept all over Italy and united all factions in a great cry for war. A demonstration such as Rome has not seen since the days of the revolution began last evening and lasted throughout the night. Prince von Buelow, the special German envoy, and Von Macchio, the special Austrian ambassador, are ready to leave Italy.

LONDON.—Seven separate and distinct battles were fought in the week just closed and there can be little doubt that the days of Saturday the 8th, until Friday the 14th, will rank among the most bloody in the history of western Europe, says the Pas de Calais correspondent of the Times. He adds: "Saturday night saw no lessening in the intensity of the struggle. On the Ypres front the Germans continued to hurl themselves against our line. The fury of the assault was indescribable. The dawn of Sunday showed in the fields in front of Ypres their dead piled like corn stalks at harvest time, British and German lying side by side."

LONDON.—The Austrian defeat in Bukovina is of such vast proportions as to more than offset the victory gained by the Teutonic allies in west Galicia, a Russian official statement says. The Austrians are reported to have abandoned 20,000 prisoners in their flight.

LISBON.—The Portuguese revolution has broken out anew. Fighting is going on in the streets of Lisbon and warships are bombarding the city.

CHICAGO.—The inventory of the estate of the late Edward Tilden, president of the National Packing company and Democratic leader, was filed in the Probate court. Although the value of the estate was not given, it is believed it will total more than $3,000,000.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 18, 1901.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Mrs. McKinley has had a relapse. As the night wore on she became more restless, and the early morning hours are looked forward to with more apprehension. Powerful stimulants, including oxygen, were administered during the afternoon and evening.

PARIS.—Paul Deschanel, president of the chamber of deputies, and Jules Lasies, the Nationalist leader and deputy, may fight a duel as a result of a wordy encounter in the chamber today. Their quarrel arose over a resolution demanding an investigation of the charges against M. Momis, minister of justice, accused of using his position to aid his private interests.

WASHINGTON.—Mrs. Lyman J. Gage, wife of the secretary of the treasury, died after nine weeks' illness, and her death has greatly shocked the official and social community, for she was the best known and most popular woman of the McKinley administration.

GRAND RAPIDS.—Edwin F. Uhl, former assistant secretary of state and ambassador to Germany under the Cleveland administration, died here, after an illness of nearly a year, at the age of 60.

CHICAGO.—Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Helen Dalton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Dalton of Indianapolis, to John Hackett Adams of Chicago on June 1 in Christ's church, Indianapolis.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

WASHINGTON.—A general storm of indignation in the Republican party against Roscoe Conkling and T. C. Platat because of their resignation in their controversy with President Garfield over New York appointments is raging throughout Washington and the country. Senators on every side disclaim any sympathy with Conkling. His friends were not pleased with the reception the country has given his act as printed in the morning papers.

NEW YORK.—Senator Thomas C. Platt refused to discuss the resignation of himself and Senator Conkling and declared he had received no information from Albany as to the plans of the legislature. In Albany the anti-Conkling forces feel confident of defeating the reelection of the two senators. The drift of opinion there is that if the pair are anxious to retire from office other able representatives in the Republican party of the Empire state who will not act like spoiled children, can be found.

EDITORIAL.—Mr. Roscoe Conkling has committed political suicide. He is politically damned in the opinion of 99 out of every 100 honorable men. On his act of resignation the people have already rendered a verdict of condemnation. They say: "Guilty!—guilty of attempted usurpation; guilty of willful and outrageous misrepresentation of the president; guilty of a conspiracy to rule or ruin the Republican party; guilty of treachery!" There is no political resurrection for the man thus fallen.

A LETTER FROM FORMER GOV. DUNNE.

Chicago, May 12.—In today's issue of THE TRIBUNE your paper does me, probably unintentionally, an injustice in stating on your editorial page under caption "Fifty Years Ago Today," the following:

"The Catholic Young Men's union, which has been in convention here for the last two days, adjourned after having reelected Bishop Keane of Richmond, Va., president, and Father Patrick Taafe of Brooklyn, first general vice president. One resolution adopted attracted considerable attention. It was that offered by Judge E. F. Dunne of this city, and supported by him in a strong speech. It denounces the public school system of the United States and predicts all manner of evil if that system should be maintained. The resolution concludes that the public school system 'unless soon abandoned will irremediably destroy the whole system of American government.'"

Every reader of your paper will conclude after reading this statement that it was myself, a former judge of the Circuit court of Cook county, mayor of Chicago and governor of Illinois, who offered this resolution and made this speech. As a matter of truth and fact I never made any such speech at this convention, or in any other place, or at any other time, nor did I at any time or place present such a resolution.

I graduated from the high school in Peoria in the year 1870 and came to Chicago about the year 1876. In the year 1881 I was not Judge E. F. Dunne, but a practicing lawyer at the Chicago bar.

I was first elected judge in November, 1892, reelected twice, and afterwards elected mayor and governor.

The mistake of the member of your staff who prepared this item probably arises from the fact that there was in Chicago in the year 1881 another lawyer named Edward or Edmund J. Dunne, who had formerly been a judge in one of the western states or territories. In the year 1881 his law office and my law office were on the same street—La Salle street, and we resided on the same street—Marshfield avenue.

I recall getting letters intended for him, and knew of letters intended for myself reaching him. In fact, because of the similarity of our names I was once compelled to go to considerable trouble to remove a cloud from a piece of real estate owned by me because of a judgment rendered against him.

If the member of your staff who prepared this article will make further investigation he will find that I never made any such speech.

I respectfully ask, after you have made this investigation, that you do me the justice of correcting the same on your editorial page, where this article appeared. E. F. DUNNE.

THE PRICE OF FOOD.

Chicago, May 12.—On May 9 THE TRIBUNE'S wandering reporter wrote about lower food prices, which is true to a great extent, but you are contradicting your own market reports. I think you owe the public of Chicago a deep apology for arousing ire and suspicion against their merchants.

On the market page you print: Extra first eggs, 15½c; eggs candled to the retail trade, 7@8c over extra first, which makes the price to the retail grocer 24c.

On page one your "wandering" reporter writes: Eggs and butter, 20c and 24c, respectively.

It is this downtrending of prices and sliding-back talk that is keeping up the depression. You are quoting No. 2 and 3 grade merchandise and forcing the merchant to cheat or sell cheap food. No grocer doing a legitimate business can sell goods at these prices. The grocer cannot even buy fancy goods at these prices. STANLEY O. CHRISTIANSON.

VACATIONS.

Chicago, May 10.—A brilliant idea occurred to me which will relieve the unemployed. This summer make all who have worked during the year take one month's leave of absence. During that time hire those who have not worked. This would put money into circulation, as the vacationists could travel and have time to spend, while the others would have an opportunity to earn and spend.

I have considered the problem of breaking in new people. That isn't such a difficult task, as the average person can pick up the work in a few days. Then, too, keep some of the old help and have them leave at different intervals, not all at once. RUTH ELSNER.

STEWING IN THEIR OWN JUICE.

Chicago, May 13.—The author of today's editorial, "Stewing in Their Own Juice," shows lack of information on at least three points that are common knowledge to all who make any attempt at being conversant with current civic thought.

1. The delay in the collection of the taxes due to the reassessment, together with the large percentage of loss in the collection of the assessed tax, is responsible for the fact that all city and county employés were not paid on the last regular pay day. The money now available for a partial payment of these salaries comes from the collection of taxes for the year 1929, a year late.

2. Teachers, in common with all citizens, have the privilege of voting for whom they please. Every one knows that the teachers' vote cannot be delivered. I doubt very much if the editorial writer can show where any teachers' federation endorsed any candidate in the 1927 mayoral election.

3. Any one familiar with the farming industry knows that the American farmers are unorganized. They are suffering in this world-wide depression from buying tariff protected goods, selling in a world market, and at the same time paying a percentage of taxes out of all proportion to their wealth. C. W. FAIR.

A TEACHER'S VOTE.

Chicago, May 13.—In regard to the editorial of May 12 headed "Stewing in Their Own Juice," I wish to make the following statement: I have been a member of the Federation of Women High School Teachers for the last eight years. The federation has never given me advice on voting for political candidates. LULU S. ELMER.

SCHOOL COSTS.

Chicago, May 13.—Reading about the financial condition of the schools I am anxious to know why the school engineers receive a salary from $390 to $500 per month doing very little or nothing for their money. Most of their time is put in reading papers and magazines. I have asked several engineers why they do not own property; the answer is the taxes are too high, but they take a nice slice of the taxpayers' money. I have heard a conversation among several engineers, that if they were cut $200 per month there would not be any that would resign their positions. I would like to make a suggestion where the board could save at least three-quarter million dollars during the hot summer and vacation months: That is to dispense with the services of the engineers. They are not positively necessary during these months. EDWARD J. DELLAS.

SMUG.

Chicago, May 13.—Your editorial, "Stewing in Their Own Juice," is as smug in thought and style as an editorial written by a junior high boy for his school paper might be. K. W.

JIM REED.

Peoria, Ill., May 12.—I wish to direct your attention to the superiority of James A. Reed of Missouri as the Democratic candidate for President in 1932. Former Senator Reed is the only candidate mentioned who has always stood staunchly through thick and thin for true Jeffersonian principles. He has been the outstanding foe of foreign entanglements and tariff robbery when many leading Democrats have wavered in the faith. He denounced the futile and costly attempts at farm relief. He clearly pointed out that true farm relief would result from drastic tariff revision.

"Jim" Reed was the first to see and to proclaim in incomparable fashion the utter hollowness of Hoover. Reed is a pronounced wet, but merely as an incident to strong Jeffersonian principles. He is a Protestant, but has always maintained friendly relations with Catholics. He will draw warm support from normally Republican German-Americans because of his sane attitude in times of war hysteria.

Reed can conduct a speaking campaign that will overwhelm the Republican spellbinders as can no other Democrat. He is the one man who can properly characterize Hoover.

"Jim" Reed can carry every state west of the Mississippi except, possibly, California; every border state, and the solid south. He can carry Indiana, Ohio, and Wisconsin, and unless knifed by league of nations die-hards he can carry Illinois. He can do well in the rest of the country. F. W. MCDANIEL.

STATE TO BUILD HIGHWAY LINK NEAR JUSTICE

Will Complete Outer Belt of Cook County.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 17.—[Special.] Announcement that bids will be opened the end of May for a highway project linking two sections of route 46 to Justice, Ill., in southwest Cook county, was made today by Chief Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets.

Completion of the gap involves the building of two bridges, a subway beneath the Chicago and Alton railroad tracks, and a large overhead spanning the C. & N. W. tracks. It will weld a belt line around the south and west sides of Chicago by connecting east and west route 46 with Mannheim road, which is north and south route 45.

The overhead section to be bid upon May 29 will connect Justice and Archer by bridging the C. & I. W. tracks, the tracks of the new Santa Fe road, and the Des Plaines river. It will contain 30 spans for a total length of 2,747 feet, using 7,000 cubic yards of concrete and 3,180,000 pounds of structural steel.

Besides the overhead and the subway beneath the Alton tracks, the project also calls for a bridge over the Illinois and Michigan canal and another bridge over the sanitary district canal.

Other bridge structures included in the May 29 bid letting include one over the Kickapoo river at Bartonville on route 9, a reinforced arch bridge on route 89 in La Salle county, and three reinforced concrete slab bridges and a concrete girder bridge on route 69 in Kendall county.

In all bids for ten bridges will be received and it is Mr. Sheets' estimate than ten sections will require a total of 8,801,450 pounds of structural steel and 20,000 cubic yards of concrete.

Bids will be received separately and in combinations in order to judge the best proposals.

TRIO FACE TRIAL TODAY IN DEATH OF 2 IN HOLDUP

Three men charged with killing two money guards in the Hillman Pure Food store offices on West Washington street are scheduled to go on trial today before Judge Joseph Sabath of the Criminal court.

They are Samual Goldstein, 26 years old; Charles J. Wollard, also 26, and James L. Zeman, 22. Assistant State's Attorneys Walker Butler and Ross Lee Laird will prosecute them and, it is believed, ask the death penalty.

The slayings occurred on Jan. 24 when three armed men tried unsuccessfully to steal receipts amounting to more than $18,000. Max Axelrod, 1607 South Trumbull avenue, resisted, and was killed. His assistant guard, Eugene Toro, 146 North Parkside avenue, was fatally wounded.

Wollard and Zeman were seized in Chicago and Goldstein was arrested in New York.

SHOOTS SELF ACCIDENTALLY.

Stanley Sommerfield, 32 years old, 1270 Dean street, yesterday accidentally shot himself through the right hand in the warehouse of the Soo Line railroad at 509 West Roosevelt road, where he is employed as a watchman.

FIFTY JAPANESE YOUTHS TO OPEN BRAZIL COLONY

Pledged to Stay on Farm; Will Import Wives.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELEM, Para, Brazil, May 17.—Concurrent with the decision of the government to restrict the entry of aliens because of the unemployment crisis, it is announced that 50 young Japanese men will leave Tokio next Wednesday bound for Brazil, where they will settle in an independent agricultural colony in the Amazon valley.

The 50 young agriculturists will be permitted to enter Brazil under the law, which allows immigration of foreigners possessing $250 or more. They are between the ages of 19 and 30 and graduates of Japanese agriculture schools. The immigrants have been selected from a group of 2,000 candidates by the Yoshimi Gotanda association of Osaka and the Overseas Society of Tokio, and have been granted 1,250 acres of virgin land located on the vast concession of the Japanese Plantation company.

Must Remain in Brazil.

Each man has taken an oath never to return to Japan, and each has raised $425 for preliminary expenses in the establishment of the settlement and his personal expenses during the first year of the development work. In addition the new colonists have made a formal promise to live exclusively on the products of the land and work without salary.

The new colony, which will work independently of the Japanese Plantation company, intends to cultivate rice, cotton, tobacco, oranges, and vegetables on a large scale. First the land must be cleared, drained, and houses built for the settlers. In a year extensive cultivation will be possible.

Under this new settlement plan the Overseas society will send a number of young women to Brazil to marry the young farmers. The permanency of the settlement has thus been assured by Dr. Yoshimi Gotanda, who is on his way here to select a suitable site for the farm. Dr. Gotanda has been a Japanese consul in Brazil for several years and has the confidence of the government.

Weeds Out Concessions.

This development also comes at a time when the provisional government has started a campaign to weed out foreign concessions, which have been exploiting the land and resources of northern Brazil, but have not developed the regions allotted to them. The development of concessions territory is required by all contracts and thus far only three foreign concessions have lived up to the requirements, it is declared.

They are the Ford rubber plantation project in the Topajos valley, the Japanese Plantation company, and the Schinderlar concession on the Xingu river. Twenty-six concessions in the state of Amazonas were canceled this spring, including several granted to the Polish syndicate. Mining concessions on the Gurupy and Piria rivers have been canceled and the director of these concessions, Guilherme von Linde, is being prosecuted to recover $66,000 damage to state property. In the state of Maranho the French and Belgian concessions are now being investigated.

The rapid development of the Japanese concession towns of Thome-Assu and Monte Alegre has assured the government that the oriental immigrants mean business, and full cooperation will be afforded the new agricultural settlement.

14 PERISH, 180 HURT AS FLAMES SWEEP THEATER

TOKIO, May 17.—(AP)—A mysterious series of fires which recently have caused much loss of life and property damage continued during the week-end with three more outbreaks in different parts of the country.

Fourteen persons were burned to death and 180 injured, 30 of them seriously, when they were trapped in a blazing motion picture theater in the town of Kanekemachi in the prefecture of Gumma. When the fire started 800 persons, most of them women and children, stampeded for the exits. Many were crushed and others were left to perish in the flames.

At Niigata 70 houses were burned today. Twenty-one firemen were injured when their fire engine skidded into the river. Six hundred houses at Akita, on the northwest coast of Honshiu, were reduced to ashes yesterday by a fire. It was not known here whether there were any casualties.

JURY TRY TO JUSTIFY VERDICT BY SEEKING GIRL'S REAL SLAYER

Erie, Pa., May 17.—[Special.]—Startled by city-wide criticism and harassed by anonymous telephone threats, members of the jury that freed Tony Wieczorkowski, alleged brutal murderer of Mary Sobuski, 22 years old, of McKean, will meet tomorrow to discuss means of justifying their verdict.

Returned at 11 o'clock Friday morning, their decision brought from Presiding Magistrate Judge Hirt the most scathing denunciation in the history of Erie county criminal courts.

The jurors, convinced, they say, that Tony did not strangle the McKean girl, weight down her body and toss it into Lake Erie, despite the confession imputed to him, plan on raising a fund to capture the real killer. Capt. Edward Schmeiser, former city safety director whose wife served on the jury, offered $500 to start the fund after scores of anonymous telephone calls came to his home. The jury members plan tentatively to retain private detectives to "investigate and uncover the facts in the case."

WOMAN VANISHES ON WAY TO SON DOOMED TO HANG

Philadelphia, Pa., May 17.—(AP)—Police in cities between Philadelphia and Montreal were asked today to search for Mrs. Margaret McCaffrey, 60, who left here Thursday to see her son in Montreal before he was hanged. She has not been seen since.

Tommy McCaffrey, the son, is scheduled to die on the gallows some time this week for the slaying of a Montreal man.

News of his impending death reached Mrs. McCaffrey only a few hours before she started for the Canadian city, members of her family said. They fear she may have lost her mind after leaving here.

McCaffrey, alias Tommy McHugh, was one of four men convicted of murdering C. Cameroff Cook in December, 1929.

Evanston Boys Confess Stealing Thirteen Autos

Four Evanston youths, each 15 years old, early this morning confessed the theft of thirteen autos, according to police of that suburb. They gave their names and addresses as Harold Swanson, 2520 Noyes street; Julian Adamson, North Shore hotel, 1611 Chicago avenue, and Robert Blust and Harry Lill, both of 2310 Main street, all in Evanston. Blust and Lill were arrested first and implicated the others.

LEIPSIC, Germany, May 17.—(AP)—Lola Schroeter-Vorescou, noted woman stunt flyer, jumped 14,432 feet with a parachute today, thereby breaking her previous women's record of 8,528 feet. She was in the air for 18 minutes. It was her 119th parachute jump.

CONFERENCE TO PROTECT PILOTS WINS APPROVAL

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—To still further enhance the safety measures of the aviation industry, the formation of a safety conference is to result from action by the executive committee of the aeronautical chamber of commerce of America, it was announced today.

The committee also approved a safety code which has been in the course of preparation for more than a year and covers nearly every phase of activity in aviation.

The chamber's safety code takes a strong position against unnecessary stunt flying, which it recognizes as the cause of many accidents. It advocates prohibiting stunting in all commercial work.

Follow These Simple Rules:

1. Each evening for 42 consecutive evenings (not including Saturdays) W-G-N will broadcast 3 songs of yesterday—"Tune Tangles." On each day following the broadcast the Chicago Tribune will print a "Tune Tangle" Crossword Puzzle. Each puzzle will contain the title of one of the songs broadcast the preceding evening. You are invited to listen to the broadcast, solve the Tune Tangle Crossword in the next day's Tribune and name the song.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of answers in accordance with these rules. NOTE: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 42 Tune Tangles completely to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. The prizes are as follows:

1st Prize		$1,000.00
2nd Prize		500.00
3rd Prize		250.00
Next 2 Prizes,	$100.00 each	200.00

Next 310 Prizes,	5.00 each	1,550.00
430 Prizes, Totaling		$5,000.00

4. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employees of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

5. Tune Tangle Crosswords are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them to "Tune Tangles," Chicago Tribune, Post office Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight, 15 days after Puzzle No. 42 has been printed.

6. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. Contestants may submit as many sets of puzzles as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize.

7. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

8. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

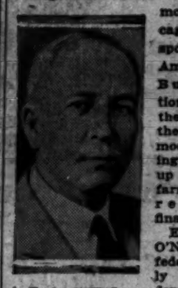
CO-OP LEADERS MEET TODAY TO UNIFY ACTIVITY

Farm Federation Backs Co-ordination Effort.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A conference on coöperative marketing of nation-wide scope opens this morning in Chicago, in an effort sponsored by the American Farm Bureau federation to coördinate the activities of the various commodity marketing interests set up under federal farm board direction and financing.



E. A. O'NEAL.

Edward A. O'Neal, the farm federation's newly elected president, in his call for the conference cited the need of correlation in the efforts of farmers to take advantage of the federal agricultural marketing act. He declares its additional importance to be to "provide an organized defense against the actions of groups opposed to the success of the coöperative movement."

Many Groups Represented.

The meeting, to be held at the Hotel Sherman, will be attended by officials of the National Grange and of the commodity marketing agencies handling grain, livestock, cotton, wool, pecans, dairy products, poultry products, and other major farm crops. It is the first such correlation conference since the passage of the marketing act in 1929.

Until now, according to O'Neal, each group of producers has been acting alone in its own field, unaware of and without conscious relation to the work others are doing. An effort will be made at today's conference, he predicts, to discover the mutual interest of these groups and attempt to formulate definite marketing and organization policies.

Will Meet U. S. Officials.

Nearly a third of all farmers are now marketing at least some of their products, valued at many millions annually, through coöperative marketing associations, according to C. B. Hearst of Des Moines, Ia., vice president of the farm bureau.

Later, according to the announced plans of O'Neal, a conference will be held between the farm officials at this meeting and representatives of the government, with business interests to be invited. There is no conflict between this new correlation move on the part of the federation and the American Institute of Coöperation, whose headquarters are in Washington, it is understood.

Fear Bulgaria Will Close Doors of American Schools

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, May 17.—The troubles of Ioanna, queen of Bulgaria, the former Princess Giovanna of Italy, is taking up considerable space in the Belgian press. Because Belgium is a nine-tenths Roman Catholic country, people here take a passionate interest in what the Catholic queen of Orthodox Bulgaria will do or not do.

The Queen Ioanna attended holy week services in the Catholic church of Sofia, her capital, pleased the Belgians. That she attended the Orthodox Easter service with her husband Boris, the king, who had so hard a time to find a suitable queen, rather worried them.

Moreover, Catholics here are commencing to worry over the fate of the American college at Sofia. They claim the Bulgarian holy synod wants to oust all foreign teachers from Bulgaria and suppress all foreign schools.

Catholic Paper Worried.

"Will Bulgaria dare to dissolve all American schools on her soil?" wonders the leading Brussels daily, La Libre Belgique, which is directly inspired by the Vatican. "Will Bulgaria dissolve the Italian schools, thus showing very little deference for the young queen? Will Bulgaria dare to stop the French schools, which France considers an instrument for influence abroad?"

There are certain circles in Bulgaria, which might influence the closing of those American, French, and Italian schools, avers the Libre Belgique. Queen Ioanna certainly cannot counteract them. The holy synod of Bulgaria, says the Brussels daily, is against foreign schools in a body. Secondly, groups of Bulgarian ultranationalists favor the movement against them.

Depends in Queen's Influence.

Bulgaria's ultranationalists do not oppose religion; they simply want to eliminate all foreign elements and have even startpd a campaign against Free Masonry, because "it is a foreign importation."

The holy synod, alleges the Libre Belgique, would like to expel the last Catholic clergyman from Bulgaria—even though the queen is a Catholic, or just because of it.

With the American colleges and schools in Bulgaria being tied up with Italian and French schools and with the stanch faith of Queen Ioanna in the Catholic church, La Libre Belgique does not think there is an immediate chance for the holy synod to eliminate foreign schools and clergymen from Bulgarian soil.

Many Bulgarian intellectuals are alumni of foreign schools. They frequently hold high positions in the administration. Even government ministers send their children to the American college or other foreign schools.

Queen Ioanna herself openly shows an active interest in the foreign and Catholic schools in Bulgaria. She has paid a visit to the Italian school in Sofia, which is Catholic. The 33-year-old queen stands fairly alone in her Catholic sympathies in Bulgaria. Only one out of every hundred Bulgarians is a Roman Catholic.

THOUSANDS HEAR DUTCH PSALMS AT TULIP FETE

Holland, Mich., May 17.—[Special.]—An echo of the Sabbath days of early Dutch settlers of Holland was heard here today in singing of Dutch psalms.

Descendants of many who left the Netherlands in 1847 and established "De Kolonie" here gathered in Hope College Memorial chapel this afternoon and under direction of Dr. J. B. Nykerk, Hope college dean, sang old psalms in Dutch.

This was the feature of the day for the annual tulip time festival which has been open three days and will continue through May 23. Thousands of visitors were present to hear these psalms.

Thousands also visited the flower show and strolled through the parks or drove over the city. They were greeted by more than two million flowering bulbs imported from the Netherlands.

RECOVERS DIAMOND RINGS LOST IN LOOP HOTEL

Mrs. E. M. H., 2018 Fifth Avenue, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, visiting in Chicago, lost two diamond rings in the washroom of a Loop hotel. They were, she said, the only precious things she had ever owned, and had been given to her by her grandmother. Heartbroken, she searched frantically for the two rings without success.

She was persuaded by friends to advertise her loss in the Tribune Want Ad Section. Next day, at her home in Cedar Rapids, she received a telegram that her rings had been found.

These facts were taken from a true want ad experience submitted to the Tribune during the recent True Want Ad Experience competition.

GIVES CLUE TO MISSING MAN; WINS $500

In the recent True Want Ad Experience competition conducted by the Tribune, K. J. T. Ekblaw, 212 Ridgeland Avenue, Oak Park, Illinois, wrote as follows:

"My brother-in-law, band director at the Elgin State Hospital, read a want ad in the Tribune offering $500 reward for information leading to the location of a man who had disappeared from his home in Rushville, Indiana. He was convinced that he had seen the missing man in the hospital. A phone call brought the missing man's banker to Elgin, where he identified the man, and arranged for his release. Upon leaving the hospital, the banker said, 'Here's your money,' and tendered a check for $500."

Florida Property Traded to Chicagoan.

Eighty-two year old Peter Jackson is happy today. No longer does he sit alone in his little Florida cottage with only a cat and a few chickens for companions. No longer does he need to totter about feebly, tending the little orange grove that had been his hermit's haven for ten dreary years. Gone, too, are the days of privation and want.

A Tribune Want Ad changed all that for old Peter. A Tribune Want Ad, placed by a friend to whom the old man had confided his plan for passing his declining days in comfort, did the job.

Offers to Trade

In a letter, written in a shaky and almost illegible hand, the old man told of his hope to "swap" his home and orange grove for a paid up membership in an old people's home.

His friend inserted a want ad in the Tribune. Forty-three replies were received, among them one from a Chicagoan who went to Florida to investigate. The property was found to be as the want ad stated. Now Peter Jackson has a paid up membership in an old people's home in Chicago!

This is a true want ad experience, sent to the Tribune during the recent True Want Ad Experience competition by Mr. W. A. McKenney, 7 W. Forsyth Street, Jacksonville, Florida, who was the friend of Mr. Jackson. It won the $100 prize.

This Swap Offer of Interest to Many Persons

How Russian Children Are Taught Duties

Primer Tells Ways to Aid Parents, State.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"NEW Russia's Primer," by M. Ilin [Houghton-Mifflin], is one of the most engaging books about the new Russia that has yet appeared in the spate of soviet literature that has inundated us lately. Not a few of the thousands [it seems] volumes of recent importation and home manufacture dealing with Russia have dealt with its five year plan. "New Russia's Primer" is source material on the subject, for it was written in Russian by a Russian engineer intimately connected with the working out of the plan and was done for the Russian people themselves, for Russian children. It has been translated by Jorge S. Counts, associate director of the International institute and professor of education in Teachers' college, and Nucia P. Lodge, research assistant in the International institute.

It is written in the simplest possible language, designed for use in the schools by children from twelve to fourteen years of age. It was written not only to acquaint them with the gentle five year plan of the new Russia, but, according to Professor Counts, "to introduce them to the entire subject of social planning." There is a zest about the author's pen, not only in what he has to say, but for the way it can be said. The young Russian author is a skilled engineer of ours and ideas as well as of future plans.

He begins his social lesson with the story of Mr. Fox and a million dollars which he wants to invest. "At last a business is found. Hats! That is what one should make. Hats sell; one get rich." But "the same idea occurs at the same time to Mr. Box and Mr. Cox and Mr. Nox. And they all begin to build hat factories simultaneously.

"Soon the market is glutted with hats. Prices are reduced, workers are discharged, the factories close. New machines grow rusty. Buildings are left for wreckage." Soon the whole circle starts again with the demand for hats which by this time have worn out. "The experiences with hats," says the author, "is repeated with shoes, with sugar, with pig iron, with coal, with kerosene. Factories are blown up like soap bubbles and burst. The world thinks that people had lost their minds."

The author proceeds to quote from American records of the havoc of overproduction—he takes all of his examples from America throughout the book.

After instilling doubts about the capitalistic system in the minds of his youthful readers, he gives a comparatively vivid picture of the plan which is described as neither wasteful nor economic.

First he discusses the "scouts of the five year plan," the men and the methods of discovery of raw materials and the charging of the uses to which they can be put through laboratory research.

He describes the "iron workmen," kilns, tractors, and other forces of modern mechanical life.

And as he preaches the doctrine of the new machine age in its material form, he preaches it likewise in its social form. And he offers the children their own five year plan. It is this:

1. To discover beds of lime and phosphorus.
2. To gather useful junk—rags, bone, wool, bones, scraps of metal, and so on—all of these things will soon be handy in our factories.
3. To build radios and loudspeakers.
4. To sort and treat with insecticide one hundred per cent of all grain used in bakeshops and on the farms of your parents.
5. To gather ashes for fertilizing fields.
6. To destroy ten marmots a year in the regions infested by these animals; to clear one-tenth of a hectare of land of parasites; to destroy all injurers on one fruit tree and on ten vegetables; to catch or destroy ten rats and ten mice.
7. To build one starling house and one feeding house a year. . . . Birds are our allies; they will help us to destroy parasites.
8. To acquaint in five years 5,000 children's bird brotherhoods, to found 1,000 collective poultry yards, and to build 5,000 chicken houses.
9. To add two good laying hens to the possessions of every peasant household.
10. To plant ten trees each in five years; to create pioneer forests of 5,000,000 trees.
11. To destroy bedbugs, roaches and flies in 500,000 homes.
12. To teach the illiterate to read and write.

In the minds of their children as well as their adults, Russia thus sends the sense of responsibility for the future.

Latin Quarter, Beauty, Love Hypnosis, Too

"SVENGALI."

His hair and beard were greasy black,
His soul was black likewise;
He hated sore to take a bath,
But—he COULD hypnotize!

Trilby ..... Marian Marsh
Little Billee ..... Bramwell Fletcher
The Laird ..... Donald Crisp
Taffy ..... Lumsden Hare
Honest ..... Carmel Myers
Gecko ..... Luis Alberni
Marta ..... Perika Beros
Mme. Vinard ..... Adrienne D'Ambricourt

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

John Barrymore has never done anything better than "Svengali."

He makes Du Maurier's unwashed hypnotist a weirdly fascinating creature, impossible to hate even in his dirtiest and most reprehensible moments. You laugh at, shudder at, and pity Svengali, and in that moment when he cries to the adored Trilby who is only responsive to him under hypnotism, "You are beautiful, my manufactured love! But it is only Svengali, talking to himself again!" there sweeps over you a wave of fierce, protective affection for the wretch.

"Svengali" the film closely follows George Du Maurier's novel "Trilby." The picture has been cunningly staged and costumes are alluringly of another period. As the story of the sinister music teacher who hypnotizes the pretty, joyous artists' model unfolds, you feel yourself living in the Parisian Latin Quarter of an earlier day, for the director has wrought well in maintaining "atmosphere." Under skillful handling all the characters become very real to you. Little Billee, the young English nobleman in Paris to study art, who loves and wants to marry Trilby; the two great-hearted, childlike, guffawing artist friends of Little Billee, known as The Laird and Taffy; Gecko, who serves and worships Svengali; Trilby herself, and the strange Svengali all live credibly and engrossingly for you.

Though you know the old story backwards you can't fail to fall under the spell of the screen "Trilby."

Mr. Barrymore's makeup is a triumph, and he does the most remarkable things with his eyes! The picture, as a whole, may pass from memory, but his portrayal of the title rôle will live as long as the player is remembered.

Marian Marsh gives a brilliant performance, considering that she's only been playing before the camera for a short time. She has big brown eyes and a lovely smile, and in the flaxen wig of Trilby she's a honey.

You remember, of course, that, hypnotized by Svengali, Trilby goes away with him and becomes a great singer. Never does Mme. Svengali appear without her husband. At all her concerts he wields the baton, his eyes unwaveringly on hers. When Svengali's strength fails, madame's concerts must be canceled. The two drift gradually to the night clubs, followed everywhere by the heart-broken Little Billee, who is present on the evening that the hypnotist collapses and, with him, the beautiful child he has made his creature.

"God," cries Svengali, "give me in death this woman I love whom I could not have in life!" And Trilby, lying inert in Little Billee's arms, with her last breath whispers:

"Svengali——!"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 17.—The latest of the late wrinkles on the social calendar of Berlin's elite, are "cellar" parties, and one of the most picturesque of these was given by Mr. Ewald Kretschmar of the Hotel Adlon.

The idea of the "cellar" party is epicurean—its purpose it to find out who has the best "wine tongue"—as the Germans call it. This is the time of the year when the wine experts gather to find out how the different vintages have weathered the winter, which wines have developed the finest bouquet, the velvety smoothness or gay sprightly tang, dear to the heart of connoisseurs.

The cellar of the Hotel Adlon, with over a million bottles of wines of all lands and vintages, provided the setting for this spring's first big "cellar" party. For those who want to follow the new fashion I shall give an interior decorator's description of the setting:

A long table, covered with a white table cloth, stood between the wall, with shelf over shelf of bottles of wine, and the row of huge barrels where the younger wines are maturing slowly, with water dripping melodiously in the background to furnish the moisture needed in the air of a perfect cellar. The ideal lighting for a cellar party is provided by empty bottles with candles stuck in them, spreading their soft glow all along the table.

The guests should be given white caps similar to those worn by cooks, and instead of napkins, white aprons which reflect the soft light of the candles. The food should be substantial to afford "a good foundation" for the drinking bout. Director Kretschmar gave his guests the traditional German "Erbsensuppe," pea soup with sausage, "Kalbshaxen" (calf's knuckles) and potatoes, cress salad and cheese—much cheese—the ideal foil for rare vintages.

The wine test begins with the first course. At some parties you just go in for the joy of sampling the wine—those are rare, however. Usually you must display your wine knowledge. The "cellar masters," generally wearing huge leather aprons, pour their golden or red wines out of bottles from which the labels have been taken, and the experts will get busy—which year? from where does this wine hail? Laurels or prize bottles of wine go to the best guesser.

Schenk Forbids Ads, Other Than Movies, on Screens at Loew's

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—The Loew Theatrical circuit, operating several hundred film houses in this country and abroad, will continue to refuse commercial screen advertising, Nicholas M. Schenk, president of Loew's, Inc., announced in a statement issued yesterday.

He denounced that type of advertising as being unfair to motion picture audiences. As president also of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, one of the leading producing companies, Mr. Schenck further said that his studios would not produce films subsidized by commercial advertisers.

The producer revealed that he is making an effort to convince other producers and operators of theater circuits that screen advertising is a menace to the picture industry and should be barred.

Mr. Schenck points out that he considers such advertising an imposition on audiences who pay money for entertainment and that he is also opposed to it because it constitutes competition with newspaper advertising.

Pastor Names 'Ten Greatest Women Today'

5 Americans on List of New Yorker.

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—The ten greatest women of today have been selected by Dr. John Haynes Holmes, pastor of the Community church, and in an address yesterday at Temple Beth-El, where his congregation is now worshiping, he told who they were and why he regarded them as belonging to the leaders of their sex.

DR. J. H. HOLMES.

The list includes five Americans, one English woman, one French woman, one Norwegian, one Russian and one Indian.

Dr. Holmes gave his list alphabetically as follows:

Jane Addams: By universal consent the greatest among modern women—lover of humanity, and a social statesman of sanity, saintliness, and serene idealism.

Annie Besant: Greatest of woman orators—a flaming spirit ever questing with unquenchable ardor after truth—a leader of multitudes in whom at last east and west have met.

Catherine Breshkovskaya: Grandmother of the Russian revolution, most heroic of all living martyrs for mankind.

Mme Curié: Immortal discovered of radium—greatest woman scientist of all time.

Emma Goldman: A social idealist of brilliant intellect and sacrificial courage.

Helen Keller: Most pitifully handicapped and most perfectly triumphant of women—her life the proudest personal achievement of modern times.

Edna St. Vincent Millay: The chief glory of contemporary American literature—well called "the greatest woman poet since Sappho."

Mme. Sarojini Naidu: First among Indian women—leader with Gandhi of the Indian Nationalist cause—orator, poet, statesman.

Margaret Sanger: Indomitable advocate of birth control, the greatest crusade in history for the emancipation of women.

Sigrid Undset: Author of "Kristin Lavransdatter"—winner of the Nobel prize for literature—supreme historical novelist of modern times.

"I think of other great and noble women," said Dr. Holmes. "Such women as Carrie Chapman Catt, Lillian Wald, Maude Royden, Virginia Wolf, Willa Cather, Selma Lagerlöf, Rozika Schwimmer, Henrietta Szold, Mme. Schumann-Heink—all notable leaders of their day! But the ten whom I have named seem to me to be supreme."

Decatur Music School Aids Veterans of World War

Seven hundred soldiers in the Edward Hines hospital at Maywood yesterday were entertained at a concert given by the Decatur College of Music orchestra and American Legion clown band of Decatur, whose appearance at the hospital was sponsored by the Decatur post of the American Legion. A program of military marches, overtures, and selections from musical comedies was presented.

FIVE OF HARKNESS FUND BRITONS WILL STUDY IN MIDWEST

Five students from the British empire are to study at middle western universities this fall as Commonwealth Fund Fellows. The names of the thirty-six newly appointed fellows were made public yesterday at the New York office of the fund.

The students who are to come to the west are John E. Duffield of Oxford, who will study zoology at the University of Chicago; Gordon B. B. McL. Sutherland of St. Andrews and Cambridge, to study physics at the University of Michigan; William G. Penney of the Imperial college of Science and Technology to study mathematics at the University of Wisconsin; Barend J. Dippenaar and Henry Robert Knowles, both of South Africa, to study in the department of agriculture at Wisconsin.

The students are to remain here two years as the guests of the Commonwealth fund of which Edward S. Harkness is president. The fellowships were established in 1925 to further understanding and good will between Great Britain and the United States. Under the fund 147 Englishmen and women have already come to the country for graduate study.

The prince of Wales is honorary chairman of the British committee of award which selected the 36 new fellows. There were 176 applicants. Sir Walter Buchanan-Riddell is the active head of the committee of award.

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—A library designed to house ultimately 4,000,000 books will be built and fully equipped for Columbia university on south field, facing the present Low Memorial library, with funds pledged by Edward S. Harkness. Announcement of the gift was made today by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia.

Young Chicago Wins Praise as Week Starts

Mayor's Aid Gets Key for Celebration.

"No city in America takes its children more seriously or attempts to serve them better."

This was the credo uttered last night by City Controller M. S. Szymczak, speaking at the New England Congregational church at the official inauguration of Youth week. Mr. Szymczak acted as spokesman for Mayor Anton J. Cermak and delivered the mayor's message on "Youth and a Better Chicago."

The observance merged with the Chicago Jubilee. In churches of all names the period set aside for the recognition of young people and their activities was ushered in with appropriate services. Many of those at New England Congregational church were Boy and Girl Scouts.

"Chicago has good reason to pay tribute to its youth who, through a period of trying times, have proved that they warrant the hope placed in them by the older generation," Mr. Szymczak said.

The city controller pointed out that while waywardness and delinquencies exist, it should be realized that the delinquency rate is not increasing although the city's population is growing.

"No city in America takes its children more seriously or attempts to serve them better," said Mr. Szymczak. "The city's boys and girls generally are of sterling character, rugged in mind and body, and astonishingly eager to advance. The atmosphere of Chicago's youth is one of ambition and achievement. Our overflowing high schools, trade schools, universities and technical centers of learning are a witness of that atmosphere. Nowhere has youth maintained its exuberance in better spirit or better carried it over into preparation for life's activities."

Youth week, remarked the speaker, is being observed in a far visioned way. Forty communities, incorporating the entire city are, he said, carrying out their own programs. This diversity of programs, he declared, provides opportunities for all to partake.

Yesterday morning the Evangelical Immanuel church, 7008 South Michigan avenue, was crowded with Girl and Boy Scouts and members of other organizations of that section of the south side.

At St. Rita's Catholic church, Fairfield avenue and 63d street, more than 1,000 children from 12 parochial schools held a special demonstration for the opening of Youth week.

THE STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE Theater Guild announces a list of nine plays, from which five will be chosen to form its next subscription season in Chicago. The Illinois theater will be the scene of this series of Guild productions. The list includes:

"Mourning Becomes Electra": Eugene O'Neill's latest work—a trilogy or sequence of three plays with the same characters. Its story takes place in a New England seaport town at the close of the civil war. The Guild wishes it understood that this group of plays will be treated as a unit at the box office; that is to say, its subscribers will not be charged three prices to see the trilogy.

"Reunion at Vienna": A comedy by Robert E. Sherwood, author of "The Road to Rome" and "The Queen's Husband," in which it is likely that Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne will have the leading rôles.

"The House of Connelly": A drama by Paul Green, author of "In Abraham's Bosom" and "The Field God," which deals with the old South in conflict with the tendencies of the present.

"Versailles": A drama of the peace conference by Emil Ludwig, the famous German biographer. It depicts Woodrow Wilson as an idealist in conflict with the diplomatic realism of Lloyd George and Clemenceau. This play has been successfully staged in Germany.

"The Coward": A psychological drama from France by H. R. Lenormand, author of "The Failure," which the Guild staged several years ago.

"Three Times Waterloo": A satirical comedy of theatrical life, by Eugene Gurster, a German writer.

"The Party": An American comedy by Dawn Powell, based upon certain methods of competition in business.

"The Sailors of Cattaro": A drama of the Russian revolution by Friedrich Wolf.

Under its recently formed agreement with a group of New York managers, the Guild will also offer its subscribers their usual privileges of ticket reservation for John Golden's staging of Rachel Crother's comedy, "As Husbands Go," and Gilbert Miller's staging of Philip Barry's drama, "Tomorrow and Tomorrow." These plays will be sent to Chicago with their original casts. To explain this plan the Guild says:

"In addition to the Guild's own subscription productions, the subscribers will see fine productions from the hands of managers affiliated with the Guild in a plan to improve theatrical conditions by the sane expedient of supplying as many good plays as possible. Since the Guild believes that good plays, well presented, will find audiences, it is felt that, with such a group of plays as the Guild and its affiliated producers can supply, much will be done toward restoring a public confidence in the theater.

"In addition to the productions of these affiliated producers, the Guild wishes to stress the point that its subscription audiences will from time to time receive subscription privileges on other fine plays which will come to the Illinois and Erlanger theaters during the coming season. This is by an arrangement with the Erlanger office, which is coöperating with the Guild in its present plans."

Prospects for summer playgoing in Chicago are brightened by the news that "Meet My Sister," a musical romance which has had a six months' run in New York, will begin an engagement at the Grand Opera house next Sunday night. This piece is of the "intimate" type now coming into vogue and may be described as an operetta minus the customary chorus. Its libretto was adapted from the German by Henry Wagstaff Gribble; the score is by Ralph Benatzky.

The principals in "Meet My Sister" are Bettina Hall, formerly of the American Opera company and "Three Little Girls"; Walter Slezak, from the German operetta stage; Olive Olsen, who was the comedienne in the Chicago company of "Follow Through"; Harry Welsh, the comedian who is remembered here as the jailer in "A Wonderful Night," and David Hutcheson, an English singing actor who scored a hit in "Sons o' Guns" last fall. "Meet My Sister" deals with a countess who pretends that she is her own sister in order to win the man she loves. The production will come here direct from New York with the original cast unchanged.

"The Greeks Had a Word for It" ended its engagement at the Harris theater abruptly last Saturday night.

Nations' League Hopes to Give New Calendar

Would Start 13 Month Year Jan. 1, 1934.

GENEVA, May 17.—[U.P.]—On Dec. 31, 1933, the league of nations hopes definitely to bury the present Gregorian calendar. And on Jan. 1, 1934, it expects to start the world off with a new, up to date calendar based on the world's present commercial, industrial, and social needs.

The league of nations' preparatory work for the reform of the calendar has now been in progress for six years and has reached a point where the league has felt justified in convoking two meetings this year that are expected to be decisive on the point.

The first of these will be a meeting of experts next month, who will coördinate the information that has been gathered by direct consultation with virtually every country in the world as well as the leading financial, commercial, industrial, and other interests.

The second will consist of the fourth general conference on communications and transit which will convene on Oct. 25. The latter is expected definitely to launch the international convention that will be necessary for the creation of a new calendar.

No attempt, however, will be made to put the latter into force before the end of 1933 in order that the entire world might have the time necessary to adjust itself to the change.

The calendar as it exists at the present time was first launched by Julius Caesar, then modified somewhat by Augustus Caesar, and finally corrected as well as it could be by Pope Gregory in 1600. While this calendar was adequate for the needs of the time when it was created and modified, there has been a general demand for several years past that it be put on a more practical basis to meet modern conditions. The two great drawbacks to the Gregorian calendar are the movable date for Easter and the unequal months.

In preparation for the reform of the calendar, the league has encouraged the organization of national committees in virtually every country of the world and has also consulted all of the leading religions. The final result has been that while the great bulk of the world's different interests is disposed to have the calendar changed, it has been impossible to secure an agreement in advance by all the religions concerned.

The principal objections come from the Jewish religion and the Seventh Day Adventists. Both of these feel that any change would strike at one of the fundamental bases of their religions.

As a consequence the league has decided to go ahead with the reform of the calendar as demanded by the rest of the world and allow the religions to adapt themselves as they may deem best afterwards. The world-wide consultations to date show that opinion generally is in favor of a calendar of 13 months of 28 days each with the last day as an international peace holiday.

Under this system the same days of the week and month will fall on the same date every year. In other words the first day of each month and each week will always be Monday, and the same will continue year after year.

This, it is declared, will simplify the question of accounting the world over; will make all the months equal, and will relieve the world generally of all difficulty in calculating the dates on which various days may fall in any year.

As regards the fixing of a permanent day for Easter the consultations show a vast majority in favor of April 9. It is believed that this will also be the most acceptable to the various religions, as it is the most specific date known in connection with the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ.

Riverside Tennis Club to Give "Scandals" Soon

Mrs. W. J. Webb of Riverside is in charge of the Town and Tennis club "Scandals" to be presented at the Chicago Town and Tennis club next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The program will include a variety of dances and dance playlets, in which will appear 21 women members of the club. Spanish dancing, Dutch dances, a Pierot dance, and tap dancing will be featured. Mrs. Russell Locke of Winnetka is to take one of the leading parts. An informal dance will follow the performance.

Nations' League, Model Size, Will Meet Today

The third annual Model League of Nations assembly, sponsored by the political science department of the University of Chicago, opens this afternoon in Mandel hall. Delegates from twenty-seven midwestern universities and colleges are to attend the session, which closes tomorrow evening. President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the university will turn the chair over to Adolph Rubinson, president of the university's political science club, after welcoming the delegates. The model league will copy the procedure of the league at Geneva in conducting its business.

OUR SECRET AMBITION

Average Girl Does Not 'Take to' Dutch Treat with a Fellow

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Apropos a recent discussion here on the subject of the fifty-fifty entertainment scheme as the solution of the young male wage earner's problem, I find from their confidences that the average young woman just is not fifty-fifty minded. Not in the pre-marriage period, anyway. After marriage, yes, they're willing to do their fifty, either in actual wage earning or in conduct of the home on an efficient, thrifty basis.

Only a small percentage of "modern" young women can look upon the suggestion that they pay half of the dinner check and theater ticket with composure. They get quite as riled up about it as if they were still practicing the dependent code of their great-grandmothers.

Obviously, word has got about among our young women that the one way not to keep a devoted suitor devoted is to offer to share the entertainment expense with him. Girl after girl reports the experience of a friend or an acquaintance or of her own where devotional returns on the fifty-fifty experiment are nil. O, yes, they realize that young men face a difficult problem when they take girls out and pay the bills under what one of them calls "the old code of chivalry."

On the other hand, they have expenses of their own in connection with the "dates." There are clothes, dancing slippers, and manicures and marcels, for young men insist on a snappy look to the girls they date. But that doesn't seem so strongly influencing a factor in the girls' refusal to embrace the fifty-fifty order as the fact that young men do not respond devotionally to the experiment.

They may admire the good sportsmanship of the young woman who shows mercy for their financial plight. They may accept, for a time, her suggested arrangement, but for permanent devotion and love it's the non-independent miss who proves the winner. Or, so the report is turned in to me by girls of the age interested in the problem.

"Marion" throws a little light on one modern's way of figuring, with: "I think women should share the expenses of a date only when they are paid on the same basis as men are paid. So long as employers pay us less than they pay men for the same kind of work and pay us less because we are women, then we should not go Dutch."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Time to Change.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have gone with a girl for six years. I still feel she is not the one I should marry. Should I seek another? CHET."

By all means. Feeling as you do, you could not make her happy.

—o—

Selfish Young Man.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend is peeved because I went to a show with my mother. Was I wrong? "BLONDIE."

I heartily approve of having your mother for a chum. He's rather a selfish young man.

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

CHILD'S DRESS.

This small jumper dress is made with a belt that may be omitted if the dress is more becoming worn hanging straight from the shoulders. Inverted plaits each side of the front and back give it a tailored air and provide suitable fullness at the hem. Blue plaid gingham, with the bindings in the deepest shade of the blue, and a white gulmpe, or any other of the wash materials in the blues, pinks, yellows, or greens, will be lovely.

The pattern, 3049, comes in sizes 2, 4, and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material for the dress, with ⅛ yard of 35 inch material for the blouse and 2½ yards of binding.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

M. M.: DROOPING OR ROUND shoulders and general body slumping put an extra tax on certain groups of spinal muscles and leave others unused. I have exercises for correcting round shoulders. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for them.

—o—

F. B.: STRENGHTEN THE ROOTS of the nails with oils every day and there will be less likelihood of them becoming dry and brittle.

Older Woman Is Seeking Her Own, Not Flapper, Styles

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Just give us members of the abused sex (tee-hee) time enough and we'll get around to doing the fairly sane thing. Witness the current recognition that we're not all 16 year olds, nor even 21s; therefore, we must compromise with flapper styles or have none of 'em at all.

In the heydey of the bob, knee length skirted age there was little evidence extant that women were aware there were seven distinct and separate ages allotted to humans: Childhood, teens, young ladyhood, et cetera. Seemingly, there was but one age, and it was just over the childhood border line. Now the same woman, grown more mature, of course, can look a shadowy mannequin silhouette square in the eye and dismiss what she (the mannequin) is parading with an honest: "Not for me, darling!"

In fact, they tell me in places where women come to order and be fitted that the current crop of not-so-young-and-slim shoppers is much better natured than formerly. They're willing to accept the fact gracefully that their heavier proportions are not suited to the things shown on models with a ninety pound look. And there isn't that avid desire of a couple of years ago to grind the fulsome curve down to a thin eyebrow line on a mad starvation diet.

All of which, I say, is a healthy and wholesome sign. Not that I'm against reducing where overweight is on board. You know very well that I'm always after the over-upholstered frame, pleading a neater "Chippendale" line for it. Nor am I against women trying to look their very youngest 30, 40, or 50, as the case may be. But it is wise and contributory to infinitely greater beauty if a mature woman recognises that she cannot look, act, or try to be 16."

Not that foregoing the flapper styles is going to make the older woman less chic. On the contrary, she may achieve far greater dress smartness.

Gray, Yellow Smart Sport Combination

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris couturiers have been most considerate of possible victims of the much talked-of hard times this season. They create many smart costumes that present a number of variations, so that they may adequately take the place of several ensembles.

This technique is particularly convenient to the average girl when it is applied to sports clothes, for while some such garments are essential, of course, they are secondary in importance to town clothes.

The Molyneux four piece sports ensemble, sketched today, will prove equally smart for street wear in town.

The skirt and the outside coat are of gray flannel, which is one of the favorite daytime fabrics in Paris this season. The skirt has a deep pointed hip yoke, outlined with double stitchings, and one inverted plait in front to give it width. The coat has all its edges finished in double stitched bands and similar bands accentuate the raglan cut and mounting of its sleeves. Four rows of stitchings decorate its hem and lower sleeves.

The inside jacket is of lemon yellow wool tricot, cut like a tuxedo. It has patch pockets on the hips and turned back cuffs. Its buttons and buckle are of gray bone.

The short sleeved sweater is knit in an open lacy pattern of the same lemon yellow wool. Its square décolleté is a smart style point. It is worn with a belt of gray suede. The gray skirt worn with the yellow jacket and sweater makes a kippy contrasting jacket suit. You may also wear the gray skirt and coat with the sweater without the yellow inside jacket, or you may wear all four pieces together.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Lesson Well Learned.

Starting in insurance is like most any other business—the elementary facts come first. It was while I was still in this first stage of progress that I called on a good prospect. On securing the interview I reached in my coat pocket to draw out a sales pad which we use in selling. Imagine my embarrassment when I placed it on his desk to find that I had brought out "Lesson II. on Insurance" instead.

Foster Mother Fights Obstacles Slowly, Quietly

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

If you're feeling discouraged this Monday morning about some one behavior difficulty of your son or daughter, just suppose for a minute that you had adopted a child and were told: that he had a terrible temper; that he was destructive; that you wouldn't be able to get him into a bathtub; that you would never get his hair washed because he had had cold water poured on his head as a punishment; that he liked meat and coffee; that he would amuse himself for a long time with a bag of candy tied to a chair; that he hadn't formed any toilet habits, so "here are some flour sacks for changing him."

Wouldn't you be somewhat aghast?

The foster mother whose letter was quoted yesterday had all these and other difficulties to meet and counter in the person of one small child. How she did so it will take several days to tell. Today we'll let her tell about training him to sleep.

"He had always slept with a grown-up, I was told. So the first two or three nights he slept with us. Then I equipped a little ivory bed with all new, blue, interesting blankets and placed it right by my side. In a few more nights it was put across the room.

"I had to sit with him at night until I coaxed him to sleep. He was fairly starved for affection and he was afraid I was going away. I would tuck him in, turn off the light, pat his hand, and review the joys of the day. He has never been put to sleep remembering anything unpleasant. It required half an hour, sometimes longer, before his little plaintive 'You there?' 'You still there, mother?' ceased. In this way he had no fear of the dark, and we never even suggest that the dark is different from the day, with anything to be afraid of.

"After a few weeks I would tuck him in, tell him goodnight, and listen to me wash dishes. Then I would walk out, leaving the door open so he could hear my movements in the nearby room, and be soon fast asleep. Now he will go to sleep for any one, at any one's house."

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clara Ellison, year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously. She and her mother lived in a remote section of Paris. Clara attended a school play one night and was brought home by friends. Her mother heard the car stop in front of the house and Clara's friends bidding her good night, but when she opened the door the girl had vanished.

Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel de Bertincourt, a man of many charms, but no moral sense. They are genuine and the possible heirs of their maternal Aunt Victoire, the Countess de Castelmauron.

Iris planned to divorce her husband and marry Maj. Alan Charnwood. Charnwood was to depart for Africa, has postponed his trip to help Iris.

At her aunt's insistence, Iris decides to stay in her home until Clara is found. When she returns she learns that her husband is already domiciled there. He seems to have changed in character, and has taken charge of the search for Clara. He has been seeing Clara unknown to her mother, for some time past, and knows more of the child's life than her friends than Iris. The circumstance is bent on reconciling the estranged couple.

Alan is refused admittance at the home of the countess.

Iris gets him secretly and tells him that on account of her aunt's assistance she cannot afford him. They plan to go to Helen Roderick's, the American woman for whom Iris has been working. Alan is at Helen's and meets Marcel there. He learns that they are friends, unknown to Iris. He resents having seen Marcel at Le Touquet, gambling heavily, and remembering with a sense of foreboding. Alan runs across an old friend, Tommy Hamilton, a journalist, and asks his help. They drop in a café, where Alan sees the woman who was one of Marcel's companions in Le Touquet.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

A SUSPICIOUS CHARACTER.

If the woman recognized Charnwood, she gave no sign. Her sleepy eyes remained as expressionless as currants stuck in a piece of plum duff, and as she leaned on him and Tommy with casual friendliness he was again reminded of the tortoise shell cat sunning itself on a doorstep.

"Stupid, these waiters are!" she murmured in good English, evidently referring to the recent accident. "The service here grows more slovenly each day. One wonders why one continues to frequent the place."

"Perhaps," he heard Tommy reply with suave readiness, "it is because we find it agreeable to meet so many familiar faces."

"Ah, so!" she agreed.

Charnwood was a little surprised to find her pursuing her chat with Tommy in the manner of an old acquaintance.

"I have not seen you lately, monsieur. You have been away?"

"Exactly the question I was going to ask you, madame. You have become quite a stranger in the quarter."

"True, monsieur, very true! The fact is, I have turned into a country simpkin. We—Pietro and I—have taken a tiny cottage, such a joke of a place, at Samois-sur-Seine. So peaceful, so charming! You know that neighborhood, monsieur?"

"Yes, it is a delightful spot."

"Is it not? I have a little garden where I grow my cabbages, my lettuce, my onions. Figs, too! O, yes, I raise beautiful figs. I assure you it is hard to tear myself away, even for an afternoon, but I have had to come up to see what is better about an old philobilia."

"And Pietro? How does an old boulevardier like him adapt himself to rural solitude?"

"Pietro?" She laughed again in luxurious enjoyment. "He has taken to it like a duck to water. No painting, though. Fishing is his hobby now. All day he is out on the river, perfectly happy whether he catches anything or not. But you know my Pietro—always smiling!"

Then, before Charnwood the vagabond Frenchman who had accompanied the woman at Paris-Plage. He listened with added interest.

"I, one wonders why one did not always live in the country," she went on ruminatingly. "But, there—it takes the best part of life to learn how to live, eh, monsieur? You must come and see our funny little house. Really, I must! Drop in while the weather is fine, and I will cook you a ragout to your heart's desire. Ah, ah, Yetta is a good cook! La Belle Colombiere—that is our name—the Beautiful Dove Cot. Pietro and I," she chuckled, "are the coos. You won't forget, will you? Samois-sur-Seine."

She finished the last drop of her lager and set the glass down with a click. "Dieu, good heavens! What is the time? I have a train to catch."

Tommy informed her that it was a quarter past ten. She looked startled and rapped loudly for the garçon.

"Is late as that? It will never do for me to keep Pietro waiting at the station! He will be tearing his hair. Not once on time in his whole life, but if Yetta is not punctual—ah, la, la!"

She paid her bill, hoisted her unwieldly mass off the seat, and gathered up her bag and a pair of dirty fabric gloves.

"But only, monsieur—and don't forget—La Jolie Colombiere, I shall count on you."

Bowing with the same jovial cordiality, she waddled across towards the door. Charnwood followed her departure with curious eyes.

"Do you know that woman?" he asked when she was gone.

"La Jolie Colombiere," repeated Tommy absently. "It was La Belle something before. O, every one in the quarter knows Yetta. She takes entirely too many pains to be ingratiating to me because—well, it's of no consequence."

"But who and what is she?"

"She calls herself Mme. Warshavsky. She appears to be a harmless person with no occupation other than sitting about cafés, but"—he paused—"she is remarkably like a woman known as Roche Anna, who ran a rather popular haunt in Berlin before the war."

"You knew her then?"

"I was writing up the underworld at the time. Here was a place innocent enough on the surface, but in reality catering to every eccentric vice. She was raided—sparkle charge of dope purveying—I was a witness at the trial, but she got off on a technicality."

"You are sure this is the same person?"

"Practically. She's older and fatter, but her hair gives her away—a good, fiery mop! It's not easy to forget. She's always uneasy as to whether or not I recognize her, hence the camouflage."

"I've seen her, too," said Charnwood. "It was at Paris-Plage, in September. She and the chap she calls Pietro were hobnobbing with the very man we mentioned a moment ago—Marcel de Bertincourt."

"But in that car?" Tommy listened attentively while Charnwood described what he had seen. "O, well, it's not surprising. As I said, every one knows that pair. Pietro, whose name I've never heard, is cracked on photography—holds forth by the hour, confounded law of averages and public opinion—is always ready to demonstrate something impossible with columns of figures."

"I daresay that explains his connection with De Bertincourt."

"It may, or else—well, I've had suspicions of Yetta's activities for some time. This haunting of cafés and hanging about corners—look at that, for instance!" he exclaimed suddenly, motioning towards the open door. Following his gaze, Charnwood made out the clumsy figure of Mme. Warshavsky peering expectantly on the pavement. "You see? All that talk about train schedules was pure eyewash. She went out because she doesn't like the look of us. I should say she's waiting to hand some customer a packet of 'snow' who doesn't want witnesses."

"Does De Bertincourt drug?" asked Charnwood slowly.

"Can't say, but I could give a jolly good guess at some one he knows who does. I say, let's shove along to my digs."

Outside, where the two streams of humanity from the intersecting boulevards mingled, they looked in vain for the woman.

"Gone," remarked Tommy. "But not to that picturesque haven on the Seine. I can tell you that much."

"How's that?"

"Simply because the railway ticket I picked up was marked Paris—Boulogne-Billet. If she'd known I read it she'd have put that cottage of hers in a different locality."

Tommy inhabited a small flat in the dignified square known as the Place St. Patois Bourbon, which lies behind the Chambre des Deputes. Here the two friends climbed the stairs to the sort of room Anglo-Saxon men call comfortable, rather disordered, but replete with masculine comforts.

"Make yourself at home," bade the owner. "But first come over here. I want to show you something."

WHITE SOX WHIP BOSTON, 2 TO 1, IN NINTH

EASTERN DERBY HORSES START JOURNEY HOME

Twenty Grand Heads Travelers.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 17.—Twenty Grand, Derby winner; Mate, which finished third, and the four other western colts shipped west after the Preakness, were loaded onto a palace horse car at 6 o'clock this morning for their return journey home. The five which started in the big event came out of the race without mishap and will be prepared for the Belmont Stakes on June 13, or for whatever events their trainers elect after appraisal of their Derby performances.

Twenty Grand is a sure starter in the Belmont, which is at the true Derby distance of one and one-half miles. Critics here would not be surprised for him to sweep the American Derby trail at Washington Park only a week later, if he comes through the Belmont in good condition. The American Derby is the same route as the Kentucky Derby, one and one-fourth miles. He surely will start in the Arlington Classic. Mate is not nominated for the Belmont, but will go to Chicago, according to present plans.

Equipoise May Run in July.

Equipoise will be rested in hope that his quarter crack which developed in a front leg will allow him to race in late July.

Bunny Ali, owned by Charles Fisher of Detroit, which made the best showing of the western owned colts by finishing second, will not go east for the Belmont, according to Trainer Bob Van Dusen, but will be reserved for the American Derby and the Arlington Classic, the latter the highest event for 2 year old race of the year.

Jamaica Boy, which finished fourth, Sun Beauty, which was fifth, and Spanking Boy, from the western division of the C. V. Whitney stable, will be shipped to Cleveland Tuesday to go in the Ohio Derby. Pittsburgher may accompany the trio, but Trainer Healy had not made up his mind this morning.

Considering business conditions at present, the fifty-seventh Derby was handled as a distinct success by the Churchill Downs management. While official publicity agents announced to the press stand that the attendance was greater than ever, that was not the opinion of those who have attended previous races. While available places of vantage were all occupied and the infield contained its usual crowd, it was much easier to get through the milling crowd to place wagers, if one wished to wager.

Betting Handles $1,377,298.

Volume of speculation, considering all circumstances, was surprisingly large. For the full card of seven races it totaled $1,377,298, compared with $1,561,349 a year ago. Advance wagering had been as low as $1,200,000. For the Derby alone was wagered, perhaps, was the fact that more 12 tickets were sold more than in any other year of the Derby, while the number of $100 tickets was by far the smallest during that period.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM LEAVES TO PLAY CANADIANS

New York, May 17.—(AP)—The United States Davis cup team left here today for Montreal, where it will meet Canada in the North American zone final on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. The squad was composed of three young players, Frank Shields and Sidney B. Wood Jr. of New, Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., and Ellsworth Vines of New Orleans, and Roland H. Prentice, non-playing captain.

Toledo, O., May 17.—(AP)—Sammy Ross of Ann Arbor, Mich., today won the 50 mile AAA automobile race at the Toledo track here in 73 minutes. Fred Wilman of Milwaukee finished second, a mile back. Herman Schurch of Los Angeles was third; Newell Jenkins of Cleveland, fourth; Gene Haustein of Detroit, fifth; Lou Naugey of Detroit, sixth, and John Cady of Detroit, Mich., last. Twelve started.

Helen Richardson, 24, of Detroit, suffered a fractured leg and scalds when struck by the racing car of Joseph Sievert, also of Detroit. Her car skidded through a fence. Sievert was slightly hurt.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Tommy Thomas is back again among the pitchers who can pitch. He put himself on a sound basis yesterday when, with about 12,000 watching his work, he held Boston to five hits and in other ways assisted materially in a snappy 2 to 1 victory for the White Sox. It was Tommy's second full game of the season.

TOMMY THOMAS.

In the nine innings of toil, which was so speedy that only one hour and 31 minutes were consumed, Thomas was jarred rudely in only one instance. That was when two were out in the ninth and Tommy was ready to concede himself a 1 to 0 triumph. A moment later he was forced to alter his ideas, because Earl Webb, who once did the same thing for the Cubs, although not frequently, hit a homer to right. But the Sox, instead of involving themselves in extra innings, promptly ended the argument in their half.

Moore Yields Winning Run.

The finishing blow was applied against the pitching of Wilcy Moore, who had been on the job for only a limited time. Moore made the mistake of passing Cissell to start the ninth and the White Sox didn't overlook the chance. Cissell got down to second on Tate's out and could have scored immediately if he hadn't hesitated about starting on Kerr's single over short. The belated start forced Bill to pull up at third.

Realizing the importance of a fly ball at this point, Manager Bush ordered Watwood to bat for Jeffries, but Boss Collins of the other side spoiled this scheme by having the pinch man disposed of on an intentional pass. Then Bush took a chance on winning right here or winning later with a less skilled pitcher. He yanked Thomas and let Jolley bat in his place. Jolley made good with a looping left field single on which Cissell romped home.

Gaston Baffles Sox.

Just a few words should be devoted to the grade of work turned out by Milt Gaston, Boston's starting pitcher. He was in there for seven innings before being sidetracked for a pinch hitter and during that time was touched for only three hits. Two of these, Thomas being the author of one, were coined into the south siders' first run in the fifth.

One of the few bits of action in the early portion of the struggle came in the White Sox first inning. Blue started the attack by caroming a single off Gaston's glove. Simons tried to sacrifice, but forced Blue at second. Reynolds bounced to short and Rhyne, in trying to force Simons, made a wide peg to Rothrock. This looked like an opening big enough through which to chase some runs, but the two fellows expired on the bases when Eichrodt flied out and Cissell grounded into a force play.

Then the famine set in and the Chicagoans didn't get another man to base until the start of the fourth when Reynolds survived on Rhyne's wild throw. Nothing came of the error.

Business Dull for Batters.

In these same four innings business was equally dull for Boston. Thomas personally threw out the only three batters who faced him in the first. Three others were just as easy in the second. In the third Tommy varied the process a bit by fanning Pickering, Ruel and Gaston in succession. The perfect string then snapped when Rhyne opened the fourth with a double to the left field board. Thomas looked after this emergency by fanning Rothrock and getting Sweeney and Webb on fly balls.

The Boston men got so rough in the fifth that they actually uncorked a couple of hits. Oliver lined to left for a starter and Rye, the Chicago boy who before the game was showered by

FEED BOX DOPE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 17.—[Special.]—Twenty Grand, enthroned champion of American 3 year olds and perfectly willing to defend that title against all challengers, was inclined to be petulant in his happiness this morning. There was reason enough, and The Wake was willing to share that petulance. It had been necessary to arrive at Churchill Downs at dawn in order to say good-by to the Derby winner and to secure his impressions of the race for our readers.

"Good morning, Wake," he nodded drowsily, "this is a fine time to wake up a champion just because we're going to ship home so early. I had intended to sleep late, then breakfast and finish with a stroll down the boulevard and look 'em over. But, no, I must get up, tell the valet what to put in my traveling bag, and be ready just like a nag which pulls a milk wagon at this unholy hour."

Twenty Grand had taken his shower but was still unshaven. Instead of regal vestments, he was attired in a pink sweater with black stripes on the sleeves, set off by a jaunty black cap—the ensemble symbolizing the stable colors. He also wore gray knickers, hose and rubbersoled oxfords.

"Although I felt supremely confident before the race, as I told you," continued the champion, "the actual running was rather easier than I anticipated. I was not dismayed at the start when I found the others outfooting me, but I was glad Charley, my jockey, wanted me to move up farther early in the race. I was sure Prince d'Amour would come back, but I didn't know much about Sweep All.

"Besides, Mate was up there about fourth, running easily and ready to strike. I wanted to take him more than any of the others because of that Preakness fluke. So I went after the lead about the same time that Mate and Ladder did. Ladder was through. Quickly after I had matched strides with Mate for a short distance, I knew I had him. He was going fast, but I was going faster.

"Sweep All was not coming back to me, so I went to him. He ran a good race after all that early pace. He may be quite a colt. I can hardly make up my mind after one race, but he did well this time. He can have another crack at me any time."

"Did you put on any celebration after the race?" we inquired.

"Oh, they gave me extra feed all right, but when I suggested we knock the heads of a few cold bottles, Trainer Rowe said boys of my age should not think of such things, and I suppose he was right. Guess I'll have to go now but I do hope either French or you, or both, will come down to the Belmont stakes. Jamestown is likely to meet me then in the first big race of his 1931 campaign. He might give me a tough time of it, but naturally I feel pretty high on myself after that fast time yesterday. So long, Wake; much obliged for the nice things you said about me and my best wishes to the Chicago crowd."

THIS WAKE IS CONDUCTED BY HARVEY T. WOODRUFF—HELP! HELP!

WINTER BOOK FAVORITE

Failure of Equipoise to start in the Derby demonstrates the chances taken by bettors in the play or pay winter books, where the C. V. Whitney colt had been a heavily played favorite from the time nominations closed in February until after the Preakness. It was the first time in years that the winter book choice had failed to start.

Back in 1924, Wise Counsellor, owned by Fred Burton of Chicago, was the winter choice. He was shipped east for the Preakness, developed lameness and was out of both Preakness and Derby. THE TRIBUNE at that time was the first newspaper to make announcement of his withdrawal.

Whitney Family Popular.

While Twenty Grand is not Kentucky owned, the victory was popular in the Blue Grass state because both branches of the Whitney family are highly esteemed here. They always have nominated for the Derby and started whenever they had anything worth while. Whitney sportsmanship, originated by William C. Whitney, once secretary of war, is traditional on the turf. C. V. Whitney, owner of Equipoise, is a grandson.

Mrs. Payne Whitney, owner of the winner, is a daughter of John Hay, once secretary of state.

Do You Remember Way Back When:

Regret, to which Twenty Grand has relationship, won the Kentucky Derby of 1915, the only filly ever to accomplish that feat?

TILDEN DEFEATS RICHARDS IN FIVE SETS AT STADIUM

Big Bill Takes Fourth of Pro Tennis Series.

For the fourth straight time in their series of matches for the world's professional tennis championship, William T. Tilden defeated Vincent Richards at the Chicago Stadium last night, rallying to take the last two sets, after Richards apparently had him on the verge of his first defeat. The scores were 7-5, 1-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Tilden appeared to be master of the situation all the way, dropping the second and third sets largely through carelessness. He came back strong to win the fourth set at 6-1, and broke through Richards' serve in the ninth game of the fifth set.

Tilden Scores 13 Aces.

Although Tilden had clinched the series by winning matches at New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, he did not seem inclined to let his victory string lapse. He had frequent recourse to his famous cannonball service, scoring 13 aces altogether, one of which was the finishing point of the match.

In a preliminary contest, Emmet Pare of Chicago, former national clay court champion, and Bobby Sellers of San Francisco split even, each winning a set at 6-3.

About 6,300 fans saw the matches.

Tilden Steady at Start.

Both Tilden and Richards started the first set cautiously, but Tilden was steadier. Richards managed to tie the count at 5-5, but lost the next two games and the set.

Big Bill played some of the tricks of his amateur days at the opening of the second set. What he thought was a bad decision by a linesman brought some of his old time glares in the direction of the miscreant, and his game went to pieces. Richards ran out the first five games quickly. Tilden halted the rout with a single game and then Vinn took the set, 6 to 1. Richards' ground strokes were speedier and he was getting into the forecourt faster.

Richards kept his advantage during the third set. Both were steady, but Richards kept pounding Tilden's forehand and finishing off points from the net position to win the set, 6 to 4.

Richards Tires.

After the rest period Big Bill had the edge. Vinny seemed to tire rapidly, while Tilden got control of the match once more, running out the set, 6 to 1. Richards, for some reason, kept hammering at Tilden's backhand and Big Bill was banging cross court placements over the net with too much accuracy and for even Richards' brilliant net game.

The fifth set was a hard battle. Richards was dead on his feet but he kept at it doggedly. Games went to service until the score stood 4-4. Vinny could not cover, the court to keep up with Tilden's angled shots to the corners in the ninth game and Big Bill scored the first service break of the set to lead 5 to 4. Tilden then ran out his own service for the match.

Richards' net game was affected by the overhead lights as Tilden was lobbing repeatedly whenever Vinny came to the net.

IRISH FOOTBALL CHAMPIONS BEAT NEW YORK, 9 TO 6

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—Before a crowd of more than 50,000 people at the Yankee stadium today the Irish champions of Gaelic football from County Kerry, Ireland, defeated a team selected from the New York district, 9 to 6. The assemblage set a record for Gaelic football attendance in this country.

The teams will play two more games here in a series for a cup. The contests will take place in the stadium on May 31 and June 1, total points to count. Next Sunday the Irish champions will play a picked Chicago team at Soldiers' field, Chicago.

The New Yorkers put up a surprisingly good game in the second half and forced the champions to their best. Three of the home team's six points were accounted for by the only goal made in the game.

GOLF STROKES • RIGHT & WRONG

by Jock Hutchinson

RIGHT.

In striking the ball with the putter, the hands and wrists must move forward together. This keeps the blade at right angles to the line of roll and the club head close to the ground. Most good putters hit with the right hand, leaving the left follow along in unison. The hands move right through the ball and on toward the cup.

WRONG.

The beginner's hands have stopped too soon and too suddenly, making his wrists carry the club head through the latter part of the stroke. This raises and turns the blade of the putter, causing him to hit across the ball and half top it. Thus accuracy, both of distance and direction, is destroyed. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Dizzy Dean Wins Game for Houston, but Loses Fight

Dallas, Tex., May 17.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, eccentric youthful pitcher who was banished to Houston by the St. Louis Cardinals, won a nicely pitched ball game here today, but lost a boxing decision to Alfred Todd, husky Dallas catcher.

Dean held the Dallas team of the Texas league to five hits, enabling Houston, a Cardinal farm, to break a losing streak and win, 7 to 1.

Words between Dean and Todd started early in the game, when the latter charged the Houston hurler with "dusting" him off at the plate.

Coming to bat in the ninth Todd took exception to two balls which forced him to duck, dropped his bat, and strode to the pitcher's mound. Todd landed three blows, one on the arm, one on the mouth, and one on the eye, before players and police pulled the two apart.

Both were permitted to remain in the game.

$30,000 LEAVES MAX'S MEMORY SLIGHTLY HAZY

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—Into the lap of Max Pincus, hearse driver for the Jewish Memorial chapel of Brooklyn, fell a $30,000 plum today.

Max, who is 28 and lives with his parents, four brothers and three sisters, was informed by a telegram that he had won first prize in the Blue Grass Breeders' association pool on the Kentucky Derby. He is to call at a Manhattan office tomorrow, the message said, and receive the money.

But while Max was turning handsprings and dancing a gazotsky his boss, Abe Misikoff, reminded him of a verbal agreement. Hadn't he and Misikoff and Ben Linder, another driver, sworn to split the profits when they bought a ticket apiece? Max couldn't remember any such promise and disappeared in the midst of the argument. He had not returned home late tonight.

Jonesless Field Opens British Golf Tourney

BULLETIN.

WESTWARD HO, DEVON, ENG., May 18.—(AP)—George Voigt of New York, chief American hope in the British amateur golf championship, defeated T. H. Bowman, Norfolk champion, 4 and 3, in a first round match today. After a somewhat shaky start Voigt settled down to a streak of steady, consistent golf that was plenty good enough to whip Bowman, known to British experts as an extremely able match player. Douglas Fairbanks, the film star, was beaten by J. R. Abercrombie, of the Royal Liverpool club, 1 up, after a tense battle. L. R. Phillips of Santa Barbara, Cal., was defeated by N. C. Selway, 1 up.

DEVON, England, May 17.—(AP)—The magical golfing figure of Bobby Jones was absent at Westward Ho on the eve of the British amateur championship tonight, but most of the other big names of British golf were here along with one outstanding American challenger, George Voigt of New York.

Task for Lesser Lights.

With the finals scheduled for Friday, the winner of the crown Jones relinquished has a difficult program ahead of him. Voigt, for instance, has two rounds daily beginning tomorrow when he meets a fine match player in T. H. Bowman, who repeatedly has won the Norfolk championship. Assuming a victory in the first round Voigt will meet either Francis Francis or Sydney Fry in the afternoon.

The lesser lights of the American contingent also have a hard road to travel. Douglas Fairbanks meets a tough first round opponent in J. R. Abercrombie, and, if he survives, either A. R. Aitken or Noel Layton later in the day. L. R. Phillips and M. C. Selwyn are first off the tee at 9 a. m.

In addition to Voigt, Fairbanks, and Phillips, the United States will be represented by R. Thompson, T. Maguire, E. J. Hadden, Joshua Crane, J. H. Forsman, H. Scheftel, and C. Lewis.

Tolley Next in Favor.

The British amateur, with its 18 hole matches one after another, day after day, is the biggest gamble in golfdom and the odds against any one winning it are at least 20 to 1. Nevertheless Voigt, because of his great play at St. Andrews, when he came within an ace of eliminating Jones in the semi-finals, is a favorite for the title.

Cyril J. H. Tolley perhaps is next in favor, and should each of these favorites come through their 18 hole ordeals they will clash in the 36 hole final.

Voigt is in the top half of the draw, with such stars as Roger Wethered, Leonard Crawley, the new English champion; T. A. Torrance, John De Forrest, new Surrey champion; Michael Scott; Sir Harold Gillies, and Eric Fiddian. In the lower half with Tolley are Robert Harris, J. A. Stout, E. R. Tipple, Rex Hartley, Lister Hartley, Douglas Grant, and most of the second string American golfers.

BAECHT TO HURL TODAY IN FINAL WITH PHILLIES

Figures Show Cubs Thrive on 2d Flight Pitching.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 17.—The Cubs' eleven bad weather days off put them in swell shape for the blue law rest which they took in this town today. This fine training, together with the 17 to 6 score with which they won their first eastern victory in the second game with the Phillies yesterday, enabled the fellows to sit about today with a minimum of wear and tear on their physical and mental equipment.

Tomorrow the Cubs will play the final here before proceeding to Boston where they again get back in first division competition. In their games with first division enemies this year they have won one while losing seven and naturally are eager to get on to Boston and see if it isn't possible to show a little class against at least one group of boys in the top half of the National league.

Baecht to Face Phils.

Ed Baecht, who was promoted from the Phillies to the Coast league before coming to the Cubs, will pitch for Chicago tomorrow, according to Manager Hornsby's decision reached this afternoon. He will be opposed by H. Elliott.

As a result of the 32 hits which the Cubs made in their Saturday double header there are now four men in the regular lineup batting above .300, not counting Stephenson, who seems to have taken his place as a pinch hitter.

It is quite natural that the hitters should thrive better on second division pitching, for that's the reason usually that it is second division pitching. Up to the minute figures, however, indicate that the Cubs are particularly anxious to have their pitching soft.

What Table Shows.

The following revision of a comparative table previously printed reveals that some of the sluggers have made their showing almost entirely at the expense of the second flight pitchers.

	All clubs.	First div. Cards-Giants.	Pirates. Reds. Robins. Phils.
English	.330	.250	.367
Moore	.321	.400	.278
Hornsby	.375	.192	.463
Wilson	.332	.281	.383
Cuyler	.349	.350	.367
Hartnett	.268	.172	.340
Bell	.291	.233	.321
Grimm	.324	.269	.300

The Cubs realize that while their won and lost record against second division clubs is excellent—they've won 11 while losing 3—they'll have to do a lot of perking up against the speed boys of their organization for the double purpose of elevating themselves and simultaneously knocking down their contending rivals. Because they have been unable to make a showing against the class of the league and for this reason alone, the Cubs have been in fourth instead of first place.

Of course, the athletes tell you what they are going to do "when Wilson and Hartnett start hitting," but until such time as the games actually are placed in the win column you can't get arrested for wading around a bit in the actual figures. Or should you?

N.Y. Doctor Warns Against Disease from Golf Clubs

New York, May 17.—[U. P.]—Another menace was added to golf today when Dr. Charles F. Pabst, director of the department of dermatology of Green Point hospital, warned against a disease that may be contracted from the leather handles of golf clubs.

"If clubs are used by many persons daily," he said, "the handles soon become covered with dirt, perspiration and germs. A disease called fungus dermatitis is a frequent result. Symptoms are redness and itching and a scaling between the fingers and on the palms."

320 CONFERENCE TRACK ATHLETES TO MEET AT N. U.

Hold Big 10 Title Meet Friday, Saturday.

Three hundred and twenty track and field athletes of the Big Ten, comprising one of the best fields in the history of the conference, will finish training this week in preparation for the annual championships at Dyche stadium in Evanston Friday and Saturday.

Numbered among the large group of stars who will compete in the coming games are seven champions from the 1930 meet. In addition there are a number of aspiring sophomores headed by Jack Keller, sensational Ohio State hurdler, who figures to make the going difficult for the veterans.

Here Are 7 Champs.

Last year's title winners who are entered again are Lee Sentman, Illinois, both hurdles; Henry Brocksmith, Indiana, two mile; Dale Letts, Chicago, half mile; Vern McDermont, Illinois, pole vault; Ed Gordon, Iowa, broad jump; L. G. Weldon, Iowa, javelin, and Sam Behr, Wisconsin, shot put.

Renewals of the Sentman-Keller duel in the hurdles and the McDermont-Warne rivalry in the pole vault head the card of sixteen events. Sentman, who has reigned supreme in his specialties for the last two years will be faced with the hardest job of his career to wind up his conference competition with victories. Keller took Sentman's measure at the Ohio relays recently, when he traversed the 120 yard high hurdles in 14.3 seconds.

McDermont, who set a new conference pole vault record a year ago of 13 feet 10⅞ inches, has been turning in consistent performances all spring. His chief rival in the coming games is Tommy Warne, Northwestern's vaulting star, who has been handicapped most of the year by a weak ankle which failed to round into shape after being broken last summer. He tied McDermont at the Ohio relays with a vault of 13 feet 7⅝ inches and appears to be ready to wage a real battle against his Illini opponent. It will be the last conference meet for both men, since both are seniors.

Michigan May Repeat.

Michigan, winner in last year's event with 51 points, is in a good position to repeat again this year, but will no doubt find the competition much more formidable. Any one of four other schools will give the Wolverines plenty cause to worry. Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio, and Indiana all will be represented by well balanced teams.

The Wolverine forces will be headed by Eddie Tolan, who two years ago established the present world's record of 09.5 in the 100 yard dash on the track at Dyche stadium. Smyth and Campbell also will be strong contenders in the century and the 220 yard dash. Russell, Glading, and Eknovich in the 440, and Austin and Howell in the two mile are additional reasons why the Wolverines are expected to repeat their 1930 victory.

Dale Letts, brilliant middle distance star, will head Chicago's contingent. Letts is nearly certain to win whatever event Coach Ned Merriam elects to start him in from the quarter to the mile. He has been undefeated in the 440, 880 and mile run this year.

Illinois, which has divided championship honors with the Wolverines during the thirty-one years of the meet's history, will have its usual well balanced team. In addition to Sentman and McDermont, Coach Harry Gill has a number of other certain point winners in Purma, discus and shot; Gould and Woolsey in the mile, and Cave in the hurdles.

Badgers Send Stars.

Wisconsin will present Sammy Behr, the defending champion in the shot put; Ted Shaw in the high jump, Frisch in the hammer, Bill Henke in the quarter, and Kirk in the mile. All are figured to place well up in their specialties.

Ex-Columbia Net Captain Upsets Berkeley Bell

New York, May 17.—(AP)—Jerry Lang, former Columbia captain, upset the highly favored Berkeley Bell of Dallas, Tex., in the final round of the North Side tennis singles championship today after three hours of gruelling play. The scores were 4-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

Par Is Four, but This Golfer Gets a Birdie Five

Carbondale, Ill., May 17.—[Special.]—E. B. Goodart made a birdie on the eighth hole of the Midland Hills golf course here today. Par is four on this hole and Goodart's score was five. The birdie was made as Goodart drove from the tee, his ball hitting a redhead woodpecker, which was flying over the fairway. The bird dropped to earth dead.

Power Boat Regatta
(Entry Blank)

Motorboat Editor,
Chicago Tribune:

Dear Sir: I am interested in the Milwaukee to Chicago outboard motorboat marathon May 30 and the 14 speed races May 31 at Navy Pier. Please send me an official entry blank which contains all details of these events and the cruiser marathon which will be held from Chicago to Milwaukee May 30 and return May 31.

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

(Print name legibly. Mail to Motorboat Editor, Chicago Tribune.)

Want Thrills? See Regatta Off Navy Pier

While the marathons for outboard motor boats and for cruisers will inaugurate the power boat regatta sponsored by THE TRIBUNE May 30 and 31, the thrills are reserved for May 31 when fourteen races will be decided over the 2½ mile course north of Navy pier.

The outboard marathon, from Milwaukee to Chicago, will have thrills a-plenty. But except for the start at Milwaukee and the finish here, the racers will be several miles from land.

Thousands to See Regatta.

These same boats, however, with additional entries, will compete for the prizes offered by THE TRIBUNE in the power boat regatta. And the skill of these speed boat drivers can be seen at all times from the vantage points on Navy pier and along the lake shore. Undoubtedly thousands will see these races which comprise a program never before presented with such thoroughness of preparation.

Displacement boats and outboard hydroplanes will race in separate divisions in the marathon from Milwaukee to Chicago. The race will start at 8:30, central standard time, from Milwaukee. Lake Michigan alone will determine whether the hydroplanes can race, for rough water will have many of them floundering as soon as they leave the breakwater.

The marathon for cruisers leaves Chicago on May 30 and after an overnight stop in Milwaukee back tracks in time for the speed races at Navy pier on May 31.

Fourteen Events Listed.

Fourteen events are listed in the power boat regatta. They are:

Stock runabouts—Not over 50 horse power.
Stock runabouts—50 to 125 horse power.
Stock runabouts—125 to 200 horse power.
Stock runabouts—225 to 300 horse power.
Open handicap race for inboard boats, based on manufacturer's advertised horse power.
Hydroplanes—125 cubic inches.
Class A outboard race for amateurs.
Class B outboard race for amateurs.
Class C outboard race, open.
Class D and E outboard race, open.
Class F and free for all, open.
Displacement boat race, handicapped for class B and class C amateur drivers.
Amateur displacement boat race, free for all.
Amateur outboard race for the championship of the central west.

If you wish to enter any one or several of these races, clip the blank which appears in these columns.

BREAKS CASTING MARK; GETS 98 DRY FLY SCORE

F. R. Steel of the Lincoln Park Casting club yesterday set a new casting record with 98 points in the dry fly event of the weekly tournament of the club at Fullerton avenue and the inner drive. The former mark of 97 points was established by C. P. Cuenin of San Francisco at Buffalo last summer.

W. B. Sturgis took second place with 97, and A. T. Wicklund was third with 96. The ⅝ accuracy bait event was won by A. J. Naugle with 96, while H. Anderson finished second with 93. J. B. Nystrom was third with 91. W. C. Brewer and A. Salago tied with 97 for first place in the ⅝ accuracy event. W. Miller scored 95 points to take third place.

COCHET OUT OF GAME; FRANCE'S NET HOPES FADE

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 17.—[Special.]—The gloom which already hung thick over Roland Garros' stadium when persistent rain, making all tennis playing impossible, caused postponement until tomorrow of the opening day of the French international championships was deepened when the announcement was made of the withdrawal of Henri Cochet, French tennis ace and world's ranking player, from all doubles competition owing to ill health.

Cochet phoned from Lyons, where he went to spend the week end, that he is suffering from a bad attack of grippe, with a high fever, and might not even be able to compete in singles play commencing at the end of this week.

The scratching of Cochet, coming on top of the severe defeat of Borotra yesterday from the racquet of F. J. Perry, one of Britain's youthful tennis hopes, 1-6, 6-0, 6-3, in an intercountry tournament gave the French tennis officials and fans much concern about the fate of the Davis cup which the resumption of practice by Rene La Coste was not sufficient to alleviate.

While ill health was advanced as an explanation of Cochet's overthrow in Milan a few days ago when he lost to G. P. Hughes, another of England's tennis prospects, it was felt that should illness continue necessitating complete absence from the courts for a few weeks, Cochet might find it difficult to reach top form for Wimbledon and the Davis cup challenge round. No excuse was offered for Borotra's defeat. The Frenchman was all out to win, but he succumbed before Perry, who yesterday was a much better player than the Basque.

ISO-VIS TEST CAR NO. 1 (BUICK) rolls in town Today

AAA REPORT
certifies to excellent lubrication by New Iso-Vis in Buick

1 Iso-Vis Motor Oil did not thin out from dilution.

2 During the entire test of 9,000 miles, all parts of engine and chassis were lubricated effectively.

3 Consumption: Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy) in 1,000 mile test at 30 m. p. h.—only 1 quart. At higher speeds, all oils showed greatly increased consumption.

4 Carbon: only 5.4 grams per cylinder at 30 miles per hour, using Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy).

6 Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline used—did not knock.

The Buick being serviced during run on Indianapolis Speedway

SEE this car at your Buick dealer. Listen to its quiet purr. What a story it has to tell. It was rushed through a year's average mileage on the Indianapolis Speedway in a little more than 3 weeks. The fine condition of its engine now is proof of the excellent lubrication your car will receive from New Iso-Vis.

This Buick was used in the 13-car lubrication study conducted by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. And now it's out on the road gathering more data.

GRIMES HALTS GIANTS; CARDS EVEN SERIES, 6-1

Five Homers Hit Before Crowd of 56,000.

New York, May 17.—[U.P.]—Behind the steady pitching of Burleigh Grimes, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the New York Giants, 6 to 1, today to even their series at one game each. A crowd of 56,000 saw the game.

Grimes allowed the Giants only eight scattered hits. Vergez's home run accounted for the New York tally. Two home runs by Watkins and circuit drives by Martin and Bottomley caused the downfall of Fred Fitzsimmons. It was his first defeat of the season. Score:

ITALIAN REGATTA CLOSES WITHOUT SINGLE QUALIFIER

GARDONE, Riviera, Italy, May 17. —(AP)—The Gardone motorboat regatta ended today without any of the competitors, including Kaye Don, reaching the required speed of 100 kilometers an hour in the competition for the cup offered in memory of Sir Percy Shelley by the poet, Gabriele D'Annunzio. Accordingly the cup was withdrawn from competition until next year.

Rough weather today handicapped all the pilots and the boats all had slow going. D'Annunzio himself appeared to witness the competition and refrained from Don a promise to remain here a few days longer before deciding to abandon his attempt to break his own world's speedboat record.

Results: Turnbull, Monrovia, Cal., pilot who won one event of the regatta, will go to Turin for the races there May 23 and 24.

Handley Will Coach Olympic Swim Team

New York, May 17.—(AP)—L. De B. Handley will coach the women's American Olympic swimming team of 1932, it was announced tonight by the Amateur Athletic union. Handley has been coach for the Women's Swimming association of New York for many years. Among his pupils are Gertrude Ederle, Ethelda Bleibtrey, Martha Norelius and Eleanor Holm.

Royal Playground Ball League Opens Tonight

SENATORS, BROWNS SPLIT.

St. Louis, Mo., May 17.—[Special.]—A ninth inning rally which produced three runs enabled the Washington Senators to defeat the Browns in the second game of their double header here today, 4 to 2. The Browns, behind Sam Gray's pitching, took the first game, 7 to 1.

Going into the last inning of the second game with a 2 to 1 lead, George Blaeholder, St. Louis pitcher, cracked, Sam West and Ossie Bluege hitting consecutive home runs to pull the Senators ahead.

Gray had the Senators at his mercy in the first game and ended Washington's winning streak at six straight.

Green Lake Sets Northern Pike Hatching Record

BY BOB BECKER.

Hatching 3,114,000 northern pike fry out of a stock of 4,448,000 eggs is the record of the town of Green Lake, Wis., which with the authority of the Wisconsin conservation commission has entered the fish growing business as an aid to restocking Green lake and adjacent fishing waters.

This is the fourth season that Green lake tackled the job of raising pike to stock its fishing waters. It's a good example of how enterprising communities can supplement the work of state agencies in trying to grow enough game fish for the rapidly increasing number of rod and line enthusiasts.

This year Green Lake has built a pen in a stream which enters the lake to hold hundreds of adult northern pike or pickerel. This pen is so large that six to seven hundred of the fish could be held without crowding. Fishermen who have the idea that there are no large northern pike in Green lake would have seen hundreds of big fellows weighing between eight and 16 pounds in this pen had they visited it several weeks ago.

Although Green lake focused attention on the northern pike their hatchery also gave some attention to the wall-eyed pike or pike perch. More than 45,000 eggs were gathered of which 40,000 hatched out, and the fry planted in the lake. In addition, rough fish were caught in the nets and destroyed, a stunt which, although incidental to the propagation work, is an excellent conservation measure because such rough fish as gars, suckers, carp, etc., cut down the annual crop of worthwhile game fish in any lake.

It takes several years to grow pike to a size suitable for sport on the end of a fishing line. Therefore, fishermen who visit Green lake may hook a number of small ones during the next few years. As a matter of fact, both the pike and muskie are such bold aggressive strikers that they will hit lures almost as big as they are. We have hooked young muskies in northern Wisconsin on big spoon lures which looked large enough to scare any ordinary fish.

Thomas Hurls White Sox to 2-1 Victory

admirers with flowers and the inevitable traveling bag, singled over Kerr. Pickering popped close to the line in short right and the ball fell between Kerr and Reynolds for a single. Thomas went to work immediately. He dispensed with Ruel by hooking over a third strike. Then Gaston smashed one squarely on the seam, bat, happily for Thomas, it went straight into Jeffries' hands at third.

Sox Score on Two Hits.

Having seen Boston produce two hits in one inning, the Chicago brand of hosiery immediately demonstrated that they could do the same. The difference was that the Chicagoans made their two blows produce a run. The first of the two clouts boomed into left off Kerr's bat to open the home fifth. Jeffries performed the customary sacrifice. Then Thomas singled to center. Kerr tore around third and Bush, as coach, wigwagged with the idea of stopping him, but the young man went past the signals and scored with ease. Blue's fly and Simons' infield roller completed the inning.

The White Sox didn't come up with another hit until the eighth when Moore started to pitch. Blue produced the single with one out and was safe at second when Sweeney made a wild throw on Simons' grounder. Help for the two runners was not forthcoming from either Reynolds or Eichrodt.

Lyons to Start for Sox.

In the meantime Thomas had turned out three more innings, the sixth, the seventh and eighth, in which nothing had happened except a single by Webb to open the seventh. And, as previously set forth, it was this same Webb whose homer with two gone in the ninth made it necessary for the Chicagoans to stage another scoring episode.

Another move looking toward the possible gradual improvement of the Comiskey employés will be made today. Ted Lyons, the ace of the staff, will make his first start of the season. Lew Fonseca, fresh from Cleveland in the deal for Kamm, also will be among those in action. Just where he'll play will not be decided until Bush has had a chance to talk shop with him. Lisenbee will be nominated against Lyons.

ROETTGER AND SIMMONS BOOST BATTING MARKS

Al Simmons and Wally Roettger continued to clout the ball at a great rate yesterday and continued to hoist their averages and their places in the standing of Baseball's big six. Each hit safely three times in five trips to the plate, Simmons connecting for his seventh home run. The Philadelphian raised his first place average ten points to 424 while Roettger went up 12 to 393, joining the idle Bob Fothergill in second place in the sextet.

Jim Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals hit a homer and a single in four times up and displaced his teammate, Ernie Orsatti, from third in the National league. The standing:

BELASCO BURIED BY HIS FRIENDS OF THE THEATER

5,000 Attend Services at Synagogue.

New York, May 17.—[U. P.]—David Belasco was buried today by friends and fellow workers in the theatrical profession who said of him that "he was the interpreter to the American people of their own emotions."

They praised him as a man who had—perhaps more than he himself knew—helped to mold American thought; a man who fed the nation's eagerness for entertainment by producing plays within the wide range that lies between "The Girl of the Golden West" and "It's a Wise Child." They praised the technical perfection he brought to every production with which he was associated, no matter how shoddy the material; and they lauded him for his 76 years of labor which ended, in the midst of many new plans, by his death Thursday.

Stage Celebrities There.

Five thousand persons were in and around the Central synagogue where unpretentious ceremonies were held. They included Lenore Ulric, the vivid, black haired actress whom Belasco raised to a preeminent place in the theater by giving her such vehicles as "Lulu Belle" and "Mima." Mayor James J. Walker, an intimate friend of the producer, was there; so was Edward Childs Carpenter, who wrote many of Belasco's successes; so were Lee Shubert and George M. Cohan, Belasco's rivals in the theater but his close friends in the outside world.

Rabbi Jonah A. Wise delivered a brief eulogy. The chief eulogy was delivered by Edward Milton Royle, the playwright.

Likens Three Leaders.

"In the last few days," he said, "three great men have died—George F. Baker, mighty business man; Albert Michelson, profound scientist; and David Belasco, master showman, interpreter to the American people of their own emotions. These three men, dissimilar as were their careers, had much in common, I think. All worked hard and derived joy from that work."

Burial was in Ahawath Chesed cemetery, Brooklyn, where one of Belasco's daughters is buried in a tomb in which a flame burns perpetually, because, when a child, she was afraid of the dark.

Counterfeit Money Passed in Southern Illinois Area

Dupuoin, Ill., May 17.—[Special.]—Banks in southern Illinois are being cautioned to be on the lookout for counterfeit gold certificates in ten and twenty dollar denominations which have been passed in this section of the state during the last 48 hours. The counterfeit money is clumsily executed and can be easily detected. The twenty dollar gold certificates bear serial No. K11109, series of 1928, a crude piece of work, while ten dollar gold certificates with serial No. A20797433 come nearer resembling genuine currency.

Boy Killed in Fall from Slide at Armour Park

It was thrilling fun yesterday for Richard Slattery, 6 years old, 3341 Wallace street, to zoom down the slippery slide in Armour Park, 33d street and Shields avenue. Time and time again he coasted down the chute, and again it was his turn for another trip. He climbed to the top, sat down and shoved himself into the slide. He leaned over too far. He toppled to the ground. A policeman picked him up. But Richard was dead. His neck was broken.

TIMOTHY COLE, WOOD ENGRAVER GENIUS, IS DEAD

Got Youthful Training in Chicago.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 17.—[Special.]—Timothy Cole, world famous wood engraver, winner of highest honors in America and Europe for his work, died at his home in Ferris lane here this morning at the age of 79.

Mr. Cole, who had lived here about fifteen years, spent his last few years practically in retirement, but was constantly engaged in his work until last Thanksgiving, when he became ill. Death ended a career that lasted for sixty-five years.

Surving are his widow, the former Annie Elizabeth Carter of Jersey City Heights, N. J., who he married in 1875; three sons, Alpheus of New York and Lucius and Percy of Philadelphia; a brother, Percy, who lives in the province of Saskachewan, Canada, and two grandchildren, Orlando and Elizabeth Cole of Philadelphia.

Funeral Tomorrow.

Although English by birth, Mr. Cole, so far as his career was concerned, belonged to the United States. Born in London in 1852, he was brought to this country by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Skinner Cole, five years later. His youthful period of instruction in his craft was passed in Chicago, where the family had made its home. At that time wood engraving was not the rarity it is today, but the commonest method of producing illustrations for magazines and newspapers.

Suffered in Chicago Fire.

The Chicago fire of 1871 destroyed all of the young engraver's belongings, leaving him with greatly reduced prospects of obtaining work in Chicago. He accordingly came to New York, worked for a time for the magazine Hearth and Home, of which Frank Stockton was one of the editors; the Christian Weekly and the Aldine Press.

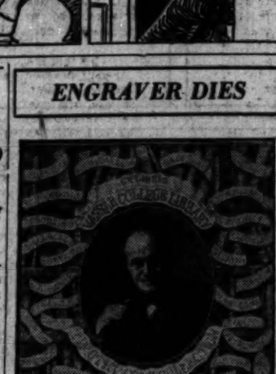
He later made illustrations for Century Magazine and other publications.

Public recognition of the excellence of his work dates at least as far back as 1893, when he received a diploma at the Chicago exposition. He was awarded the gold medal at the Paris exposition of 1900 and the Grand Prix at the St. Louis exposition in 1904, this being the only grand prize given for wood engraving.

Justin McGrath, Veteran Newspaper Man, Dies

Clifton Springs, N. Y., May 17.—(AP)—Justin McGrath, 64, former New York, St. Louis and San Francisco newspaper writer and executive and one time head of the news service for all Hearst newspapers and Universal Service, died at Clifton Springs sanitarium here today.

ENGRAVER DIES



Timothy Cole of New York, recognized as master of wood engraving, and his bookplate, a sample of his art.

AMERICAN WAR MOTHERS PLACE WREATHS IN RAIN

PARIS, May 17.—Fifteen wreaths rest beside fifteen of the 1,534 granite headstones on the slopes of Suresnes as mementoes of the first visit of American Gold Star mothers to the military cemeteries of France this year. The mothers were met in the rain by the chief caretaker and his assistants, armed with huge cotton umbrellas, while a lieutenant called the roll in military fashion.

"Mrs. Anna Morstad," said the lieutenant, and "Grandma" Morstad, aged 78, and the oldest resident of Grand Forks, N. D., was led across the rain drenched lawn. And so it went. The women lingered at the graves so long that the lieutenant apprehensively rushed garden chairs and umbrellas out for each of his charges.

"The army just hasn't forgotten a thing," the mothers said after they had returned to the shelter of a house, where a nurse served coffee and tea. Other parties of mothers will leave for the eastern cemeteries tomorrow. Mrs. J. McAbee of Baltimore was taken to the American hospital at Neuilly today suffering from erysipelas.

LEGION CHARGES BODIES OF VETS ARE DISHONORED

Los Angeles, Cal., May 17.—[U.P.]—The board of supervisors of the General hospital today had under consideration the charges of Carl May, commander of Star post of the American Legion, that bodies of war veterans have been wrongfully dissected and cremated "in violation of their rights to proper burial in regular cemeteries."

May, in a communication to the board, declared he had been so informed and demanded an investigation. He said the bodies of the veterans had been dissected and cremated about one day after death despite the fact that the federal government had made provision for interment of veterans who die without means or relatives to give them proper burial.

The bodies, May said, should have been held three days as required, the federal government being notified at the end of this period that federal interment could be made.

It was anticipated that the allegations, together with those concerning asserted thefts in the hospital, would be turned over to the grand jury which meets May 27.

Dr. Henry J. Prentiss, 63, University of Iowa, Dies

Iowa City, Ia., May 17.—(AP)—Dr. Henry J. Prentiss, 63, head of the department of anatomy in the University of Iowa, died here today of heart disease.

Dr. Prentiss had taught histology and embryology in the University College of Medicine since 1904. He made many contributions to the study of anatomy and wrote frequent magazine articles.

Surviving are three daughters and one son.

Miss Constance Coleman, Writer, Kills Herself

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—Miss Constance L. Coleman, a writer and reputed to have been well to do, killed herself today in her apartment in East 48th street by inhaling gas. She left several notes, in one of which she said she was "tired of life." Writing materials were stocked in her desk. There was also a deed indicating she owned property in Larchmont, a fashionable Westchester country suburb.

BOAT UPSETS; FATHER AND 2 SONS DROWNED

Lansing, Mich., May 17.—Milburn E. Stabler, 37, Lansing coal dealer, and his two sons, Lawrence, 11, and Grenfall, 9, were drowned in Morrison lake near here today when the motor boat Mr. Stabler was piloting capsized. Edward W. Roe, teller of the American State Savings bank, a brother-in-law of Stabler, a fourth passenger in the boat, was rescued by L. E. Phillips, of Grand Rapids.

Mr. Stabler was testing a speed boat that he planned to enter in the motor boat events to be held July 4.

Mrs. Stabler and Mrs. Roe were invited to accompany their husbands in the test, but declined to go.

Youth Drowns as Boat Capsizes.

Evansville, Ind., May 17.—[Special]—Merle Hawkins, 19, of Evansville was drowned in the Ohio river here today while boat riding with two other boys. The boat capsized after striking a steel barge. The body has not been recovered. His two companions were rescued.

Girl and Escort Drowned.

AUDITOR, ILL, ENDS LIFE IN GARAGE FUMES

Despondent over a long illness, Oscar E. Granberg, 55 years old, an auditor, ended his life yesterday by fumes generated by his automobile in the garage in the rear of his home at 7416 Iowa street, River Forest.

In a note addressed to his wife, Mary, Granberg wrote: "You are the best woman in the world, and therefore I am sacrificing my life for you." The letter told of Granberg's belief he was incurably ill, that he could not work and was a hindrance. It also stated where his insurance policy and $400 might be found.

According to the son, Robert, 18 years old, who found the body, Granberg had been unable to work since January.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Ethel Folk Rich; a son, Frank D. Jr.; a daughter, Helen; a sister, Mrs. Leigh Reilly of Chicago, and five brothers, Louis, Ben and William Rich, of Chicago; Evart, of Los Angeles, and Frederick, of Clear Springs, Md.

. . . calls for regular milk drinking!

—and regular milk drinking is made more than ever attractive by "Selected" Milk—famous for its "Sweet Natural Taste."

It is a special milk for drinking and ranks above regular route milk for quality and taste, because extra care is taken in 37 details of production. 105 picked dairy farmers near Lake Geneva, Wis., are paid a substantial bonus for all the extra care and vigilance.

The active child has been called the nearest thing to perpetual motion. To keep up with this constant drain on energy and have something left for growth and development, calls for at least a quart a day . . . the adult needs at least a pint a day to repair waste and keep fit.

Isn't it worth three cents a quart more, mothers and fathers, to make regular milk drinking more attractive in your household?

UNKNOWN WAR DEAD OF AMERICA LISTED AT 1,600

PARIS, May 17.—[U. P.]—Within another year 1,600 war dead of the American army will be definitely listed as unidentified, joining the great legion of "unknown soldiers" whose sacrifices must go unrecorded in the battlefield of France.

For 12 years American army men have been seeking to identify the unknown dead. They were able, through identification of pocket knives, clothing, teeth and trinkets and letters to name hundreds. All of their expert ability has been lost of 1,619 bodies, although there is still a possibility that a few more will be known before the work is discontinued.

Teeth charts have been made of all these "unknown soldiers" so that even years from now there is a bare possibility that one or more may be known. None of the unidentified will be taken home so that the unknown, who lies at Arlington on the hillside overlooking the Potomac, will be the only one in America.

DR. S. W. PARR'S FUNERAL TO BE HELD WEDNESDAY

Urbana, Ill., May 17.—[Special.]—Funeral services for Dr. Samuel Wilson Parr, 74, professor emeritus of applied chemistry at the University of Illinois, who died of heart failure at his home here Saturday night, will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the First Congregational church of Champaign, with the Rev. M. T. Kennedy in charge. Burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery.

Prof. Parr was one of the outstanding figures in the scientific world, being discoverer of the new alloy "illium." He was born in Granville, Ill., Jan. 21, 1857, and was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1884. A year later he received his master's degree in science from Cornell university.

The noted scientist was best known for his Parr peroxide calorimeter, for measuring the heat value of coal and other hydrocarbons. "Illium," an alloy having acid resisting properties, was named for the University of Illinois.

Prof. Parr is survived by a daughter, Mrs. F. W. Marquis, Columbus, O.; a son, H. L. Parr, Oakland, Cal., and two sisters, Miss Alice Parr and Miss Frances Parr, both of Urbana.

WHEAT MARKET INFLUENCED BY MIXED FACTORS

700,000,000 Bushel Crop Possible.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Dutch winter wheat conditions in the southwest with harvesting only a week or two away and a bullish situation in the northwest due to an inadequate supply of moisture alternated in their influences in the wheat markets last week.

Forecasts of rain started selling movements in wheat on nearly every day during the week, but their effect on prices was modified by extremely harvest conditions in the southwest. Private estimates from experts who have been through Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Nebraska during the week suggested a possible crop of 330,000,000 to 350,000,000 bu in the four big states, the largest crop ever raised.

On this basis Kansas is credited with 200,000,000 bu which, it is said, is followed by present acreage and condition. Should nothing happen to do crop in the next thirty days it is believed that there will be more wheat raised west of the Missouri river than was harvested the coming season.

May Raise Huge Crop.

This no injury in the middle west, it would mean that the United States could easily raise 700,000,000 bu or more, compared with 604,000,000 bu last year. The government in May put out suggested 853,000,000 bu. A big winter wheat crop might easily offset the effect of a short spring wheat production and unless Canada has a short crop of spring wheat North America will be able to supply Europe with a large percentage of its requirements.

It is believed by traders that unless conditions in the spring wheat area materially lowered it may be difficult to advance wheat prices materially and maintain them at a higher level. There is a feeling in the trade, however, that with the government going out of business at the end of May, leaving its trade to handle the new crop, that there should be a greatly increased speculative trading in July and the more distant futures. Those who have studied the situation closely express the belief that, until the new crop begins to move in volume and mills and cash handlers load up and raise their holdings of cash wheat by sale of futures, it will be difficult to maintain a higher price level unless there is a decided change in market conditions abroad.

Importing countries have recently made good purchases of wheat, but their buying last week was not as heavy as for several weeks past. Russian conditions are disturbing and it is making liberal shipments.

The United States department of agriculture is out with a new statement as supplies for export and carryover, to the effect that the four principal exporting countries of the world on May 1 had 782,000,000 bu, compared with 611,000,000 bu last year and 701,000,000 bu in 1929. The department estimates that on this basis there would be a sufficient supply for next year regardless of some indications of increased acreage in these countries—United States, Canada, Australia, and Argentina.

What Is to Become of Old Wheat?

One thing that puzzles the trade is the disposition of the government's holding of old wheat. It will have to be sold some time and should there be a good advance in prices it would be no surprise to see considerable quantities of this grain put upon the market. Such a large holding has never been experienced before in the history of the world's speculative markets and it is expected to act as the balance wheel.

Wheat prices are down close to the season's low, but they fail to bring in demand speculative buying as general conditions are not such as to favor such a movement, and nothing but a big calamity, it is believed, would bring a great wave of speculative buying. There are men in the trade who believe in 5c wheat inside of the next six months and they take advantage of all bulges to sell in a moderate way, but no traders are handling large lines, selling of wheat and buying of corn afforded considerable pressure on wheat.

At the close new crop deliveries were off 2¼@3½c and May ⅝c lower for the week. Prices are off 3¼@4⅝c from the week's high and are 33c lower than a year ago, and a drop of

Trade Balance Favorable to Germany Now

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, May 17.—With an export surplus in April of 164,000,000 marks [about $39,350,000, the mark being worth 23.8 cents] including reparation payments in kind, and 126,000,000 marks, excluding those payments, the German trade balance, which has shown an excess of exports over imports without interruption since February, 1930, remained favorable last month.

The April surplus represents a drop of almost 100,000,000 marks, as against the March surplus, but this was caused by a considerable increase in imports necessary to fill up low-running stocks of raw materials.

The total of exports fell off only 42,000,000 marks, as against the March figure, which was less than the usual seasonal drop. This is taken here as an indication that Germany's determined efforts to widen her export markets were successful in April.

The drop in exports from 822,000,000 marks in March to 780,000,000 in April was due primarily to reduced exports of manufactured goods, especially textiles, and, to a smaller extent, raw materials, though foodstuffs, notably potatoes, showed an increase.

The rise in imports from 604,000,000 marks in March to 654,000,000 in April was due particularly to an increase in the imports of wool, and, to a certain extent, cotton, the only branches where active buying was observed. On the whole, indications of a revival of import trade are still entirely missing.

The drop in textile exports and the increase in imports of textile raw materials are regarded as merely temporary. The textile industries exhausted their stocks during the March boom.

STOCKHOLDERS GROW IN NUMBER DURING SLUMP

The depression has helped make big business more the game of the man with modest means, Allard Smith, executive vice president of the Union Trust company of Cleveland, asserts in a study he has just completed. Furthermore, Smith said, the man with modest means has become wiser.

As a result, business today rests on a foundation much broader than in the days before the depression, putting it into a better position to advance when some of its difficulties are ironed out.

He based this statement on his discovery that 100 of the leading corporations in the country had increased the number of its stockholders from 5,264,936 in 1929 to 6,132,319 in 1930, giving 868,383 more people a voice in industrial affairs. The gain is about 16 per cent.

He said this splitting of shareholding indicates a "realization on the part of business of the safety which lies in widespread stock ownership."

It was found by the Cleveland banker that a number of well known corporations reported that a majority of their stockholders had holdings of less than 100 shares each.

Nineteen public utility corporations added 290,984 stockholders to their list of 1,306,055; four metal manufacturing companies added 21,516 to make a total of 245,619; four of the largest banks showed a gain of 59,408 to make a total of 186,284.

Disagrees with Policies, Resigns from Mill Firm

F. F. Stafford, president of the Cleveland Worsted Mills company, has announced his resignation, saying he had disagreed with the policies of the board of directors. The company is one of the largest of its kind in the country. It is capitalized at $20,000,000.

Seen Key to Future Prosperity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 17.—A paragraph in the annual report of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey for 1930 contained a reference to diversification which, in the view of some observers, may hold the key to the future prosperity of the oil industry. This paragraph outlined efforts of the Standard Oil Development company to develop new uses for petroleum products, citing that the company had filed 163 patent applications in the United States and 190 applications abroad in 1930.

The report mentioned the work of the development company in improving refining methods and perfecting different forms of equipment.

"In research studies looking to improvement of existing products and the development of new products, particularly from refinery residues and the relatively low value fractions of the crude oil, are going forward," continued the report.

Should Aid Business.

"While gasoline, lubricating oils, asphalts, kerosene, gas and fuel oils will continue to be the major products, related lines of merchandise specialties and other products from crude oil and natural gas should, through research activities, assume increasing importance, such correlated diversification should promote stabilization and growth of the company's business."

The remarks on research in the report were in line with a tendency of the petroleum industry to stress the importance of the chemical field. This tendency, instanced by M. C. Teagle, president of New Jersey Standard, in a previous annual report, is most clearly shown in the development of the hydrogenation process. This process, developed by German chemists, makes it possible to produce high grade gasoline from low grade stock fed to stills.

Other Firms' Products.

New Jersey Standard was a pioneer in developing by-products from petroleum. It has embarked on the production of methyl alcohol as a by-product and it has built up a substantial package trade in such merchandise as cosmetics, insecticide and medicinal oil.

Other companies in the Standard group have made similar efforts. Standard of Indiana and Standard of California make medicinal oil and the latter company makes a cleaning fluid. Companies other than the Jersey Standard in the Standard group and some independents have found an outlet for their products in the manufacture of insecticide.

World Coffee Conference Opens at Sao Paulo, Brazil

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAO PAULO, Brazil, May 17.—The second international coffee conference, participated in by thirteen nations, opened here today. The United States has three delegates. In the opening address Dr. Augusto Ramos said the coffee problem must be solved similarly to the sugar problem, which was recently settled by a conference of nations.

CHICAGO BUSINESS IMPROVES DURING WEEK OF JUBILEE

Chicago business, stimulated by the activities of the city's Jubilee celebration, displayed a decided upward trend last week in certain lines and less pronounced acceleration in others, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The ones that benefited most directly from spending done by the huge crowds that thronged the city were the transportation companies, restaurants, hotels, and retail and wholesale mercantile firms. Practically all business leaders agreed, however, that one of the principal results of the Jubilee has been the establishment in the public's mind of a more optimistic view of future business trends.

Restaurants and hotels with dining and lunch rooms experienced heavy business all week. Surface, elevated and suburban lines operated at capacity to transport the crowds that converged in the loop for the various Jubilee events.

Wholesale mercantile firms, most of which made special promotional sales efforts in connection with the Jubilee, enjoyed good business. Out of town buyers were here during the week in unusually large numbers. Retail merchants, offering unusual bargains as Jubilee attractions, were unable to definitely determine what part of their heavy business was due to Jubilee visitors and what portion to price inducements.

Elsewhere in the general Chicago business picture markets maintained a quiet trend. Contemplated Chicago building projects are being announced regularly, but actual construction work still is comparatively low.

Wool Futures Exchange Opens in New York Today

New York, May 17.—(AP)—Trading in wool top futures will be inaugurated by the Wool Associates of the New York Cotton Exchange tomorrow. Following the opening ceremonies at 11:45 a. m., a call will be conducted and trading will begin. At the outset trading will be confined to deliveries in the eight months from September to April, inclusive, and will be based on a contract for future delivery of 5,000 pounds of wool.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL IS AUTHORIZED TO REMOVE 3 TRAINS

Three Illinois Central trains, operated at a heavy financial loss and replaced by motor transportation, will be discontinued under authority of an order issued by the Illinois commerce commission.

These trains are: No. 517 between Clinton and St. Louis via Springfield; and No. 534 from St. Louis to Springfield, which after a 3 hour stop-over in Springfield proceeds to Clinton as No. 502.

The company told the commission that it and four other railroads and three motor bus lines operate numerous other trains and motor buses daily through the territory affected, all in direct competition with each other. These carriers amply meet all traffic needs in that territory, the railroad maintained.

Durante Purchases Plane Co. Assets to Form Merger

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 17.—A. A. Durante of New York, representing stockholders of the American Eagle Aircraft corporation, has purchased the assets of the corporation for the purpose of completing a contemplated merger of the company and the Lincoln Aircraft Company, Inc., it is announced. A receiver was appointed for American Eagle last March, following the filing of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy. A new company, the American Eagle-Lincoln Aircraft corporation, has been incorporated in Delaware with an authorized capitalization of 500,000 shares of no par common stock, the company will be the parent company resulting from the merger, it is expected.

State, Municipal Awards to Total $46,641,048

New York, May 17.—(AP)—New state and municipal bonds scheduled for award this week total $46,641,048, compared with $63,832,922 last week and the weekly average of $39,319,819 for the year to date, the Bond Buyer reports. Detroit, Mich., has invited tenders on Monday for $19,337,000 improvement bonds, for which bidders are asked to name the interest rate at not exceeding 4½ per cent. Tuesday Newark, N. J., will consider bids for $10,605,000 4 per cent improvement bonds.

Way Being Cleared for Big Canadian Newsprint Merger

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 17.—By meeting the price cuts of Canadian newsprint makers rather than cutting rates for paper below those of its competitors, the International Paper company acted with the intention of stabilizing the situation and of leaving the door open for coöperation and, if possible, consolidation, it is said by an executive of the International company.

A further indication that a general or partial merger of newsprint companies operating in Canada is hoped for is to be found in the six year plan announced by the International. Until Dec. 31, 1936, the company announced, the maximum price for newsprint will be $62 a ton and the average price will be $59 a ton, delivered at New York, comparing with the old price of $62 and the new price of $57 a ton asked by leading companies.

Will Be Big Factor.

This statement as to the average and maximum prices to be asked is construed in financial circles as guaranteeing to publishers that, in the event of a consolidation, the newsprint producers will not seek to artificially inflate the price for paper. Because of its position in the industry, International Paper will be a dominant factor in any general merger of Canadian companies.

Merger discussions have taken on a twofold character, with the Chase National bank of New York and the Bank of Montreal partaking of the rôle of sponsors for a consolidation program.

Chief executives of the Canadian institution have been in touch with dominion and provincial officials and Canadian newsprint executives frequently in the last ten days.

The present status, according to observers here, is that Canadian bankers are attempting to bring Canada Power and Paper, Abitibi Power and Paper and the St. Lawrence corporation into agreement on a merger program.

Make Appraisal Tour.

Executives of International, who have just returned to New York City from a tour of appraisal and inspection of Minnesota and Ontario paper properties, have brought with them sufficient data upon which to base merger discussions, which are expected to commence soon.

If understandings can be reached separately by the two groups and definite agreements drawn up, it will be a comparatively simple matter for the bankers and executives to bring them together for a general merger, it was said, inasmuch as the final negotiations would be between two parties instead of five companies. Even if this strategy does not succeed, it is the feeling here that even a reduction in the number of principal Canadian competitors from six to three—Price Brothers & Co., Ltd., being the other large interests—much will have been accomplished to solve the problem of surplus capacity in the Canadian newsprint industry.

ADVISES TIGHTER CREDIT CONTROL IN RETAIL FIELD

A credit policy that works best in the long run is a human policy, Edward Plaut, president of Lehn & Fink, Inc., asserts. At the same time, to discourage unfit newcomers in the retail field, he said, stricter acceptance of credit by manufacturers and wholesalers today is particularly necessary with business conditions as they are.

"Credit is not all facts and figures," Mr. Plaut said. "It has human elements, for its basis is a man or men. Credit analysis consequently should give consideration to creditors who are hard pressed and need sympathy and help to pull them through their difficulties. Bearing this in mind, we can use credit to encourage and to build promising merchants.

"There are too many inefficient, untrained retailers getting into business through encouragement from many manufacturers. Anxiety for new outlets leads some manufacturers to stock new stores without sufficient investigation. These storekeepers are difficult to build into good retailers. Stricter credit investigations of these weak merchants will go a long way in improving business conditions and discouraging predatory price cutters."

Approve Plans for Merger of Light and Tube Firms

Plans for a merger have been approved by the boards of directors of he Hygrade Lamp Company of Salem, Mass., and the Sylvania Products company and the Nilco Lamp Works, Inc., both of Emporium, Pa. Recommendations of these boards will be put before the stockholders for official ratification soon. Combined sales of these companies amounted to approximately nine million dollars last year. The Emporium and Salem units each manufacture incandescent lamp bulbs and radio tubes.

BUYING ON TIME PROVES RIGHT TO SURVIVE — KLEIN

Washington, D. C., May 17.—(AP)—The American development of installment plan sales was held tonight by Assistant Secretary Klein of the commerce department to have created no economic danger.

In a radio address Dr. Klein said: "As a system it has now been put under the most grilling tests by a world business depression of almost unparalleled intensity and it has demonstrated its right to survive."

"This is one of the bright spots in the business picture today," he continued. "So long as reasonable business precautions are being taken we can abandon our concern over the future of industries which have associated their operation so closely with installment selling.

"We can also set aside the assertions as to danger from the burden of installment debt. The purchasers, on the whole, have demonstrated their ability to take care of it during a difficult business period when unemployment was rife."

FACTS DISCLOSE FIRM POSITION OF U. S. BUSINESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 17.—When the ill-fated speculation of 1928 and 1929 was at its height no one could escape Wall street's insistent explanation that no such combination of influences making for a rise had ever before existed.

Since there was no parallel in history for the "good points" of the situation, therefore no precedent of previous "bull speculation" that had broken down had any application to the existing rise. Just now we seem to be favored with the obverse of that reasoning. Whereas the oracles of that day impressed on the public mind the fact that the "boom" was more soundly based than any that had ever preceded it, so today we are informed, even from important quarters, that no reaction in history has ever been so severe as this or so lacking in light on the question, what will be the end of it.

If this is a correct view of the situation it behooves us to examine all its implications. If, on the other hand, it reflects a present mood which presents the antithesis of the exaggerated enthusiasm of two years ago, then there is quite as much need for sober and intelligent judgment as there was in 1929.

Invites Comparison.

The contention that the present episode of financial reaction and depression is the worst that this country and the world have ever experienced—and some of the oracles seem to go as far as that—invites comparison with 1893 and 1873. With all the present difficulties in the United States, the comparison is vastly less fruitful in disheartening analogies than in reassuring contrasts. Each of these earlier occasions was marked by seemingly complete collapse of the American credit structure. In each the American market, immensely in debt to Europe, had to face the strain of panicky drafts on our capital and gold; the American banking system broke down helplessly. Some of the strongest banks in the country went into immediate insolvency; all of them had to suspend cash payments for a time.

On both occasions failures of powerful mercantile and manufacturing establishments followed one another swiftly within a few months of the

As in commodities, so also in bonds—the quality varies. Prices for quality bonds are usually higher, their yield somewhat less liberal, than for speculative issues.

But a liberal return can be secured without buying speculative issues. A carefully prepared plan of diversification in investing funds brings as its reward a satisfactory rate of income. This is the safer, surer method.

It is the reason that yield alone is not considered a guidepost, by the careful investor.

With a background of over forty years of conservative counsel to investors, The Northern Trust Company is well qualified to assist in preparing and carrying out sound investment programs.

To this end you are invited to confer with an executive of the Bond Department, either here at the bank, or, by appointment, in your own office.

FACTS DISCLOSE STRONG POSITION OF U. S. BUSINESS

Previous Depressions Far Worse than in 1930.

ages. Immediately before and immediately after the crash of 1893 a long list of railways went into receivership, among them such companies as the Union Pacific, the Atchison and the Northern Pacific; in the single year the capitalization of such unfortunate companies footed up $1,781,-000,000.

Treasury Is Shaken.

The United States treasury was so far shaken by the storm in 1894 that it was paying its bills with the gold reserved by law to redeem the paper currency and facing failure of its public loan offerings and possible lapse to the silver standard. In 1874 it was beginning to revert to fiat money. What the labor and unemployment situation was, with Chicago terminals added in 1894 by the Railway union and with regular infantry called out in the second to put down the Pittsburgh railway riots is a matter of history.

These were not pleasant chapters in our history. They may profitably be recalled, however, by way of contrast with the strong and compact American banking system of today, an economic world position so powerful that our reserve banks are actually moving to divert from America the incoming tide of gold, our public credit absolutely unbenched by the revenue deficit and our great corporations, a year and a half after the Wall street crash, facing the period of decreased earnings, if not with agreeable sentiments at least with composure as to the result.

Effect in Europe.

In the case of Europe the contrasts with clear periods of depression are for obvious reasons less impressive. In Europe the crisis of 1929 and the last year's fall in staple prices came on an economic organism which was still in process of recovery from the disastrous effects of the war. London and Berlin of 1930 were not, so far as concerned their position of economic power and prestige, the London and Berlin which sustained the shock of 1907 in 1893, or 1873.

This was largely a result, however, of the transfer of the rôle of world banker and central reservoir of capital from Europe to America. Europe today made up for the most part of debtor countries on international account having naturally had to suffer much of the acute distress which prevailed in America for the same reason.

In the older periods of depression, in the nineties and the seventies, business recovery did not begin until there had given the signal and had actually turned its own accumulated energy into the industries and the money market of prostrate America. In light of the present world situation points to a similar sequence of events on the present occasion, but this time with the initiative and the recovery help provided to Europe by America.

This new chapter of world finance may be expected to begin when our own industries shall have adjusted themselves [as they presently will do] to the changed conditions, and shall have regained the confidence in our own powerful economic position which is always temporarily shaken in a "liquidation period."

Steel Co. Starts Work on $2,000,000 Pipe Line

The Sweet company, through its subsidiary the Missouri Valley Gas company, has started construction of a $2,-000,000 gathering and delivering system for its natural gas properties in the Hugoton field, southwest Kansas. The system will have a total length of 70 miles and will gather gas from the 8 wells of the Sweet company in this field for delivery to the 300 mile line of Northern Natural Gas company, now nearing completion.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

According to a statement which has just been issued by W. G. Zaenglein, domestic sales manager of the Monroe Calculating Machine Company, Inc., of Orange, N. J., the volume of orders received by that company in April was considerably in excess of those for March, so that there has been a steady gain each month during this year, as the March business exceeded February's and that in turn showed an increase over January.

Fifty-one chain store companies, including three mail order concerns, showed April sales of $324,093,443, a decrease of 3.39 per cent from $345,-000,000 for the corresponding month last year, a compilation by Merrill, Lynch & Co. shows. Excluding the mail order houses, 48 chain stores showed sales of $281,617,946, a decrease of 1.87 per cent.

Fairly steady buying of chemicals in the spot market and the tendency of many consumers to take on stocks only as needed rather than to commit themselves to long term purchases, mark developments of the last month in heavy chemical markets, Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering reports. Conversely, contract movements have failed to attain the tonnage reported in previous years.

Statistics show that baking has risen from tenth to second place among food industries, Joseph Wilson, president of Standard Brands, Inc., said.

Goodyear Tire & Rubber company, a subsidiary of Canadian Hydro-Electric corporation, Ltd., reports that consumption of electric energy for lighting and appliance use in March was 17 per cent greater than that in March last year. This increase is greater than in either of the two preceding months this year over the corresponding months of last year.

American Air Transport lines flew 1,201,814 miles in the first three months of this year, compared with 1,000,000 miles in the first quarter of 1930, a copyright report issued by the International Chamber of Commerce of America shows. Express poundage showed 229 per cent and air mail poundage 15 per cent.

Corn Disappoints Its Friends.

Corn gave evidence of doing better early in the week with good purchases by one of the largest operators who has been friendly to the market all season. A moderate bulge brought selling by scattered holders of sufficient volume to depress prices 4@5c with the close at practically the week's low, establishing a new low mark for December, which dropped to 49¼c on Saturday, and closed there, while the finish on May was 54¼c. WHEAT NATIONS TO OPEN PARLEY IN LONDON TODAY.

LONDON, May 17.—(AP)—Samuel McKelvie will tell of the American farm board's efforts to aid the United States wheat growers when he addresses representatives of eleven exporting countries who will meet here tomorrow to discuss the world wheat situation.

Mr. McKelvie will make one of the first speeches at the conference, but it has not been announced when he will be called on. The American delegation, which includes Milo Olsen, department of agriculture expert, will be present as observers.

McKelvie will outline his country's efforts at stabilization of wheat prices to aid the delegates in their attempts to deal with the wheat situation. However, it is understood that he will not insist upon the plan being used as a model by the other nations.

Since Canada called the conference other delegates are remaining silent about any plans they may have to place before the meeting. It is believed the corner stone of any agreement that may be reached will embody rigid reduction of wheat acreage.

ALLIS-CHALMERS ADDS NEW LINES BY EASTERN DEAL

Acquisition by Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company of the electrical divisions of America Brown Boveri company, negotiations for which are now in progress, will give Allis-Chalmers several new products.

The principal products to be acquired are mercury arc rectifiers, electric furnaces, switch gear and traction equipment, blowers and compressors. A tentative contract has been made with the Brown Boveri company of Baden, Switzerland, by which Allis-Chalmers will have the exclusive use of their patents and new developments pertaining to these particular lines.

CONGRESS TO SEE NEW DRIVE ON BOARD OF TRADE

Capper Bill Will Be Reintroduced.

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—A renewed attempt to extend government control over the Chicago Board of Trade and all grain futures exchanges is to be made at the next session of congress and will precipitate another crisis in the constant struggle between bureaucracy and the supporters of government centralization on the one hand and the grain traders and the advocates of unhampered private initiative on the other.

Business has just finished voicing its point of view in the resolution passed at the recently concluded convention of the international chamber of commerce. In that resolution outside interference with grain exchanges, specifically the interference of government, was denounced.

But, undismayed by the warning of business, the movement to enthrone the government in a ruling position over the grain markets goes emphatically forward.

Foremost among the legislative vehicles seeking to convey the wanted control into law will be a bill sponsored by Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.] modeled much after the one which he introduced at the recent session.

Has Hyde's Backing.

The last Capper grain futures bill was made the subject of hearings before the senate committee on agriculture, but go no farther. It had the approval, and support of Secretary Hyde and the department of agriculture.

The coming Capper bill, according to the latest word from the senator, will be a slightly modified copy of its predecessor, and it, too, is virtually assured of Mr. Hyde's and the department's backing.

The department of agriculture wants its present limited powers over futures exchanges strengthened to a point where the secretary of agriculture will be a virtual dictator over the conduct of the grain market.

What is sought by the department may be summarized as follows:

To prescribe and hold the veto power over the rules of public exchanges; to prescribe and change at will the grades of grain; to hold authority over the delivery of grain; to limit the amount of futures which may be dealt in by any individual or broker; to have supervision over all warehouses; and to do away entirely with deferred acceptances, or, as they are variously known, privileges, or puts and calls.

Broadens Official Control.

This is considered a long step, particularly by those engaged in the trade, from the degree of control the secretary of agriculture now enjoys. His present powers embrace the right to a daily report from all exchanges of deals involving a certain number of bushels or more; the right to pass on rules before an exchange can be designated as a contract market, but not the right to veto subsequent changes in rules; and the right, under the coöperative section of the law, to see that accredited coöperatives are granted membership privileges.

Compared, however, with the wishes of the radical bloc in congress, the desires of the department of agriculture strike a middle course. The congressional radicals would do away with futures trading altogether. The department, as explained by J. W. T. Duvel, chief of the grain futures administration, wishes futures trading to continue, but to be limited.

Dealing in futures, Mr. Duvel believes, facilitates trading, and makes it possible for the farmer to market his grain on a smaller margin Hedging operations, he explains, are a legitimate form of insurance.

But, he goes on, some form of limitation is necessary in order to curb excessive speculation on the part of a few individual traders.

Industrial Operations in April in Fair Position

April industrial operations, while receding somewhat from the rate of February and March, continued above midwinter conditions by a wider margin than in 1930 and by fully as great a one as in the spring of 1929, Electrical World reports in its monthly survey of electrical energy consumption in 2,000 manufacturing plants scattered throughout the country. Activity last month was 2 per cent less than in March and 12 per cent under April, 1930.

5 PERSONAL FINANCE FIRMS TO BE MERGED IN $20,000,000 DEAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 17.—Five personal finance companies, with combined resources of approximately $20,000,000, will be merged into a new company, the Franklin Plan Corporation of Delaware, it was announced today.

The merger, which will create the third largest personal finance company in the United States, will embrace the present Franklin Plan corporation, National Cash Credit association, American Cash Credit association, Franklin Thrift and Loan Association of America, and Franklin Plan Company of America. Directors of these companies have already approved the merger plans. Stockholders of the respective companies will vote on the proposal on June 10.

The new Franklin Plan corporation, upon completion of the merger, will have a capitalization consisting of 200,000 shares of $50 par value, 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, and 2c.,000 shares of common stock, without par value. Outstanding loans will aggregate between $12,000,000 and $14,000,000.

George S. Groves, one of the organizers and former general manager of the First Industrial Bankers, Inc., will be president of Franklin Plan corporation. The corporation will control 101 loan offices in fourteen states and will maintain executive offices in Philadelphia and Baltimore. The statement issued by the companies said that the merger was expected to result in important administrative economies.

GILT EDGE ISSUES PROVE FEATURE OF BOND MARKET

Demand Keen for Short Term Flotations.

New York, May 17.—(Special)—Probably the most significant fact of the bond market last week was its two-sided movement.

Striking evidence of the persistent demand for issues of gilt edge standing appeared in a number of instances. United States Liberty and Treasury issues achieved successive new peak prices. Most of the high grade corporation obligations either reached high records or held within slight fractions of them. The even stronger demand for such bonds of short terms was evident in the sale of $52,000,000 of the new corporate stock of the City of New York, which was publicly subscribed within a few minutes, and upon which interest cost to the city was the lowest in thirty-one years.

This sale emphasizes further the concentration of the demand for ultra high grade bonds. Of the $50,289,000 of new bonds floated last week, $53,000,000, including the New York issue, were state and municipal obligations.

Pay Close Attention.

The quick success of the New York City flotation preceded a general advance in municipal obligations in the over-the-counter market. Financial centers of other cities and states shared in the operation closely and it is expected that many of them will follow suit in the near future. Some $12,888,000 in bonds were authorized by the elections last November but only a small part of them have been sold.

The movement of issues of second grade or speculative rating was not so pronounced. Intermittent weakness appeared among them and some reached new low levels. These cross currents are reflected in the average prices. The Standard Statistics average price of ten representative bonds each of 100 utilities, industrials and railroads stood at 85.1 compared with 85.2 at the end of the previous week.

Compare Unfavorably.

Earnings reports as a whole continue to compare unfavorably with corresponding periods of last year. The annual reports of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Consolidated Gas and Electric corporation, and the quarterly reports of the New York Central Railroad company and the Marshall corporation, all of which are unfavorable, contributed to the depression of the situation, especially as these companies are all important units in their respective fields.

The reductions in the acceptance rates of the federal reserve banks on Wednesday, making the fourth reduction in three weeks, was another step in the plan to make money rates as low as possible as a business and bond market boon. The effects of these reductions and the lowered rediscount rates of the New York and other federal reserve banks have not had widespread effects as yet, but such factors do not always exert their influence immediately.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally advertised Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate approximately one-third less than the rate permitted by the Small Loan Law.

The only signatures required are those of husband and wife.
